BILL FOR 3% BEER OFFERED IN ALBANY FINDS FEW FRIENDS

Republican Senate Measure Is Aimed Against Drinking in Saloons and Restaurants.

'WETS' AND 'DRYS' OPPOSE IT

JERSEY MAY DEFEAT 'DRYS'

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 10.—A "liberal" prohibition enforcement bill, which would legalize the manufacture and sale in this State of beer containing not in excess of 3 per cent. of alcohol for home consumption, was introduced tonight by Senator J. Henry Walters of Syracuse, President pro tem. and Republican leader of the Senate. The bill proposes to abolish the saloon and not even to permit 3 per cent. been being served with meals in hotels.

It was evolved after conferences in which the Democratic leaders of the Legislature were not invited to participate. Statements made by the latter tonight do not indicate any wholehearted support by the Democratic minority in the Senate and Assembly for the Walters bill, which does not go far enough in its "liberal" construction of the Federal prohibition amendment to meet their views.

Even the Republicans are said to be somewhat divided regarding the wisdom of enacting the bill. It had been expected that Assemblyman George R. Fearon of Syracuse would introduce the bill in the lower house, but Mr. Fearon said tonight that he would have nothing to do with it, and indications are that the bill will not be introduced in the Assembly at all. Speaker Sweet also disclaimed responsibility for it.

"I am not familiar with the provisions of the Walters bill, and do not care to comment on the measure at all," said the Speaker tonight.

When the conferences of those promoting the liberal enforcement bill began the plan was to include in its provisions one that would sanction the traffic in light wines. There is an extensive wine industry in Western New York. The omission of any such provision in the measure as introduced led Senator Walters to say:

"There has been a great demand for a definition which would permit the sale of light wines. Light wines contain from 8 to 10 per cent. alcohol, and a definition providing that such a liquor is not intoxicating might be held unreasonable by the courts. The limit is placed at 3 per cent. in this bill because that is believed to be reasonable."

The Walters bill defines as liquor "all distilled or rectified spirts, wine, fermented, and malt liquors containnig at least one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol." Intoxicating liquor is defined as "liquors containing more than 3 per cent. of alcohol." Non-intoxicating beverages, according to the bill, include "liquors containing not more than 3 per cent. of alcohol by weight, and used, or intended to be used, for beverage purposes."

The term "trafficking in liquor" is somewhat obscurely defined as "the sale of less than five gallons of liquor, or sale of five gallons or more of liquor in which less than five gallons of any one kind of liquor is included."

The regulation of such liquor traffic as the bill would sanction is vested in the States Excise Department, which will retain virtually all of its present machinery. Liquor dealers will be taxed a rate of $50 a year; druggists dispensing liquor on physicians' prescriptions in lots not to exceed one pint and with only one sale on each prescription will be taxed $10 a year. In addition there will be a stamp tax of fifty cents a barrel on liquor containing not in excess of 3 per cent. of alcohol. On liquor containing from 3 to 14 per cent. there will be a stamp tax of ten cents a gallon; on liquor containing from 14 to 21 per cent. twenty cents a gallon, and on liquor containing in excess of 21 per cent, thirty cents a gallon.

The bill permits the preparation and sale of flavoring extracts, essences, perfumes, drugs and medicines which contain no more alcohol than is necessary for the legitimate purposes of extraction, solution or preservation and which contain drugs in a sufficient quantity to medicate such compounds.

A provision is embodied permitting the purchase of liquor for sacramental and other necessary non-beverage purposes under the strictest regulations and supervision.

By a companion bill, also introduced by Senator Walters, the provisions of the local option law, both in cities and the rural districts, are preserved. Any territory which is now "dry" will continue to be so, and even nonintoxicating beverages cannot be sold therein.

That the Walters bill will be exposed to the fire of both friends and foes of prohibition is clearly indicated by the spirit in which it was received tonight. The saloon keepers and liquor dealers have been contending for a bill that would permit traffic in 5 per cent. beer and beverages containing up to 15 per cent. of alcohol at least. The hotel men and restaurateurs who have raised a big fund to fight a strict interpretation and enforcement of the Federal prohibition amendment will find little solace in any measure that does not permit the sale of wines, or which, as

Calls for Investigation of High Rents in New York

ALBANY, N. Y., March 10.—An investigation into the causes for increased price of rents in cities of the first class, especially New York, by a joint Legislative Committee was called for in a resolution introduced tonight by Senator Peter A. Abeles, Republican of the Bronx. The resolution requested an appropriation of $10,000, and was referred to the Finance Committee.

FIND AN OBSTACLE TO ROAD FINANCING

Lack of Securities Available for Collateral Faces Government and Bankers.

CONFERENCE TODAY LIMITED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—As a preliminary to the conference to be held tomorrow by Director General Hines of the Railroad Administration, prominent bankers and railroad officials, at which time the financial status of the roads will be reviewed, the Director General held a conference today with Eugene Meyer, Jr., and other members of the War Finance Corporation.

The corporation has about $375,000,000, of which, it is practically certain, part will be used for relieving the deficit the Railroad Administration faces as a result of the La Follette-Sherman-France filibuster, which prevented the passage of the $750,000,000 appropriation asked for by Director General Hines. It is understood that some question has arisen as to the amount the corporation can lend to the Railroad Administration. The loans must be based upon securities of a certain value. Just what railroad stocks may be accepted as security must be ascertained, and the worth of the various stocks will no doubt be discussed at the meeting tomorrow.

It was denied at the Railroad Administration tonight that many bankers would be present at the meeting tomorrow. The majority of the men present, it was said, would be from the railroads. In some instances, however, the railroads will be represented by men who handle the financial rather than the operating side of their affairs. The majority of the railway men present will be members of the Standing Committee of the Railway Executives.

Bankers Await Developments.

Developments in the railroad finance situation took a new turn yesterday when it became known that the conference scheduled for today at Washingtotn would be attended only by Director General Hines and others of the Railroad Administration and representatives of the railroads, the bankers who were expected to attend being absent.

Just when the bankers will see Mr. Hines is not known. They are ready to make whatever advances are necessary as soon as they know what they are lending on. But just now, according to financial experts, the railroads, or most of them, have nothing to pledge for collateral, and the Railroad Administration, pending legislation, is no better off.

The crux of the matter, it was explained, lies in the fact that of a total of 171 Class A railroads, only about forty-five have come to terms with the Railroad Administration. The others are still arguing with the Administration over terms and conditions, and more than a few are said to be very far from an agreement.

One prominent banker said he would be willing to make considerable advances to railroads if he could be sure he would be repaid by the Railroad Administration. This banker thought the Railroad Administration should give assurances that loans arranged at this time would be recognized officially as binding obligations.

The assertion made in some quarters that the War Finance Corporation is abundantly able to take care of the railroads is not generally accepted by bankers. It is pointed out that the corporation, under the law, must receive collateral for whatever advances it makes, and it is said there is grave doubt as to the corporation's power to make advances, under any conditions, to the railroads on account of rental money owed by the Government. The corporation, however, is expected to play an important and useful part in financing the purchase of equipment. The matter of reallocating equipment ordered by the Railroad Administration, incidentally, is likely to be brought up at today's conference.

Bankers still say that as soon as the railroad muddle is cleared up there will be no trouble in raising whatever funds are necessary. Whether this will be done by means of a national pool, or attended to by several groups of bankers, is a detail. Railroad men seem to favor the national pool idea.

The railroad men who are to attend today's conference include Samuel Rea, Howard Elliott, R. M. Lovett, Daniel Willard, Julius Kruttschnitt, S. T. Bledsoe, and A. P. Thom.

EXTREMISTS HERE PLAN A REVOLT TO SEIZE POWER

I. W. W. LEADS PROPAGANDA

Anarchists, Radical Socialists, and Socialists Uniting for a Bolshevist Republic.

COL. ROBINS HEARD AGAIN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—That the I. W. W. anarchists, Radical Socialists and other groups of extreme views are combining with the object of overthrowing the American Government through a "bloody revolution," and establishing a Bolshevist republic, was disclosed by a memorandum from Solicitor General Lamar of the Post Office Department, which was read into the records at the session this afternoon of the Senate Propaganda Committee, by Major Hume, counsel to the committee.

The memorandum prefaced something like a hundred excerpts from publications seized in the mails since the signing of the armistice, and it read:

"These excerpts will readily convey to you the forceful activities of these organizations and the methods they advocated to accomplish the object of their purposes.

"This propaganda is being conducted with such regularity that its magnitude can be measured only by the bold and outspoken statements contained in these publications and the efforts made therein to inaugurate a nation-wide reign of terror and overthrow of the Government.

"In classifying these papers they are submitted in their major or general class as follows: I. W. W., anarchists, Radical Socialists, and Socialists. It will be seen from these excerpts, and it is indeed significant, that this is the first time in the history of the so-called radical movement in the United States that these radical elements have found a common cause (Bolshevism), in which they can all unite. The I. W. W., anarchists, Socialistic radical and otherwise, in fact all dissatisfied elements, particularly the foreign elements, are perfecting an amalgamation with one object, and one object only in view, namely, the overthrow of the Government of the United States by means of a bloody revolution and the establishment of a Bolshevist republic.

I. W. W. the Most Dangerous.

"The organization of the Industrial Workers of the World is perhaps most actively engaged in spreading this propaganda and has at its command a large field force known as recruiting agents, subscription agents, lecturers, &c., who work unceasingly in the furtherance of 'the cause.' This organization also publishes at least five newspapers in the English language and nine in foreign languages.

"It is the announced intention of this organization to publish their literature in practically every foreign language spoken in the United States, to change their monthly magazines into weeklies, their weeklies into dailies.

"In a recent issue of one of these publications there appears a notice to the effect that beginning in March a publication in the Chinese language will be published in New York, in the interests of the Chinese I. W. W., who have recently been organized.

"It will be seen from the foregoing that this organization will be able by this method to reach every foreign element in the United States and by means of its propaganda to weld them into one big 'revolutionary' unit.

"It also appears that the Socialists have joined the Bolshevist movement and are using the party organization to further the cause, and this will be seen from the various excerpts from socialistic publications.

"The anarchistic class, already outside the pale of the law, are to be found among the stanchest supporters of Bolshevism and have eagerly seized this opportunity to join forces with other radicals and overthrow the Government."

Attached to the memorandum was the following list of English and foreign language publications said to be conducted and published by the I. W. W.:

The New Solidarity, English, weekly, Chicago; One Big Union, English, monthly, Chicago; Industrial Unionist, English, weekly, Seattle; California Defense Bulletin, English, weekly, San Francisco; The Rebel Worker, English, bi-monthly, New York; La Neuva Solidaridad, Spanish, weekly, Chicago; Golos Truzenta, Russian, weekly, Chicago; Li Nuovo Proletario, Italian, weekly, Chicago; Nya Varlden, Swedish, weekly, Chicago; Der Industrialer Arbeiter, Jewish, weekly, Chicago; Probuda, Bulgarian, weekly, Chicago; A. Fels Badulas, Hungarian, weekly, Chicago; Loukkataistelu, Finnish, monthly, New York.

This list comprises only the official papers of the I. W. W. and does not take into account the large number of

Wilson Recovers from Cold; Ship to Reach Brest Thursday

ON BOARD THE U. S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON, March 10, (by Wireless to The Associated Press.)—President Wilson this afternoon appeared to have entirely recovered from the cold from which he had been suffering. The President walked about the ship and also played shuffle-board on deck with Mrs. Wilson.

During the day President Wilson received several messages from Colonel E. M. House regarding the development of the Peace Conference and the program which has been arranged after the President's arrival in France. To the messages President Wilson sent replies.

The President also received a wireless dispatch from the Mayor of Brest expressing a desire to extend him a welcome on behalf of the municipality of Brest on the arrival of the George Washington. To this dispatch President Wilson wired an acceptance, but asked that the ceremonies be as brief and informal as possible, saying he desired to proceed immediately to Paris.

The George Washington is maintaining good speed. The steamer is expected to arrive at Brest between 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock in the evening of Thursday.

HYLAN PUTS STOP TO OPERA IN GERMAN

Forces Management to Cancel Plans, Following Protest by Soldiers and Sailors.

VETERANS VISIT CITY HALL

The soldiers and sailors in New York yesterday won their fight against the performance of German operas at the Lexington Theatre. Following a conference between Grover Whalen, secretary to Mayor Hylan; Commissioner of Licenses John F. Gilchrist, and officials of the Rudolph Christians Producing Company at the theatre yesterday morning Dr. Max Winter, general business manager of the company, announced that the opera "Der Vogelhaendler," scheduled for last night, was "indefinitely postponed."

Notwithstanding this announcement about 500 sailors with a sprinkling of soldiers formed in front of the Navy Club about 7 o'clock last night and marched in military formation under the leadership of their non-commissioned officers to the Lexington Theatre. There they were greeted good-naturedly by Police Captain W. W. Duggan of the East Fifty-first Street Station, who confirmed the report of their victory over German language opera. The men saluted the policemen with a laugh and a cheer, and, breaking their formation, left the neighborhood.

For several hours after that similar bodies of men of all branches of the Government service kept arriving on the scene, but obeyed without protest the injunction of the policemen on guard: "Keep on moving, boys; there's no German shows around here."

"They're a fine bunch of lads," said Captain Duggan later. "I wish every civilian crowd we had to handle gave us as little trouble as those soldiers and sailors did."

The order to stop the performance came after protests from hundreds of civilians and men in the service of the Government had been made to Mayor Hylan. It was the Mayor who sent Mr. Whalen and the Commissioner of Licenses with orders to induce the Christians Producing Company to abandon its program.

Committee Visits City Hall.

C. S. King, manager of the Navy Club, and a committee of sailors called at the City Hall early yesterday morning carrying a petition signed by more than 2,000 American soldiers and sailors asking that the Mayor use his authority to prevent the performance of German opera. Mr. Hylan did not see them, but his secretary, Mr. Whalen took the petition and to him Mr. King delivered the message from the petitioners.

"We have tried every legal means in our power," said Mr. King, "in an effort to stop this affront to our men in service and to our Allies. We have consulted attorneys; we have talked the matter over with the most influential men in the city. We even telegraphed to the Governor for help. They all told us the same thing—that Mayor Hylan was the only man who could help us in this matter.

"It is now up to the Mayor of New York to show us and the whole world whether he is 70 per cent. German and 30 per cent. American or whether he is 100 per cent. American. He can prevent this open spread of German propaganda while our boys overseas are suffering every sort of hardship to guard what they have won at the risk of their lives from these same Germans.

"We are not disorderly. We, by our training, dislike anything resembling mob violence. You know that and the Mayor knows it. If Mayor Hylan fails to act and, through the fault of some hotheaded boy, there is trouble at the Lexington Theatre tonight the blame for that trouble will rest squarely on the shoulders of the Mayor. We ask his help. Is he with us or against us?"

In answer Mr. Whalen told the committee that the Mayor would take care

NO QUARTER GIVEN TO CAPTURED REDS IN BERLIN UPRISING

REDS EXECUTE DETECTIVES

Put 60 to Death and Murder Other Prisoners—Courier Is Tortured.

WOMEN SHOT IN FIGHTING

Strikers Resume Work, but Scattered Outbreaks by Rebels Are Renewed.

BERLIN, March 10, (Associated Press.)—Murders, fighting, and plundering continued throughout Sunday in various parts of the city. There was much sniping from the roofs.

Many Spartacides were made prisoners during the forenoon, and summary executions began in the afternoon, following the appearance of an order of Herr Noske, Secretary of Military Affairs, which read:

"The cruelty displayed by the Spartacides in the fighting against us compels me to order any person found fighting against the Government with arms in his hands to be shot immediately."

Three looters caught in the act were the first to be executed. The Government soldiers were so embittered by their opponents' atrocities that Herr Noske's decree was welcomed.

An instance of communist treachery was noted in the Kaiserstrasse, where a sailor approached a small body of Government troops, holding up his hands and crying: "Don't shoot." The troops advanced to meet him and were quickly surrounded by a band of insurgents who disarmed them.

The incident had been observed, however, and a force of Government soldiers quickly appeared on the scene and arrested these Spartacides. The "sailor," who proved to be a Laborite dressed in a marine uniform, was summarily shot.

More than 250 wounded persons were taken to various hospitals on Sunday, including many women and children. Many bodies were taken to the morgue. The Spartacides removed a large number of their own victims.

Atrocities Laid to Rebels.

March 9.—A story of wholesale, cold-blooded murders, including the shooting of some sixty detectives, by the Spartacide forces, was told today under oath by a Government soldier who had been captured by the insurgents but managed to escape.

He and eighteen other soldiers were captured in the vicinity of Warschauerstrasse, in the eastern part of the city, and were taken into a court back of a group of buildings occupied by the Spartacides. The prisoners, the soldier asserts, were compelled one by one to climb into a wagon, where they were shot down by the insurgents. When the wagon became full of bodies it was taken away and another was brought forward.

While this was going on a band of Spartacides brought in sixty detectives who had been captured in an attack on the Lichtenberg Police Station in the northeastern suburb of Berlin. The detectives were killed with revolver shots betwen the eyes at close quarters. Those who resisted were held by Spartacides while the executioner fired the shots.

A Government bicycle courier who was brought in about the same time was held by the hands and feet and tortured before being shot.

Woman Said to Have Killed 20.

The division of cavalry riflemen which is in charge of the work of clearing the city of Spartacides reports further instances of cruel murders by the insurgents. An automobile bearing seven soldiers was attacked in Warschauerstrasse and all were murdered. Another automobile filled with volunteer soldiers was captured and nothing has been heard from them.

A woman soldier in the Spartacide ranks who was captured by the Government troops is declared to have confessed participation in more than twenty killings.

The Spartacides are also accused of using airplanes for attacks on peaceable citizens. An unidentified airplane yesterday dropped a bomb on a crowd standing in line to buy food. Apparently the airmen mistook the crowd for a group of combatants. The explosion of the bomb resulted in thirty casualties among civilians, including women and children.

Lichtenberg became today the centre of the Spartacide resistance. A virtual reign of terror prevails in that district. The Associated Press received a report from Government headquarters this afternoon that when the Spartacides late on Saturday stormed Police Headquarters there they shot all the officers on duty.

Today military operations against the insurgents in that district were resumed as well as in the other disturbed suburbs. Desultory sniping and the process of wiping out bands of guerillas are continuing in some parts of the old city, but up to 1 o'clock this afternoon there had been no heavy fighting. The insurgents are apparently running short of rifle ammunition.

While soldiers who had been called to suppress rioting in Spandau were absent from the Ruhleben camp, about 5,000 Russian prisoners of war in that camp

WAR COUNCIL STIFFENS TERMS TO BERLIN; GERMAN ARMY CUT TO 100,000 VOLUNTEERS; RHINE FORTS TO FALL, CURB ON MUNITIONS

Paris Studies League Changes Proposed by Taft; Might Adopt Them if Amendments Stopped There

PARIS, March 10, (Associated Press.)—The amendments to the draft of the League of Nations plan which have been proposed by William Howard Taft are receiving the close study of the delegations to the Peace Conference.

The understanding prevails that the suggestions made by Mr. Taft might be adopted if assurance could be had that the reopening of the whole subject would not be involved and that further amendments would not be offered by the other nations. It is generally admitted in well-informed circles, however, that some French and Italian proposals are to be expected. The ground is being canvassed quietly in an effort to obtain further information on the points raised by Mr. Taft in anticipation of the arrival of President Wilson, who must render final judgment on any American amendments to the draft.

From the outset of discussion of the League of Nations covenant as reported to the Peace Conference at Paris, ex-President Taft has stated that revision would better the document, which he approves cordially in the main.

He has expressed a desire for a clarification of the clause relative to the possible joint use of military forces of the League powers against an outlaw nation. He would also have a more definite statement as to when the obligations of a nation to the League might be terminated.

He would have a larger reservation of the Monroe Doctrine by a greater definiteness of terms. On this point he said in his speech at the Metropolitan Opera House Tuesday night:

"It seems to me that appropriate words might be added to the pact which should show distinctly this distribution of obligation, [of action against an outlaw nation.] It will relieve those anxious in respect to the Monroe Doctrine, it might exclude from forcible intervention any issues between American nations by European or Asiatic nations, until requested by the United States or an Executive Council of the American nations formed for the purpose."

Mr. Taft has also suggested that the point should be made plain whether it would require a unanimous vote of the Executive Council of the League in matters not specified, or only a majority vote.

Relative to the proposal made in the Lodge resolution that the peace treaty should be submitted first and separate from the League covenant, he has spoken unreservedly in opposition, saying that the covenant should be a part of the treaty.

WILL MAKE FOE HELPLESS

URGED BY LLOYD GEORGE

Germans Are to be Allowed Only 4,000 Army Officers and No General Staff.

GUN EQUIPMENT REDUCED

Naval Terms of the Peace Treaty Will Be Decided Upon Today.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 10.—Definite steps to put Germany forever beyond all hope of obtaining military domination over the world were taken today by the Supreme War Council, with Premier Clemenceau presiding, Premier Lloyd George present, and Secretary Lansing and Colonel House representing the United States.

The former great armies of the Kaiser are to be reduced to a mere police force, and other terms, severer than had been contemplated before, were provided for the German Government, which must accept them or take the consequences.

In connection with this action, it has been agreed that the German plenipotentiaries shall be called to Versailles, possibly as early as March 20, to receive the draft of the preliminary peace treaty, including the military conditions. The German plenipotentiaries will then go to Weimar and submit the treaty to the National Assembly, whose views will guide the plenipotentiaries in the formal Peace Conference.

An interesting sidelight on today's important proceedings is that Count von Bernstorff will not be one of the German delegates. Positive hints have been conveyed to Berlin that he would be the worst possible selection of all men. The American, British, and French Peace Commissions are behind these hints, and no doubt is felt here that they will be heeded.

Severer Terms than Foch Asked.

At today's session of the War Council Marshal Foch was generally triumphant in having his conditions accepted. Some important changes were made, however, one of which imposes severer conditions than even Foch proposed.

It was Premier Lloyd George who offered this. He asked that the German Army strength should be fixed at 140,000 men. As a result of discussion, it was agreed to fix the army strength at 100,000, or less than half the original maximum recommended under the terms laid down by the Allies.

Germany must raise this force by voluntary enlistment. In order to prevent an army of this size being trained every year, it was provided that the enlistments should be for a period of twelve years. The number of German officers is fixed at 4,000, instead of the 6,000 as originally contemplated.

All artillery and other equipment in excess of the requirements of the reduced army must be surrendered, and the Imperial General Staff must be abolished.

Other military provisions require the destruction of the Rhine forts and the reduction of the munitions output to the needs of the reduced army.

The naval terms will be considered tomorrow. Gratification is expressed here over the progress made at today's session.

To Pick Small Powers' Delegates.

PARIS, March 10, (Associated Press.)—The Supreme Council today settled the disputed question of representation of the small powers on the Economic and Financial Commissions of the Peace Conference by deciding to name these representatives itself, thus eliminating all contention between the European and Latin American countries as to proportionate representation.

This decision was reached on a report of M. Pichon, the French Foreign Minister, which recommended that nations like Brazil, Panama, and Cuba, which had special interests involved in the action of these commis-

GENEVA, March 9.—Fugitives from Russia describe life in Russia under Lenine's rule as a nightmare in a lunatic asylum. These unfortunates continue to straggle into Switzerland. I have talked with many of the victims of the Bolshevist madness, who are still haunted by the terrible scenes they have witnessed, and unnerved by the mental and physical tortures they have endured, and the tales they tell are full of grotesque horror.

"The City of Moscow," one of them says, "is reduced to about 1,000,000 inhabitants. Before the Bolshevist régime it had 3,000,000. The population is dying of starvation and plague, decimated by executions, rotting in prisons. Flight is almost impossible, for the trains have stopped running.

"In the streets tragic and terrifying scenes are enacted. A horse falls exhausted with hunger and is immediately attacked by a score of famished dogs, who begin tearing it. Red Guards with loaded revolvers keep off the crowd which soon assembles, watching the horrible sight with ferocious looks of envy. But sometimes the guards do not arrive on the scene in time, and then men and women cast themselves upon the carcass, slashing it with their knives and fighting with the snarling dogs for the bleeding strips of flesh, which they devour on the spot, not having sufficient will power left to carry their booty home to cook.

Prisons Full of Madmen.

"Such is the communist paradise which the Bolsheviki promised their miserable dupes. Fear and famine have engendered a veritable epidemic of insanity. The asylums are overcrowded and for the last two months have been unable to accept new patients. Lunatics and maniacs of all kinds stalk raving through the streets. The prisons are full of madmen. In the maternity hospitals the death rate is incredibly high. According to the managing physician of one of these establishments 90 per cent. of the mothers die after childbirth, and infant mortality is scarcely lower.

"Funerals, like everything else, are 'nationalized.' That is to say, the dead are carried away in carts and dumped into a vast common grave at the cost of the State. No religious ceremony is performed, and no crosses may be erected over this gruesome pit.

"The nationalization of women has been carried out in various provincial towns, but so far Moscow has escaped this crowning infamy. In some districts, however, the local Soviets have gone even further and have instituted a sort of conscription of women for immoral purposes. An informant has communicated to me the following authentic document:

SAYS LUXEMBURG LEANS TO BELGIUM

WOULD KEEP AUTONOMY

He Thinks This Would Be Lost if the Grand Duchy Were Joined to France.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 9.—Maurice Pescatore, leader of the Left in the Luxemburg Chamber, who is on a short visit to London, explained today to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent why many Luxemburgers favored the Belgian solution of the problem of the future of his country. He said they would welcome a union with the kingdom under King Albert, who would become Grand Duke of Luxemburg and nominal head of its Government, although residing six hours or so away in Brussels.

"But," THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent asked, "how do you explain the report of your Economic Commission in favor of union with France?"

M. Pescatore in a few words destroyed the structure of this story.

"In the first place," he said, "the commission was appointed by the Prime Minister alone. Its conclusions were confidential, since they have not been discussed in the Parliament. Therefore they have no weight in binding that body. Moreover, the commission's rôle was to present facts, and not to decide a policy."

With that M. Pescatore gave an interesting description of the local sentiment toward the monarchy. The Grand Duchess Marie Adelaide has departed, leaving her sister Charlotte in her place. But the same influences persist. The present Grand Duchess is engaged to an Austrian Prince, who fought against the Serbians. Indeed, the whole dynasty is tinged with German influence, and is unacceptable, in the view of M. Pescatore, to the country. Marie Adelaide was obliged to abdicate because of the popular prejudice against her. The same thing, according to M. Pescatore, would no doubt happen to her sister, whose accession to the throne is still unacknowledged by the nations of the Entente.

The Luxemburgers wish above all to live at peace with their neighbors and to preserve their independence and autonomy. This they could best do, M. Pescatore thinks, by a union with Belgium. Their institutions, bi-lingual speech, traditions, degrees of social development, and economic relations all point to Belgium. It would accord with the prevailing spirit if the institutions were left intact. Republican in their democratic tendencies, the people feel that a union under the King of the Belgians would give them an assured situation in Europe, while guaranteeing their national entity.

On the other hand, union with France would mean absorption in the French Republic. They would become merely a French department, and heavy taxation would follow as a result of their fiscal identity with the republic. A referendum on the maintenance of the monarchy is to be discussed in the Luxemburg Parliament next week. The

State Guard Ready But Not Called to Buffalo; Officials Say Unemployed Are Under Control

ALBANY, March 10.—Adjt. Gen. Berry tonight denied reports that the State Guard had been ordered mobilized for duty in Buffalo, where unemployment demonstrations have been in progress.

"No unit of the State Guard has been ordered mobilized, nor has any unit been ordered to hold itself in readiness to go to Buffalo," declared the officer.

The Adjutant General stated that he returned tonight from Buffalo, and that he found the situation there quiet and one that could be handled by the local authorities. He said that he had informed Buffalo authorities that if the State Guard should be needed it would be ready to perform its duties.

"The State Guard is always ready, but no special orders have been issued," he stated tonight.

The Adjutant General said that perhaps rumors of mobilization might at any time start through inquiries of regiment and company commanders of the state of preparation of their units.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 10.—Police today prevented a proposed parade of unemployed, for which sanction had been refused by the city authorities. There was no attempt to carry out the plans for a demonstration and there was no disorder. In a parade about a week ago 200 men marched to the City Hall demanding that the city begin work on public projects to give jobs to the unemployed.

Adjt. Gen. Charles W. Berry today conferred with Mayor Buck on the situation and promised 5,000 troops in twenty-four hours if necessary, but was told that they were not needed.

There was a report in this city last night that members of the 71st Regiment, State Guard, whose armory is at Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, had received orders from Albany late in the evening to mobilize immediately for duty at Buffalo to avert threatened disorder there due to unemployment.

At the armory last night a watchman, who was the only person on duty, said that he had heard of no such orders and that none of the officers of the regiment had been at the armory in the course of the evening.

sions or had taken some part in the war, should in any case be represented.

The small nations had asked that their representation be increased to ten members, in order to satisfy all parties. The council decided to increase their representation to seven members on each commission, to be selected by the council itself.

The Council then adopted the report of the military experts concerning the definite military status of Germany, after fixing the terms.

An official statement issued after the meeting reads:

The Supreme Council met this afternoon at the Quai d'Orsay from 3 to 8:30 o'clock. The council decided that the great powers should designate the representatives of the powers with special interests on the Economic and Financial Commissions.

The council then turned to the report of the military experts, presented by Marshal Foch, relative to the definite military status of Germany. The terms of this report were fixed and its conclusions adopted.

The next meeting will take place tomorrow at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

"The Committee on the International Régime of Ports, Waterways, and Railways met this morning in plenary session," says an official communiqué. "It continued the discussion of the clauses to be inserted in the treaty of peace and began the examination of the control of navigation on the Rhine."

An official statement by the Czecho-Slovakian Commission says that on Saturday the commission completed the study of the position of Slovakia and examined some details of the position of Bohemia.

The decision of the Supreme Council to take over the designations of the representatives of "the powers with special interests" (meaning all the powers except the Big Five) on the very important Financial and Economic Commissions is presumably the result of the choices made by the lesser powers themselves.

Sixteen nations participated in the election, each group voting for five members of each commission. Either by accident or by agreement with Portugal and Siam for mutual support, the seven South American countries obtained seven of the ten places on the two commissions, Portugal and Siam also getting places. The six other European countries (Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Poland, Rumania, and Serbia) obtained but one place.

WOULD KEEP UP ALLIANCES.

Czech Leader Insists the German Peril Is Still Real.

PARIS, March 10.—The German danger still exists, in the opinion of Foreign Minister Benez of Czechoslovakia, according to an interview printed in The Matin.

"That danger must be guarded against," he is quoted as saying. "Those in power in Germany today are those who supported the war, and, in addition, the material forces of Germany are diminished but little. If France is attacked the smaller nations to the east will be called upon to face war. There must be safeguards on both sides of Germany.

"I advocate the neutralization of the left bank of the Rhine, German Austria and a part of Silesia, which, being German, cannot be given to Poland or Czechoslovakia, and forms a dangerous salient between the two countries.

"Some day international problems will be settled by the League of Nations, but the plan for this organization is not yet completed. For the moment it is impossible to think of absolute guarantees. The continuance of the alliances created during the war is the only assurance that peace can be maintained."

EXPECT NEGOTIATIONS MAR. 20

German Business Men to Go with Brockdorff to Paris.

BERLIN, March 9, (Associated Press.)—Preliminary peace negotiations may begin at Versailles about March 20, according to reports in circulation here today.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the Foreign Minister, is now arranging for a small party of prominent business men to accompany the German Commissioners as experts. These men have been instructed to hold themselves in readiness for possible departure on March 17 or 19.

Philipp Heineken, director of the North German Lloyd, it is reported on good authority, will be among those who will accompany the Foreign Minister.

"PEOPLES' LEAGUE"—GOMPERS

It Must Assure Peace and Liberty for All.

PARIS, March 10, (Associated Press.)—The Delegates of the American Federation of Labor visited the Labor Exchange today.

"The League of Nations," said Samuel Gompers, head of the delegation, "is, above all, a league of the people, which must assure to the proletariat world guarantees of peace and liberty."

Mr. Gompers urged a universal union of the working classes in a fraternity of the peoples.

LLOYD GEORGE AIMS FOR DISARMAMENT

Turning Point in the Peace Conference Has Been Reached, He Declares.

PAST WEEK MOST IMPORTANT

Expects Military Conditions to be Settled When President Wilson Reaches Paris.

LONDON, March 10.—"We have reached the turning point of the conference," says the Paris correspondent of The Daily News. "Not even when the Germans come will there be a week end more important than the past one. The preparatory work is nearly finished, and the preliminary convention of peace will be ready in a few days.

"By the time President Wilson reaches Paris the naval and military conditions will have been settled.

"It is an open secret that Premier Lloyd George considers disarmament the touchstone of conference success, and that his insistence on disarmament for Germany is merely the first step in a general policy of pacification intended to lead to disarmament in all countries."

SHIFTS ON GERMAN FLEET.

Britain May Let France and Italy Have Some Ships, but Sink Her Own

PARIS, March 10.—A change in the attitude of the British Government regarding the plan to sink interned German warships has been noticed since the return of Premier Lloyd George to Paris. It now appears likely that instead of the German craft being sunk Great Britain will be willing to permit France and Italy to keep some of the ships, but will consent to sink her own allotment.

In this way, it is said, Great Britain would relieve the United States of the necessity of carrying out her projected great naval building program, which, it is understood, was based on the intention of preventing any one nation from having such a predominant navy as would give her control of the seas against the powers of the League of Nations.

The addition of some of the German warships to the French and Italian navies would not seriously disturb the balance of naval power, excluding Austria and Germany.

The desire of American naval experts that the German ships shall be eliminated, it is said, is based on considerations of economy, as they hold that if the German ships are given to Great Britain in the proportion proposed the United States would be compelled to spend $1,000,000,000 to maintain her place in the naval lists.

VIVIANI URGENT FOR LEAGUE.

Must Be Worthy of Those Who Fell, He Asserts.

LYONS, France, March 9.—René Viviani, former Premier, speaking today at a meeting of the French Association for a League of Nations, at which Leon Bourgeois, French proponent of the League, presided, said:

"To make the League of Nations a reality we must count less on the goodness of men than the interest of nations. Hundreds of thousands of our children have fallen to deliver us from the nightmare of war, and if we do not succeed in demonstrating that institutions to assure liberty are stronger than those of autocracy, because the former have for a basis and object reason and conscience, and the latter force, we shall not be worthy of the heroic testament which those young men, swept away in the flower of their youth, have transmitted to us."

ITALIAN VERSION OF LAIBACH.

Special Committee Hears Testimony on the Clash.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Official advices from Paris to the Italian Embassy today state that a special committee of the Supreme Council yesterday examined the problems regarding the supplying of food to Austria-Hungary.

Relative to the attitude of the Italian Government toward the closing of the Jugoslav frontier, Signor Crespi described incidents at Saloch and Lubiana and proposed, in the name of the Italian Government, the appointment of a commission with authority to investigate and take measures to give Italy full satisfaction. The committee adopted the proposal and General Segre, Italian member of the commission, was appointed.

The Saloch incident involved the stopping in February of a trainload of Italian refugees returning from Austria to Italy by way of Saloch. Their train was decorated with Italian flags. At Saloch these flags, and the Italian coat of arms were torn from the train. The Italian commander lodged a protest with the Serbian commander.

Concerning the Laibach incident, it was stated, that Laibach was a depot of supplies established by the Inter-Allied Food Commission with an officer from each allied country there as a member of the relief commission. There were 500 carloads of American foodstuffs at Laibach on their way for distribution among the Czechoslovaks, Jugoslavs, and Australians. Leibach was in territory which the Allies had arranged to have administered under the terms of the armistice. The Serbian officer at Laibach, it was said, ordered the expulsion of the Italian member of the Food Commission. Protest was made, but Italy withdrew its officers in Italian territory, and in doing so drew its lines back toward Trieste with the result that Italian supplies had to be sent over a longer route to Vienna.

PARIS, March 10.—Premier Clemenceau, as President of the Peace Conference, has sent a letter to the head of the Inter-Allied Commission at Trieste, advising him that the military commission, appointed by the Supreme Council to investigate the Italo-Jugoslav incidents, which caused the recent acute feeling between the two peoples, will proceed at once to Laibach.

The Matin prints the text of his letter, which says that after the facts have been verified the commission will take all necessary action, including orders for punishment of the guilty, and any compensation or satisfaction which it may be decided is due the Italian Government.

The commission will give notice, the letter adds, that any similar incidents in the future will cause Inter-Allied military occupation of the localities where such incidents arise, under the terms of the Austrian armistice, and that such action will not exclude the taking of any more severe measures which the commission might deem to be warranted.

TAFT SEES PROMISED LAND.

Says League Will Go Far Toward Abolishing War.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., March 10.—Former President Taft spoke last evening in the Y. M. C. A. on the League of Nations. He told again how, during his administration a treaty was drawn up for presentation to England and France that had for its aim the settling of all disputes by arbitration. This treaty he [illegible] was signed by Philander C. Knox, then Secretary of State. "It went to the Senate," Mr. Taft said, "and when it came out it was so changed it could not be recognized. So," he continued, "I shelved it."

Mr. Taft said he had always protested against war and he wondered why the Christian nations had not devised some ways to stop recourse to arms. He expressed the hope that the Senate would change its mind or that the people would change their minds and send new men to the Senate. The League to Enforce Peace, he said, advocated an international court of arbitration; that any nation disregarding the decisions of that court and declaring war without serious warning should be boycotted and that other nations should all combine to protect a country during arbitration.

He pointed out that the proposed League of Nations does not go that far. It does go a long way, however, he said, but even so, it does not have the dynamite that some of "our friends" think.

"We are now in sight of the promised land. It will not abolish war but make war more impossible," said Mr. Taft.

MARSHALL ON THE LEAGUE.

Says He Would "Eat a Little Dirt" Rather Than Have Another War.

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 10.—Voicing his personal preference to "eat a little dirt rather than to have another war," and declaring with regard to the League of Nations that since the day of Washington's stand against entangling alliances "times have changed," Thomas R. Marshall, Vice President of the United States, today gave his views to a joint session of the Arizona Legislature.

Mr. Marshall disclaimed any intention to campaign for the League, but asserted that America was faced with the choice either of joining in some plan to prevent future wars or of preparing immediately for the next outbreak.

"While I would be forever against anything which would besmirch the honor of our flag or lessen the grandness and glory of the American people, yet I am convinced that we are facing a new era and that things must be different in the future," Mr. Marshall said.

"We have piled up an enormous debt, spent billions on useless engines of war to kill our fellow-men, and for myself I have seen so many of our boys come back shattered, and know of so many others who will not come back, that I would rather eat a little dirt than have another war. On the other hand, there are certain great questions for which it would be better to fight, and if I thought there was anything in this League of Nations to lower the self-respect of the United States, then I would rather fight, but I do not think there is."

Frelinghuysen's League Stand.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—A statement favoring international agreements between the nations to prevent war, if possible, but opposing the proposed constitution of the League of Nations was issued today by Senator Frelighuysen, Republican, of New Jersey. He advocated specific provisions for withdrawal of nations, for exclusion of domestic questions from the League's decisions, and not binding the United States to fight wars of other nations.

CARDINAL MERCIER FOR NATIONS LEAGUE

PLEADS FOR BETTER WORLD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, March 9.—"Belgium has risen so high in the estimation of the world through her conduct during the war that I greatly desire she should lose nothing through her conduct in preparation for peace," said Cardinal Mercier in an interview published in the Corriere d'Italia.

"No man worthy to be called such could condemn the Society of Nations. Will the plans prepared in Paris simply bring forth limitation of armaments? It is clear that here the task of the reconstructors of the new world cannot exhaust itself. I hope it will develop perfection itself. The peoples would not be satisfied if, after so many sacrifices and promises, the world should tomorrow appear as sad and dark as it was yesterday.

"It seems to me that the chief duty of Governments toward the future generation is to render impossible a renewal of the crimes from which the world still bleeds. The hour for Christianity will come later."

The Cardinal concluded by saying that a tribute of admiration was due to the Belgian clergy for the heroism displayed by them on the battlefield, which was demonstrated by the losses sustained. He also said that the Belgians were suffering today from disillusion, as they expected that the moment the war ended prosperity and plenty would return. Instead, they were confronted with grave problems, which, however, he was sure they could solve, just as they bore the hardships of the German invasion.

SPENCER FOR A LEAGUE

But "Our Supremacy of Things American Must Be Recognized."

ST. LOUIS, March 10.—United States Senator Selden Spencer of Missouri, one of the thirty-nine Republican Senators who signed Senator Lodge's resolution declaring the proposed covenant of the League of Nations unacceptable in its present form, said on his arrival here today from Washington that he was "heart and soul in favor of a League of Nations," and believed such a League is certain to be formed, and did not see how any one could oppose such a League.

He said certain amendments to the proposed covenant can be made. One of the amendments he proposed is a definite recognition of the powers of the United States Constitution, and another is "that our traditional supremacy of things American must be recognized." This, he said, means mainly the Monroe Doctrine.

LEAGUE DEBATE MARCH 19.

Lodge and Lowell Will Discuss the Covenant in Symphony Hall, Boston.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 10.—The debate between Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University, on the merits of the proposed covenant of a League of Nations will be held at Symphony Hall, Boston, at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, March 19. Governor Coolidge will preside. It is planned that admission shall be by ticket. The hall will seat 2,500 persons.

Senator Lodge and Dr. Lowell met this afternoon and made plans for the meeting.

Dr. Lowell, who is Chairman of the Executive Committee of the League to Enforce Peace, will defend the plan for a League of Nations as outlined by President Wilson.

PERKINS SEES A CRISIS.

Reports from Paris That the Situation Is Critical.

George W. Perkins, who has recovered from his illness, has written from Paris to a friend in New York under date of Feb. 12:

"Things are at high tension in every direction. I regard the situation just now as extremely critical, and we can all thank our lucky stars if the next few weeks produce a peace agreement that will be at all satisfactory. I think the whole situation, politically, industrially, and economically, unless handled with great ability and an adjustment reached very promptly, may give us more anxiety and widespread trouble than we have yet had."

KITTERY, Maine, March 10.—A resolution commending Senators Lodge and Hale for their opposition to a League of Nations in the form proposed by President Wilson was adopted at the annual town meeting today by a viva voce vote.

TUNNEL TO FRANCE TAKEN UP BY BRITISH Government Considering Project, Bonar Law Tells Commons—May Tunnel Other Straits.

LONDON, March 10.—The driving of a tunnel under the English Channel to France is being considered by the Government as among its projects for after the war.

Andrew Bonar Law, Government spokesman, in making this announcement in the House of Commons today, said he was discussing the matter with Premier Lloyd George as a means of finding employment for discharged soldiers.

The Daily Mail claims to have definite information that the British and French Governments have agreed to the construction of a tunnel under the Channel and that the details are now being discussed by a special commission in Paris, which also is considering the building of tunnels under the Bosporus and the Strait of Gibraltar.

The engineering plans for the Channel tunnel, according to The Daily Mail, are so far advanced that work could be begun immediately.

"It is proposed," says The Daily Mail, "to start the tunnel some distance inside both countries, instead of near the coast, as was originally intended, so as to avoid the risks of a fall of the cliffs, such as already has occurred on the British side near the point where the work would have been begun.

"In addition to tracks, the tunnel will carry telephone and telegraph wires, superseding the present sea-bed cables, and also pneumatic tubes for carrying letters and parcels. The French and British railroads concerned are willing to finance the scheme, but the two Governments wish to exercise control and some sort of joint State finance for the work may be adopted."

BURTON ARRAIGNS GERMANY

Former Senator Says League's First Duty Is to Punish.

The present duty of the allied nations is to inflict a just punishment upon Germany and establish the reign of liberty, declared former Senator Theodore E. Burton, speaking on "A League of Nations" at the annual meeting of the Canadian Club at the Hotel Biltmore last night. He deplored the attitude of the Senators who have withheld their approval and attacked the various objections to the League. But he said he could not favor a League of Nations which would let Germany's crimes go unexpiated.

"It is no spirit of revenge, but justice, eternal justice, that demands that Germany be punished," said Mr. Burton, amid applause from the 300 or more members of the Canadian Club. "It is not enough to say to the German in the language of the Scripture, 'Let him that stole, steal no more.' We cannot accept the formula, 'No annexations and no indemnities.' The wanton ruin wrought by Germany demands reparation to the very last mark and pfennig which she can be made to pay.

"Not for the purposes of war, but to disable competition in Belgium and France, Germany with sinister design and settled purpose destroyed factories and put coal mines out of commission. "In demanding security for the future there should be no mealy-mouthed words, no pussy-footing. The borders of France and Belgium must be made free from the threat of German invasion, a threat which has been constantly recurring for more than 2,000 years. Adequate protection must be given if it requires the occupation of both banks of the Rhine and the fortresses guarding Belgium. The thought must be brought home to all the world that treachery does not pay; that ruthlessness does not pay, that the denial of the laws of God and man entails consequences the most severe."

Mr. Burton then took up the question of the League of Nations, saying that for hundreds of years the orderly settlement of controversies between nations had not merely been the dream of those who look for the abolition of war. Kings and commoners alike had joined in the advocacy of such a league, and he pointed out that the United States itself had submitted more than 100 disputes to arbitration. The proposed covenant, though, required clarification in some of its provisions and amendment in others, he said.

"It is hardly conceivable that any such document, however carefully prepared, could be perfect on its first presentation," he added, "or that it should be accepted without submission for consideration by all the peoples involved and for their suggestions and criticisms.

"In the conference at the White House it seems to have been expressed that the United States or other nations had the right to withdraw at any time. Such is not the most creditable judgment of enlightened nations in recent years. Treaties are regarded as permanent and binding, with all the obligations of a contract between individuals. The element of ambiguity appears in several provisions of the proposed covenant. Must the action decided upon be supported by unanimous vote, or merely by a majority? This should be made clear.

"On the other hand the advantages of the covenant as already prepared are manifold and sure to introduce a new era among nations. It was not claimed by the framers of this intrument that it was perfect.

"The Monroe Doctrine was simply and solely for our own protection, as Webster declared many years ago. The League of Nations is a splendid vindication of the Monroe Doctrine—that a strong nation shall not attack a weak one. Now there must be a general willingness to abandon some of our sovereignty. This is a time for sacrifice, with the large object of peace in mind."

scheme, if carried out, will involve a polling of the country at the end of this month, but Liberals like M. Pescatore consider that the subject cannot be decided by the people until they know precisely what is the attitude of the Entente toward the Grand Duchess. In their view, the project, which is fostered by the Conservatives, is premature, and the Socialists in the country are of the same mind.

Economic considerations weigh also in the desire to become part of the new Belgium. Antwerp is Luxemburg's port of preference, especially with the decline of Hamburg. The iron ore found in the little State is well adapted to serve the ends of Belgian industry. At the same time plenty of labor is available from Belgium, whereas France must import some of it. Last, but not least, Belgium is a free-trade country, where living is cheap, and the Luxemburgers adhere to that principle, whereas France is highly protectionist.

'BLEEDING GERMANY WHITE.'

Frankfurter Zeitung Blames Wilson for Approving Armistice Terms.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, March 9.—The new armistice terms are the subject of bitter comment in the German press. The Frankfurter Zeitung speaks of them as "frightful," and asks if President Wilson is so much in the clouds that he does not realize the situation.

Commenting on his Boston speech, from which it quotes copious extracts, the Zeitung calls it a "cry of despair" because he is not master of the Paris Conference.

"We will not deceive ourselves," it proceeds. "The new conditions have his approval, and Foch is no longer alone at the armistice negotiations, but there also are the Entente and the American Generals. The father of the League is not in a position to carry through the ideas for which he brought soldiers to Europe."

The Zeitung asserts that the terms mean Germany's slavery and the shutting out of that country as an economic competitor. The Allies, it says, wish to bleed Germany white. Lloyd George admits it, and Wilson's balsam no longer helps. The editorial concludes with the prediction that the result will be Bolshevism in Germany, which means world Bolshevism.

Yesterday's fire in The Hague barracks, and the fact that other barracks in the country were fired on the same day, has increased the fear of Bolshevism here. According to trustworthy information, the Bolsheviki planned to take the barracks by storm two weeks ago, but found that the authorities had armed with machine guns were ready. afmed with machine guns were ready. So they gave up the attempt and decided on incendiarism instead.

STRIKE SETTLEMENT FAILS AT HAVANA

Agitators Cause Repudiation—Policeman Shot and Killed—Talk of American Intervention.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, March 10.—The presence of twelve American warships in Havana harbor, which have arrived during the last two days, taken in conjunction with the general strike, which is seriously delaying the sugar harvest, is creating a great deal of speculation here as to whether their coming is merely a coincidence or has some bearing directly on the strike.

Hopes for a settlement of the strike, which were high early this morning when the strikers' joint committee voted to call off the movement and accept President Menocal's offer to act as arbitrator, were shattered later in the morning when large groups of workmen gathered at union headquarters, denouncing the action of their joint committee and claiming that the committeemen had been bought to betray the unions. The orators who excited the workmen to threaten their leaders are known to be Spanish agitators suspected of being the cause of the present labor unrest.

President Menocal called a meeting of his entire cabinet this afternoon to consider the situation. After the meeting, Secretary of Government Montalvo issued a statement that workmen returning to their jobs would be amply protected. It is believed a majority of the workmen are anxious to return to work but fear attacks. United States Minister Gonzales conferred with President Menocal at some length but it was impossible to learn if the conference was connected with the strike.

SAYS IT WAS KAISER'S WAR.

LONDON, March 10.—"There is no doubt that the former German Emperor was the first and responsible author of the war. He absolutely wished for it, and conducted it himself in all its ruthlessness and barbarity." This is a statement attributed to the Prince of Monaco by The Mail's Paris correspondent, who interviewed the Prince there. The correspondent recalls that the Prince of Monaco was formerly a personal friend of Emperor William, but that friendship was severed by the Prince in a telegram sent to the former Emperor in September, 1914.

"Until a few years before the war," the Prince is quoted as saying, "the German Emperor seemed to sincerely wish peace and a renewal of intercourse with France. I know this because I was intrusted with a mission to try to bring it about. But at the same time a terrible megalomania was growing in him. He was anxious to see Germany over all, and from the day when he felt it impossible to attain this end by peaceful means, war became an obsession with him.

"I shall never forget the fury in his face and the hatred in his voice when, in July, 1914, he told me 'If they oblige me to make war, the world will see what it never dreamed of.' These words were hypocritical because the Emperor could not pretend the war into which he declared himself driven was not at that very time being prepared for in every detail."

escaped. The Russians are now wandering about the country, to the terror of the rural folk.

Loot Estimated at $10,000,000.

The number of individuals who suffered property losses in the four days' fighting in Berlin last week is estimated at 6,000.

The money loss is difficult to determine, as, in addition to the heavy losses through damage to buildings, the Spartacides were engaged in wholesale looting of shops and private houses from the beginning of the strike. One of the large department stores in the Alexanderplatz estimates its damage in excess of 3,000,000 marks.

The losses of the last week, added to those of the week of the first Spartacide outbreak, are likely to involve the City of Berlin or the State or National Government in damage suits totaling more than 150,000,000 marks. The Government's preliminary estimate of the damage from looting is 40,000,000 marks.

March 8.—The Spartacide leaders in the Berlin strike movement had formed a detailed plan for the overthrow of the Government within a definitely defined and brief period, it is shown by papers captured by the Government forces. Among these documents was an elaborate plan of the Spartacide General Staff mapping out the course for the insurrection and showing that it counted upon bringing the Berlin revolt to a triumphant conclusion in five days, its movement to culminate in the proclamation of a Soviet republic.

The leaders were aware that the Government would throw a strong force of troops into Berlin, but they counted upon winning over various organizations. Their plan of campaign named the Alexanderplatz, adjacent to Police Headquarters, as the rendezvous upon the declaration of the strike.

The first day's objective was the capture of Police Headquarters, and the Spartacides were so confident of accomplishing this that they had ready for distribution printed handbills announcing the capture of the headquarters and the defection of the Government troops, the latter announcement anticipating the defection of the sailors and the Republican Guards.

The second day's objectives were the Imperial Palace, the Reichstag building, and the Unter den Linden district. The third day's objectives were the Chancellor's Palace, the War Ministry, and the other Ministerial buildings. For the fourth day was set the capture of the railway stations and the newspaper district, while the fifth day was to complete the capture of the city, with a climax reached by the proclamation of the dictatorship of the proletariat.

The plan failed because the regiments brought from outside proved absolutely incorruptible and of high fighting qualities.

The casualties, although they have not been definitely established at this writing, will probably prove greater than those of the January revolution. The Berlin morgue, to which the civilian dead were at first transferred, became filled to overflowing on Friday, and other morgues had to be improvised.

BERLIN STRIKERS GO BACK TO WORK

Ebert Arrives in the Capital—Spartacides Hoist the Imperial Standard.

LONDON, March 10.—Work was resumed today throughout the greater part of Berlin, following the calling off of the strike, messages from the German capital received in Copenhagen announce.

President Ebert and Secretary Landsberg have arrived in Berlin from Weimar.

According to a Berlin dispatch dated today and transmitted by the Central News correspondent at Copenhagen, the Workmen's Council in Berlin did not agree to an unconditional calling off of the strike. It resolved, the message says, that work should be resumed only on condition that no punishment should be meted out, that the trooops should be withdrawn from the occupied quarters, that all persons arrested for participation in the strike should be released, and that the volunteer troops should be withdrawn from Berlin.

The decision followed a stormy session of the Council in which the Independent Socialists accused the Majority Socialists of treason to the proletarian cause, and the Spartacides charged the Independents with weakening the cause by compromises.

Richard Müller, the strike leader, declared that the workmen must now return to work "and await a suitable time for renewing action. We shall learn from our experiences."

On Saturday night Spartacides hoisted the imperial standard over the palace at Berlin. The flag was immediately removed by Government troops.

Martial law has not yet been revoked in Berlin and has been proclaimed at Düsseldorf.

DECREES NEW BAVARIAN RULE.

Soviet Congress's Compromise Is Bitterly Denounced.

BERLIN, March 8, (Associated Press.)—The Soviet Congress in Munich today adopted a compromise regarding the future system of Government, which was agreed upon by the Majority and Independent Socialists.

The compromise provides for the immediate convocation of the Diet, but only to sanction a purely Socialist Ministry, to which legislative and executive authority is to be intrusted. It provides also that a new national guard of trades union members shall be organized to replace all the military forces.

The compromise was voted by a two-thirds majority against the stormy protests of the Spartacides and extreme Radicals, who proclaimed war against the new arrangement.

It was charged by others that the compromise was a masterpiece of chicanery, ostensibly recognizing the authority of the democratically elected Assembly, as required by the new German constitution, but in reality aiming to establish class rule of the proletariat through terrorism of the non-Socialist majority in the Diet.

The Soviet Congress also voted to release the hostages seized at the time when Kurt Eisner, the Premier, was assassinated.

MUNICH, March 9.—The Central Council of Soviets here has issued a decree forbidding speculation in real estate. Nobody will be allowed to buy more than he needs for his personal use.

HAASE BARS A COMMUNIST.

Independents Said to be Closer to Majority Socialists.

BERLIN, March 7 (Associated Press.)—Hugo Haase has been elected Chairman of the Independent Socialist Party at its conference here.

He declined a previous election because Herr Dacumig, a Communist, was elected Vice Chairman. On the ballot by which Haase was elected Chairman, Herr Crispien, the South German leader of the Independent Socialists, was elected Vice Chairman.

The fact that Haase prevented the convention from swinging to the extreme left is interpreted as a sign that the way is being paved for an amalgamation of the Majority Socialists and the Independent Socialists. This impression is heightened by the concessions made by the Government to the supporters of Soviet principles.

SPARTACIDES DROWN FOES.

Throw Them Into River at Halle—Officer's Hands Cut Off.

LONDON, March 9.—Many were killed and wounded in fighting at Halle, Germany, on Saturday, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Central News.

Spartacides are said to have drowned many students and officers in the river there. It is reported that there was general pillage in the parts of the city where the fighting took place. Government troops eventually gained the mastery.

In the fighting at Halle a German army officer named "von Klucker," formerly a military attaché at Brussels and Paris, was thrown into the river by rioters. The officer attempted to swim ashore, whereupon the rioters are said to have cut off his hands. He was finally shot and killed.

The officer referred to may be von Klueber, who was Military Attaché at Brussels in 1914. At that time he had the rank of Major and was a member of the German General Staff.

REBUKES GERMAN STRIKERS.

Frankfort Paper Blames Them for the Economic Crisis.

ZURICH, March 10, (French Wireless Service.)—The Volkstimme, the organ of the Majority Socialists in Frankfort, takes issue with the view expressed by most of the German newspapers that the allied powers are all to blame for the sufferings of Germany.

The newspaper blames the German workmen for the economic crisis now facing the country. It declares that if the Germans had been able to increase their production, and if factories had not had to stop working through lack of coal, the surplus of manufactured goods would be enough to assure the supply of food needed by Germany.

The paper asserts that if these economic difficulties are not overcome, and if the working class does not stop destroying the resources at its disposal, Germany's condition will be "reduced to nothingness in a few months."

START INQUIRY INTO LONDON RIOT

Board of United States Officers to Ascertain Whether Our Men Were to Blame.

AMERICAN PRISONERS FREED

Six Canadian and British Soldiers Arraigned in Court and Two of Them Fined.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 10.—A searching examination into Sunday's riot near the Eagle Hut has been already begun by the United States authorities. It will deal with every phase of the trouble, and result not only in deciding whether or not American soldiers and sailors were to blame, but also whether the Metropolitan Police exceeded their duty and whether any recommendations can be made concerning the relations of the American forces and British authorities.

The Americans arrested by the police have been returned to their units, and on the evidence at the inquiry will depend whether they or any other of their comrades are brought before a court-martial.

Commander Sterling of the navy, Major Kennedy White, Judge Advocate, and Captain Frank M. White of the Sanitary Corps will form the board, and representatives of the Metropolitan Police and London military authorities have been invited to attend the hearings, but will not, of course, have a voice in the findings. The proceedings are to be private, but the results will be published, and a very large number of witnesses, civilian as well as service, are to be examined.

Corporal Zimmerman, though badly beaten up, is reported to be doing well, and at both the military and naval headquarters today the tendency was not to magnify the rioting.

"It was a police affair, not an international incident," said a naval staff officer. "From the photographs of it I should judge that the number of Americans taking part in the fights has been exaggerated. You see, the Eagle Hut is so popular that it attracts men of all the different services, and if you went there today you would find 80 per cent. were British or colonial.

"We have no intention of putting London out of bounds for our bluejackets. Parties of them come up for week-end leave regularly from Eastleigh and other places, and they have given so little trouble that there is no reason why they should not continue to come." Eastleigh is a camp near Southampton where the American sailors are waiting until the Germans hand over the merchant ships they are to man.

The Chief Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police also conferred today with the Home Secretary as to the conduct of his men.

LONDON, March 10, (Associated Press.)—Six Canadian and British soldiers were arraigned in the Bow Street Court this morning in connection with the Eagle Hut affair. Two were ordered to pay small fines, while the others were remanded for further investigation. A majority of the soldiers testified that the police assailed them first. The police denied the allegation and said they were the ones who were attacked.

The condition of all the men injured in the scramble was better this morning. The two most seriously hurt are Australian soldiers.

Admiral Sims, commander of the American naval forces in European waters, in talking to The Associated Press today, was inclined to regard the disturbance as a sporadic occurrence without significance.

"It is not an international affair," said the Admiral, "but purely a police incident, and is so regarded by all the authorities concerned. There has been a misunderstanding regarding the status of the American military police, and this was probably responsible for the trouble."

Admiral Sims called attention to the fact that the London police regard the American soldiers as the best behaved of any troops that have visited London.

GOFF AN O'LEARY WITNESS.

Ex-Justice Testifies to Defendant's Character.

Ex-Justice John W. Goff of the Supreme Court, testifying yesterday to the character of Jeremiah A. O'Leary, on trial before Federal Judge A. N. Hand for alleged violation of the Espionage act, said that he had known O'Leary five or six years and that his character was good. Justice Goff, according to his testimony, is 71 years old, was born in Ireland and came to this country when he was 16 years old. He stated that he had always been interested in the cause of Irish freedom from English rule and that he had never discovered any disloyalty to America among the Irish, either at their meetings or any other place. He said that love for America in the Irish heart was intensified by hatred of England.

Mrs. Margaret O'Leary, mother of the defendant, told of the early training of Jeremiah in patriotism, through the teachings of his father and grandfather, and of his studious habits, and said that Jeremiah, like all of the other members of the family was truly loyal to the United States. Other character witnesses were Sergeant James O'Brien, an alien and a member of the 69th New York Infantry, who has fought in France; Martin Conboy, Director of the Draft, who testified that he had met no man of Irish blood who sought to avoid the draft; John H. Lineham, first cousin of the defendant, and Miss Anna L. Prendergast, who had been at the Hofbrau House when the defendant met Mme. Victorica, the German spy. None of the character witnesses was cross-examined.

The defense rested and the Government called Jonann J. Sturr, a seaman, who testified that W. J. Robinson, who is under indictment for treason, was in Rotterdam about the time that the Government alleges Robinson was carrying messages between this country and German agents abroad. The trial will be continued this morning.

DEBS LOSES APPEAL; TO SERVE TEN YEARS

Supreme Court Sustains Conviction of Socialist for Obstructing Enlistment.

ANOTHER CASE DECIDED

Western Editor Properly Convicted for Opposing War—Espionage Act Not Passed On as a Whole.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Convictions under the Espionage act of Eugene V. Debs, Socialist leader and four times a Presidential nominee, and Jacob Frohwerk, a newspaper editor of Kansas City, were sustained today by the Supreme Court in unanimous opinions delivered by Justice Holmes. Both men were sentenced by the lower courts to ten years' imprisonment.

While not passing directly upon the constitutionality of the act, the court in effect did declare valid the so-called enlistment section and reaffirmed its opinion that the espionage law is not an interference with the constitutional right of free speech.

When placed on trial Debs called no witnesses in defense and made the only argument in his own behalf. In appealing to the Supreme Court he attacked the admission in evidence by the lower court of the St. Louis Socialist platform, which he had indorsed, and records from the trial of Rose Pastor Stokes and alleged he had been tried on his "state of mind." Validity of the Espionage act was also attacked by Debs, who alleged it violated the right of free speech.

Debs was convicted on three counts, but the court passed directly on only one of these, that charging him with obstructing recruiting and enlistment through statements made in a speech at Canton, Ohio, last June. The other two counts charged him with attempting to incite insubordination and disloyalty, and also with uttering language intended to provoke and encourage resistance to the United States Government. In arguing the case before the Supreme Court, however, the Government did not press the last charge.

Frohwerk's conviction resulted from articles written by him and published in the Missouri Staats-Zeitung criticizing the United States' participation in the war.

Will Review Kirchner Conviction.

Some attorneys interpreted the failure of the court to give a direct opinion as to the constitutionality of the espionage act as indicating its intention to pass upon the merits of each individual case considered by it. The court today granted petitions asking it to review the case of H. E. Kirchner, convicted under the espionage act because of statements made in a recent speech at Elizabeth, West Va., in which he declared that the Government in the prosecution of the war was corrupt and was controlled by the monied interests. He was sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

A number of other espionage cases are now before the court, while about seventy-five cases involving charges similar to those against Debs are pending in Appellate courts throughout the country.

In affirming Debs's conviction, Justice Holmes reviewed the case in detail, and held in effect that Debs had been guilty of a wilful attempt to obstruct recruiting, and that the jury had been properly instructed by the lower court. He also said that the Government had presented a strong argument from the history of the statutes that the instruction was correct and in accordance with established legislative usage, and added that in the light of this fact it was unnecessary to discuss the question in detail.

The main theme of the Debs speech, Justice Holmes said, was "Socialism, its growth and a prophecy of its ultimate success."

"With that," he continued, "we have nothing to do, but if a part of the manifest intent of the more general utterance was to encourage those present to obstruct the recruiting service, and if in passages such encouragement was directly given, the immunity of the general theme may not be enough to protect the speech."

Referring to statements made by Debs while addressing the jury, in which he said, "I have been accused of obstructing the war. I admit it. Gentlemen, I abhor war. I would oppose the war if I stood alone," Justice Holmes said:

A Specific Application.

"The statement was not necessary to warrant the jury in finding that one purpose of the speech, whether incidental or not does not matter, was to oppose not only war in general, but this war, and that the opposition was so expressed that its natural and intended effect would be to obstruct recruiting. If that was intended, and if, in all these circumstances, that would be its probable effect, it would not be protected by reason of its being part of a general program and expressions of general and conscientious belief."

Referring to the introduction of the so-called St. Louis platform as evidence, the court said:

"Evidence that the defendant accepted this view and this declaration of his duties at the time that he made his speech is evidence that if in that speech he used words tending to obstruct the recruiting service he meant that they should have that effect. We should add that the jury was most carefully instructed that they could not find the defendant guilty for advocacy of any of his opinions unless the words used had as their natural tendency and reasonably probable effect to obstruct the recruiting service, &c., and unless the defendant had the specific intent to do so in his mind."

Regarding the Frohwerk case, Justice Holmes declared that the first amendment to the Constitution, while prohibiting legislation against free speech as such, was obviously not intended to give immunity for every possible use of language.

"We venture to believe," the opinion said, "that neither Hamilton, Madison nor any other competent person, then or later ever supposed that to make criminal the counseling of a murder within the jurisdiction of Congress would be an unconstitutional interference with free speech. Whatever might be thought of the other courts of the indictment, if it were before us, we have decided in Schenck vs. the United States that a person may be convicted of a conspiracy to obstruct recruiting by words of persuasion."

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 10.—United States District Attorney Wertz, who had charge of the Debs prosecution, said the mandate from the Supreme Court would not reach Cleveland for probably thirty days. Until it was received, he said, Debs would not be taken in custody. He declared he knew of no plan seeking immediate parole for Debs after he appeared at the Federal prison.

BERGER ET AL. LOSE HOPE.

Fear Debs Decision Foreshadows Result of Their Own Appeal.

CHICAGO, March 10.—J. Louis Engdahl, editor of The American Socialist; Victor L. Berger, the Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker, Adolph Germer, and William F. Kruse, recently sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment for violating the Espionage act, admitted, after learning of the Debs decision today, that their case would probably have the same fate. The only hope Engdahl expressed of keeping out of Leavenworth penitentiary was a general amnesty to political prisoners by President Wilson.

The Berger case has been appealed to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals from Judge Landis's decision, and, if lost there, it will be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

FOR A CHILD HOSPITAL.

State Board of Charities Asked to Approve Two Institutions.

The State Board of Charities met yesterday at 287 Fourth Avenue to consider the application for certificates of incorporation of the Annie Eisenstein Day Nursery of Brooklyn, and the L. G. Kaufman Hospital for Children, at 691 Lexington Avenue. The board was represented by William R. Stewart, Lee K. Frankel, and Dr. J. Richard Kevin.

The Eisenstein Day Nursery applied for incorporation as a day nursery for children and infants to provide for dependent and helpless people in Brooklyn and to further provide sick children with nurses and medical attention. Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, who was present, urged that consideration be given to the application of the Kaufman Hospital, telling the Commissioners that Mrs. Kaufman had done splendid work during the influenza epidemic.

The State Board of Commissioners expressed their opinion that the Kaufman Hospital would be more useful if made a day and night nursery, and said that some opposition to the incorporation of the institution as a children's hospital had been made by the Babies' Hospital, at Fifty-fifth Street and Lexington Avenue. Among the incorporators of the institution were mentioned August Belmont, John A. Harris, and Frederick D. Underwood. The applications were tabled for action at the next meeting of the board.

SINN FEINERS RELEASED.

One of Them, Countess Markievicz, Expected to Claim Commons Seat.

LONDON, March 10.—Sinn Feiners interned in England have been released in batches in the last few days. A score returned to Dublin Sunday.

Among those recently released from Holloway Prison, London, was Countess Georgina Markievicz, who, according to The Daily Sketch, is likely to attend the House of Commons and claim the seat for St. Patrick's Division of Dublin, to which she was elected at the recent general election. The question of her eligibility to the seat will arise, as her husband is a Polish Count who was never naturalized. She therefore is said to be legally a Pole.

GENERALS PETITION FOR IRISH HOME RULE

400,000 IRISH VOLUNTEERS

Plea Justified on Ground That the Situation Is Worse Than Before the War.

LONDON, March 10.—A petition has been submitted to King George, signed by Irish officers who served in the British Army during the war, praying that Irish home rule be submitted to the Peace Conference.

Among the signers are Major Gen. Sir William B. Hinkie, Commander of the 16th Irish Division in France; Brig. Gen. Dayrell T. Hammond, Colonel Sir Henry C. Grattan-Bellew, descendant of Henry Grattan; Colonel Sir Thomas C. Myles, Stephen L. Gwynn, former Member of the House of Commons for Galway; Captain Healy, nephew of Timothy M. Healy; Sir Thomas H. G. Esmonde, on behalf of a son killed in the battle of Jutland, and Mrs. William H. K. Redmond and Mrs. Thomas M. Kettle, on behalf of their husbands, who were killed in the war.

The petition asserts that 200,000 men in Ireland and an equal number of Irish from Great Britain's overseas dominions volunteered for service in the war, and now "when the survivors return home, notwithstanding the fact that the home rule act was a great Irish national demand, they find the situation worse than ever, and, therefore, pray the King to submit the issue to the Peace Conference in Paris."

SEES IRISH SOLUTION SOON.

Sir Horace Plunkett Discusses Problem in Boston Speeches.

BOSTON, March 10. — Sir Horace Plunkett of Dublin, in an address to the State Senate today, said that self-government for Ireland was necessary, but that for the present it would be better for Ireland to remain a member of "the commonwealth of nations known as the British Empire."

Sir Horace said he believed a settlement of the Irish question would be reached presently and that the labor movement in England and other countries would have some influence upon the destinies of his country.

"The Irish question," he said, "can be solved only by Irishmen in Ireland. We look to America for guidance in solving our economic problems, and it is in this way that those Americans who wish to help Ireland can do so in the greatest degree."

Sir Horace also spoke to the students and Faculty of Boston College.

EXTREMISTS HERE PLAN A REVOLT

What Some of Them Say.

Following are some of the excerpts submitted:

The Nuovo Proletario of Chicago, on Dec. 28 under the heading, "This Is Your Task Workingmen: First, defend the Russian revolution wherever you can, as it is the first true revolution of the proletariat ever accomplished in the history of humanity."

A Fels Badulas of Chicago, on Feb. 1: "Slaves of America, awake! Things will hereafter change, no matter whether the American Huns, the industrial Kaisers, their associates and hirelings, like it or not."

Industrial Defense Bulletin of Seattle, Nov. 29: "Big things are just ahead. Don't you think it is time for all rebels to get into line and equip our propaganda and throw our enthusiasm and knowledge into the problem of educating and organizing the workers for victory?"

"Otelma" writes thus in Il Diritto of New York, Jan. 25: "Let us tell them (these Kaisers of wealth) once for all that we are disposed to obtain our liberty at the price of their stinking carcasses. That we are determined to obtain our liberty appearing in the night in their sanctuaries, as livid spectres because of the centuries of starvation and chains, with a dagger between our teeth tight because of wrath, and with dynamite we will bring down the roof of their dwellings, where infamy, dishonor and slavery are perpetuated."

In the same issue the paper speaks of "Americanism, which is all-obsequious and servile to law."

From the Socialist papers, which, theoretically, are less violent in their doctrines, the following excerpts are taken:

L'Avanti of New York, on Nov. 1: "Certainly America will not be the privileged country where the workingmen and bourgeoise class will live in peace and harmony. The harmony of classes is not possible in America. . . . The laborers of America should posess their country."

A Muncas, New York, Feb. 1: "We all are enthusiastic over the work of our revolutionary comrades in Russia and Germany, so why should we ourselves not come to an agreement? . . . Let us think of the outbreak of the storm in which we have to take our stand."

Novy Mir, New York, Jan. 30: "Lenine and all those who are behind him are fighting for the establishment of the Socialist society throughout the entire world, but as real statesmen they know that this cannot be accomplished without revolutionary methods. . . . There is hope that soon also the American workingman will come to understand that simple truth."

El Ore, New York, Jan. 20, 1919: "The hour of deeds has arrived. The International Socialists must leave their reserved attitude and must step out upon the field of action, the opportunity for action is here. . . . The Bolshevist Government may give an opportunity, and not the Berne 'Socialist' Conference. The Socialist Party and its members have only one duty, and this is to oppose most decidedly all movements which purpose to weaken the Bolshevist internationale."

New York Call, Dec. 1, 1918: "The soldiers coming back from Europe have the spirit of Bolshevism. Influenza was brought to America in ships, and the same ship will carry back the soldiers, who will carry a more dangerous disease to the capitalists of America."

Nobitnyk of New York, Feb. 10, 1919: "To break off all relations with the dying corpse and organize all American workers into one communist party which should include us and the comrades of the Socialists' radical party and the I. W. W. will be the first step forward."

Socialist Leaflet—"The war has ended! The war has begun! Workingmen of the world, unite! You have nothing to lose but your chains! You have the world to gain!"

Anarchistic Leaflet—"The senile fossils ruling the United States see red! Smelling their destruction, they have decided to check the storm by passing the deportation law affecting all foreign radicals. We American anarchists do not protest, for it is futile to waste any energy on feeble-minded creatures led by His Majesty Phonograph Wilson! Do not think that only foreigners are anarchists, we are a mighty number right here at home."

Robins Shows Official Papers.

Colonel Raymond Robins, former head of the American Red Cross Mission to Russia, reappeared before the committee today in order to reply to certain statements which Ambassador Francis, according to a Chicago newspaper, made on the witness stand last Saturday.

Colonel Robins made particular reference to a statement of Ambassador Francis regarding Colonel Robins's first visit to Lenine, following the overthrow of the Kerensky Government by the Bolsheviki. The Ambassador said that Colonel Robins had gone to Lenine in order to ascertain the principles of the new Government. According to the account of the testimony which Colonel Robins said he had read, it was made to appear that the Ambassador had testified that Colonel Robins approved of Bolshevism.

"The Ambassador was quoted," said Colonel Robins, "as stating that I approved of the principles of Bolshevism. Of course, that was a ridiculous statement, for I knew the principles of the Bolsheviki and had fought them, and was opposed to them, and am still utterly opposed to them. If the Ambassador made the statement quoted, it was a misstatement, without a scintilla of foundation in fact."

Colonel Robins then placed into the record a number of letters, cablegrams, and other documents, ten of them being, he said, documents which originated with the Ambassador. One of them, written in Russian, was in the handwriting of Lenine, and the others were commendatory letters or cables to Colonel Robins from Secretary of State Lansing and various officials of the Red Cross.

The Francis documents, some of which were copies of official cablegrams to the State Department, were introduced. Colonel Robins said, in order to prove that during the time he was in Russia under the Bolshevist rule he was the unofficial representative of the Ambassador to the Lenine-Trotzky Government. The witness was reminded by Senator King that the Ambassador had himself testified to that fact on Saturday and that, furthermore, Mr. Francis had said that his relations with Colonel Robins had always been pleasant.

Colonel Robins offered first a document, which he said was an exact copy of a document in his possession which was O. K.'d and initialed by David R. Francis, the notations on the document being in the Ambassador's handwriting. It was dated at the American Embassy in Petrograd, Jan. 2, 1918, and was headed, "Suggested Communication to the Commissary for Foreign Affairs." It read:

"At the hour the Russian people shall require assistance from the United States to repel the action of Germany and her allies you may be assured that I will recommend to the American Government that it render them all aid and assistance within its power. If upon the termination of the present armistice Russia fails to conclude a democratic peace through the fault of the Central Powers, and is compelled to continue the war, I shall urge upon my Government the fullest assistance to Russia possible, including the shipment of supplies and munitions for the Russian armies, the extension of credits, the giving of such advice and technical assistance as may be welcome to the Russian people in the service of the common purpose to obtain through the defeat of the German autocracy the effective guarantee of a lasting and democratic peace.

"I am not authorized to speak for my Government on the question of recognition, but that is a question which will of necessity be decided by actual future events. I may add, however, that if the Russian armies now under command of the people's commissaries commence and seriously conduct hostilities against the forces of Germany and her allies, I will recommend to my Government the formal recognition of the de facto Government of the people's commissaries."

"The circumstances of the preparation, O. K.-ing and initialing of this document," Colonel Robins stated, "were as follows:

"For some days I had been working under the verbal instructions of the Ambassador of the United States, in conferences with Lenine and Trotzky and other officers of the Soviet Government, seeking to prevent the signing of a German peace at Brest-Litovsk. To provide against the possibility of error in statement and subsequent refutation of my authorization to represent the Ambassador in the manner indicated by his verbal instructions, this document was prepared by me and submitted to him as a correct statement of his verbal instructions to me and was O. K.'d by him.

"Document, filed as 'Robins Document No. 2,' is an actual copy of an original in my possession, the notations on this document being in the handwriting of the American Ambassador, written therein in my presence in his private office in the American Embassy at Petrograd on the evening of the 2d of January, 1918.

"The document is as follows:

"(Note in lead pencil 'To Colonel Robins': This is substance of cable I shall send to department on being advised by you that peace negotiations are terminated and Soviet Government decided to prosecute war against Germany and Austria-Hungary.—D. R. F.)

"From sources which I regard as reliable I have received information to the effect that Bolshevist leaders fear complete failure of peace negotiations because of probable demands by Germany of impossible terms.

"Desire for peace is so fundamental and widespread that it is impossible to foretell the results of the abrupt termination of these negotiations, with only alternatives a disgraceful peace or continuance of war.

"Bolshevist leaders will welcome information as to what assistance may be expected from our Government if continuance of war is decided upon. Assurances of American support in such event may decidedly influence their decision.

"Under these circumstances and notwithstanding previous cables I have considered it my duty to instruct General Judson to informally communicate to the Bolshevist leaders the assurance that in case the present armistice is terminated and Russia continues the war against the Central Powers I will recommend to the American Government that it render all aid and assistance possible. I have also told Robins of Red Cross to continue his relations with Bolshevist Government, which are necessary for the present.

"Present situation is so uncertain and liable to sudden change that immediate action upon my own responsibility is necessary, otherwise the opportunity for all action may be lost.

"Nothing that I shall do will in any event give formal recognition to the Bolshevist Government until I have explicit instructions, but the necessity for informal intercourse in the present hour is so vital that I should be remiss if I failed to take the responsibility of action."

"This document," continued Colonel Robins, "was prepared by me and submitted to the Ambassador and O. K.'d by him, for the same reasons and purposes stated in the circumstances of Document 1."

Feared Intervention by Japan.

Other documents presented evidenced further the nature of Colonel Robins's confidential relationship as the unofficial representative of Mr. Francis in dealing with the Soviet Government. One of these had reference to reports of a projected Japanese invasion of Russia, and was cabled in cipher to the Secretary of State at Washington on March 9, 1918, by the Ambassador. It read:

"Colonel Robins arrived at midnight. He returned from Petrograd after an important conference with Trotzky on the fifth. The result of that conference he wired to me in the code of the military mission, but as the mission had left for Petrograd, of which fact you were advised, with the code, I did not learn of the conference until the arrival of Robins an hour ago.

"Since R. left Petrograd, Moscow, and Petrograd Soviets have both instructed their delegates to the conference of March 12 to support the ratification of the peace terms. I fear that such action is the result of a threatened Japanese invasion of Siberia, which I have anticipated by sending Wright eastward. Trotzky told Robins that he had heard that such invasion was countenanced by the Allies and especially by America, and it would not only force the Government to advocate the ratification of the humiliating peace, but would so completely estrange all factions in Russia that further resistance to Germany would be absolutely impossible.

"Trotzky furthermore asserted that neither his Government nor the Russian people would object to the supervision by America of all shipments from Vladivostok in Russia and a virtual control of the operations of the Siberian Railway, but a Japanese invasion would result in non-resistance and eventually make Russia a German province. In my judgment a Japanese advance now would be exceedingly unwise and this midnight cable is sent for the purpose of asking that our influence may be exerted to prevent same."

"The deduction to be drawn from those documents," said Senator King, "is that the ambassador was doing all that he could to prevent the ratification of the treaty of Brest-Litovsk?"

"Yes, and also to prevent Japanese intervention. We both did all we could at all times to prevent ratification of that treaty."

"My impression of the testimony of Ambassador Francis," said Senator King, "was that he recognized the value of your services and he stated that he had requested you to continue your relations with the Bolsheviki in order to assist him."

"Yes, there is no doubt but that was the Ambassador's view," added Senator Overman.

"I am glad to hear that," said Colonel Robins.

"As far as I can see there is no conflict between your testimony and that of the Ambassador," said Senator Nelson.

Again Colonel Robins said he was glad to hear it.

Colonel Robins, in a reference to the recall of Sir George Buchanan as British Ambassador to Russia, said that the recall followed a conference that Colonel William B. Thompson of New York had with Lloyd George in London.

"Colonel Thompson," said Colonel Robins, "left Russia at my urgent request. In London he conferred with Lloyd George and shortly thereafter Sir George Buchanan, the Ambassador, and General Knox, the British Military Attaché, were recalled and Bruce-Lockhart was sent to Russia as British High Commissioner. Mr. Bruce-Lockhart and myself were in entire accord in every respect regarding the situation in Russia."

Colonel Robins also said that the Committee on Public Information had offered to assist in financing a group of Bolsheviki, who were ordered into Austria for propaganda work. He said Edgar G. Sisson of the committee turned over 75,000 rubles to him for the Bolsheviki, but the latter declined to accept the money.

RUSSIA UNDER REDS A GIGANTIC BEDLAM

KAMEKIN, President of the Soviet.
SABELNIKOFF, Secretary.

And yet, during a festival arranged by the Soviet Government to celebrate the anniversary of its advent to power, futurist artists were commissioned to paint the entire Theatre Square in Moscow sky-blue and to suspend white lanterns from trees in imitation of clouds, in order to symbolize the 'heaven on earth' brought about by the Bolshevist rule.

"While the people, including the proletarians, are starving and dying of disease by thousands, sunk in the most abject misery," says another fugitive, a Swiss engineer who was in Moscow two weeks ago, "the Bolshevist leaders and high officials live a life of luxury and dissipation in the finest palaces and hotels of the city. Each Commissary has several handsome and elegant 'lady secretaries' attached to his person. Every night these Bolshevist officers are dining and carousing with their female secretaries in the most fashionable restaurants of Moscow—the Empire and National—into which only prominent members of the Soviet, equipped with special entrance tickets, may penetrate; for indescribable orgies are enacted there.

"Lenine himself takes no part in this debauchery, but he is regarded by most of his colleagues in the Soviet as a solitary madman. Trotzky and the other Commissaries freely express their contempt for Lenine and make no secret of the fact that they are only using him as a convenient tool, a kind of communist camouflage for their own materialistic purposes.

"Of all the Soviet leaders, only Lenine, and perhaps Lunacharsky, are sincere fanatics. The rest are unscrupulous adventurers, intent only on financial gain, power, and unlimited opportunities for pleasure and dissipation. Surrounded by this gang of criminals, who are too astute to believe for an instant in his mad doctrine, Lenine's position is in a sense a tragic one."

The Kremlin, where Lenine and most of the Soviet Commissaries live, is protected like a fortress by a triple guard of sailors, Letts, and Chinese. It is extremely difficult, almost impossible, to obtain authorization to see Lenine, and visitors are searched from head to foot before being allowed to enter his apartments.

The churches within the precincts of the Kremlin are closed. In the city the churches are filled day and night with fervent kneeling crowds, praying for deliverance from the nightmare of Bolshevist rule; but no priest is allowed to officiate in them, and no service may be held. The most popular preachers, whose influence over the classes the Bolsheviki feared, have been either killed or imprisoned, among them the patriarch Tikhon.

All the fine Socialistic decrees issued by the Soviet, my informants unanimously declare, exist only on paper and have proved absolutely illusory. Thus, all theatres having been nationalized, tickets for the performances are distributed by the Government among the proletariat, but the workmen do not take the slightest interest in dramatic art, and at once sell their tickets at a good price to the despised bourgeois. Another Soviet decree proclaims that the mail service within the limits of the republic shall be free of charge for all citizens. But this is of advantage to nobody, because the postal organization has long since collapsed altogether, and letters are scarcely ever delivered.

CALL MOSCOW A GRAVEYARD.

Cold and Hunger Weakened People Easy Victims of Typhus.

PARIS, March 10, (Associated Press.)—Typhus is adding to the horrors of hunger and disorder in Moscow, which the population has christened "The Graveyard," according to a British business man who has just arrived in Paris from Russia. There are no disinfectants or medicines with which to fight the epidemic, and no soap. Hot water is scarce, because of the shortage of fuel, and the result is that the freezing and disheartened public is unable to protect itself.

Recently railway officials in Moscow, the business man reports, ordered the crowd out of the Central Railway Station in order to clean it, and found the bodies of five victims of the typhus which had been lying for days among the peasants sleeping on the floor. The undertakers are unable to meet the demands upon them, and the bodies of typhus victims await burial for weeks.

The Winter has been unusually cold in Moscow, and there has been no heat in the houses. The Britisher says that the non-Bolshevist population is so underfed that it has been unable to resist disease.

Under the orders of the Soviet Government, the signs of all private concerns have been removed, and virtually all the remaining stores have been nationalized, but the stocks are so small and incomplete that the clerks make little effort to serve the public. The shops open at 10 in the morning and close at 4 o'clock, and by 6 o'clock the streets are dark and deserted. The Soviet Government every now and then announces that the food supply is increasing, but the statements are never credited, even by the Bolsheviki, because the Government is always decreasing the food allowances.

The Britisher says that there apparently has been a great increase in the number of Chinese troops in Moscow. He says that the Letts and Chinese are the only forces that Lenine and Trotzky regard as loyal. He says that Russians of all classes are serving the Soviet Government, in order to protect their families and to procure food, but that the Russian Red Guards say frankly they will not fight for the Bolsheviki against organized forces from outside Russia.

When the Britisher left Moscow cat and dog meat were selling for 5 rubles a pound and horse meat was bringing 18 rubles a pound. Beef occasionally was sold secretly by the peasants for 28 rubles a pound. Butter, when available, brought 150 rubles a pound. A pound of sugar brought the same sum, but sugar was hard to get. Occasionally a little black flour sold in villages distant from Moscow and Petrograd for about $2 a pound. Ruble exchange fluctuates between 6 and 10 cents.

Lack of coal and oil and the dilapidation of the rolling stock has reduced the number of street cars and railway trains, so that there is terrible crowding and congestion at stations, resulting in the spread of disease. The railway trains are not heated, and scores of passengers have frozen to death in Russia this Winter.

A Britisher visited Petrograd late in January, and says that the situation there was worse than at Moscow. All the Russians who came to Petrograd from small villages and towns have returned to them, but the city population remaining is helpless and without friends.

"I wish that people outside Russia who insist that the Russians in Soviet Russia should rise and overthrow the Bolsheviki could see the real situation," the Britisher concluded. "They would appreciate how impossible it is to upset Lenine and Trotzky. When armed robbers attack unarmed men, the latter have to surrender their purses. It is the same with the Bolsheviki, because they have all the arms and ammunition. The scattered groups which have opposed the Bolsheviki did little more than commit suicide.

"In my opinion, starvation and misery will continue in Moscow and Petrograd until outside pressure forces a change, because the non-Bolsheviki in Soviet Russia are so starved and harassed that they have neither the heart nor the physical strength for effective opposition."

ARCHANGEL FRONT "QUIET."

Snowfall Hampers Operations of Allies and Bolsheviki.

ARCHANGEL, March 9, (Associated Press.)—All sectors of the Archangel front continue comparatively quiet. American and other troops along the River Vaga are strengthening their positions against the possibility of further Bolshevist attacks, although there has been no sign of infantry activity during the last three days.

The Bolsheviki continue to shell Vistavka and enemy airplanes are active along the Dvina. Snow fell yesterday, hampering operations.

MORE GRAND DUKES SHOT.

Four Reported to Have Been Executed in Petrograd.

COPENHAGEN, March 9.—Four more Russian Grand Dukes have been executed at Petrograd by the Bolsheviki during the last fortnight on the charge of being involved in a monarchist plot, according to advices to the Berlinske Tidende.

HAIG CABLES PRAISE FOR 27TH DIVISION

British Commander Offers Gen. O'Ryan Heartiest Greetings on Safe Return Home.

PLAN REGIMENTAL PARADES

Guardsmen to Give Receptions—Mayor's Committee Seeks to Reverse Direction of March.

A cable message from Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, congratulating the 27th Division upon its safe return home and praising its services with the British armies in France and Belgium, was given out yesterday by Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan. The British Commaander in Chief said:

In the name of your comrades in the British Army, I send to you and all ranks of the 27th American Division our heartiest greetings on your safe return. You can tell all those who today welcome you in your own homes that countless homes in Europe are the happier for what you have done and that the Old World will never forget her debt of gratitude to America.

In reply General O'Ryan sent this message:

Many thanks for your kind cablegram of congratulations and greeting to the 27th Division. The disciplined courage in battle of the British soldiers, their fortitude and determination during the dark days of the war and their modesty and generosity in their relations with us won our respect and high regard. We shall always remember with pride our service with the British armies under your command in the great war for world freedom.

The message from the British commander and General O'Ryan's reply will be published in a general order and sent to all units of the division. Company commanders will read it to their men, and it will be made part of the official historical records of the old National Guard division.

While General O'Ryan and his staff are working with the members of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to the Homecoming Troops upon plans for the division parade on March 25, veterans of several of the old National Guard regiments are arranging for regimental parades to be held on March 24, when the units of the 27th come to the armories in this city. The Brooklyn Victory Celebration Committee also announced that the Brooklyn regiments would parade there, probably on Wednesday, March 26.

Major Gen. Daniel Appleton, who was Colonel commanding the 7th Regiment of the New York National Guard for more than twenty-five years, is making plans for the reception of the 107th Infantry when it comes to the city from Camp Merritt. The 107th probably will arrive at the foot of West Twenty-third Street early on Monday afternoon, March 24. It will be met there by the 7th Regiment of New York Guards, commanded by Colonel Howard E. Crall; the Veterans' Association of the 7th Regiment, and by a contingent of officers who were commissioned in other regiments from the ranks of the 7th and 107th.

All these units then will parade up Fifth Avenue from Twenty-third Street to Sixty-sixth Street, where they will return to the 7th Regiment Armory in Park Avenue. The guard of honor will be led by General Appleton, who is to be Grand Marshal, and he will be accompanied by Samuel W. Fairchild, President of the Union League Club, who is chief of staff. The Veterans' Association will be led by its commander, Colonel Willard C. Fisk, who succeeded General Appleton in command of the old 7th, and who commanded the 107th in the overseas service until illness forced his retirement. The marchers will be reviewed at the Union League Club by Brig. Gen. Charles I. De Bevoise, who commanded the 107th during much of its hard fighting in France and Belgium, and was later made commanding officer of the 54th Brigade. Captain E. H. Kent, adjutant of the 107th, is aiding General Appleton in the plans for the reception.

Several regiments in the State Guards also are planning receptions for the old regiments of the New York National Guard. The 71st Regiment will meet the 105th, a unit made up largely of men from the old 71st and 2d National Guard Regiments. The 14th and 23d Regiments, in Brooklyn, will meet the 106th, composed of men from the old National Guard regiments of those numbers.

Congressman John J. Delaney, Chairman of the Brooklyn Victory Celebration Committee, announced yesterday that General O'Ryan was favorable to the suggestion that the Brooklyn units parade there on the day after the division parade in Fifth Avenue. When the 106th arrives in Brooklyn it will march up Bedford Avenue to Prospect Park, but the march will be short because the men will be carrying their heavy service packs. Brig. Gen. James Robb of the State Guards, Colonel Franklin W. Ward of the 106th, and Senator William M. Calder discussed plans yesterday for a second review in Brooklyn, and Senator Calder submitted their proposals to General O'Ryan for approval.

It was announced yesterday at the headquarters of the Mayor's Committee in the Hall of Records that practically all of the 75,000 tickets for the grandstand would be taken up by relatives of men in the division. The 27,000 men are to receive two tickets each for their families; two tickets also are to be sent to the families of the 7,000 casuals. This makes a total of 68,000 tickets for the use of the division, leaving only about 7,000 for delegations from up-State towns having units in the division, members of the Mayor's Committee; and the members of the State Welcome Committee, comprising the executive and legislative officers of the State. The tickets will be distributed in a few days.

Members of the Mayor's Committee yesterday reiterated their belief that it would be better to have the division march up Fifth Avenue, instead of down the thoroughfare, in conformance with the military needs recognized by General O'Ryan. The division commander wishes to march south so that his men, upon finishing the parade in Washington Square, will be nearer the armories than if they finished their hike at 110th Street and Fifth Avenue.

Members of the Mayor's Committee point out that all the decorations on the avenue, now almost completed, were planned with the idea that the division would march up the avenue, symbolizing its return from war. It marched down the thoroughfare when it departed in August, 1917. Grover Whalen, Secretary of the committee, will confer with General O'Ryan today upon making a change in the order.

Tickets for relatives who desire to go down the bay on the Mayor's committee boats to meet the 52d Artillery Brigade on the transport America, arriving on Friday morning, may be obtained in Room 602, Hall of Records. At least three boats are scheduled to leave Pier A at the Battery about 7:30 on Friday morning. The three regiments on the America are the 104th, 105th, 106th. Although these units include all the field artillery in the old National Guard they did not serve with the 27th in France. They were attached most of the time to the 33d Division and fought in the Meuse-Argonne and St. Mihiel offensives.

The New York War Camp Community Service announced yesterday the dates of five dances to be held in the 71st Regiment Armory for members of the 27th Division. About 3,000 men from the division will be invited to each of the dances to be held on March 13, 15, 19, 22, and 29. The Community Service also will distribute theatre tickets to the men and entertain officers at the National Arts Club and the Pershing Club at Madison Avenue and Forty-fourth Street. Theatre tickets also are distributed daily to men in uniform at the Mayor's Committee hut in Times Square. They are given out between noon and 2 o'clock in the afternoon and between 6 and 8 P. M.

MORE OF 27TH DUE TODAY.

Transports Mt. Vernon and Agamemnon to Bring Detachments.

The only transport which arrived yesterday from France was the Feltore with one casual officer. She left St. Nazaire on Feb. 20, but was delayed by rough weather in midocean. According to radio messages received yesterday at the Port of Embarkation, two United States naval transports will arrive today with 9,507 officers and men from Brest.

The Mount Vernon with 5,784 troops, will be the first to arrive this forenoon, and has a good many of the 27th Division aboard. These are the 102d Supply Train, the 102d Sanitary Train, 102d Ammunition Train, and the 27th Division Military Police and Casual Company. There are also a number of New York and New Jersey casuals, 98 army nurses, 10 naval officers, and 801 sick and wounded on board.

The Agamemnon, which is due about 2 o'clock, has 3,723 troops on board, including the 2d Battalion Headquarters and Sanitary Detachment and Companies E and F of the 102d Engineers, totaling 19 officers, 595 enlisted men of the 27th Division.

The Hollandia, with the 102d Field Signal Battalion, 11 officers and 477 men, is due to arrive on Thursday, and the America, with the 104th, 105th, and 106th Field Artillery complete, comprising the 52d Artillery Brigade, is due on Friday.

The transport Ohioan, with 1,627 troops on board, will reach the Ambrose Channel Lightship tonight, and come up to her pier early tomorrow. Other transports that are due but have not been reported, are the Honolulu, with 114 men; the Chinampa, with 22 casuals, and the hospital ships Mercy and Comfort, with about 500 sick and wounded on each.

GENERAL SHERRILL HONORED.

Former Head of State Guard Guest at Dinner.

At the St. Regis Hotel on Saturday evening, Colonel Michael Friedsam entertained Brig. Gen. Charles H. Sherrill, former Adjutant General of New York State, and former head of the State Guard, at a dinner in his honor. Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan was among those who attended. Other guests were Brig. Gens. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Charles W. Barry, George R. Dyer, F. De Forest Kemp, and James Robin. The large military contingent also included General Sherill's fellow officers, Colonels Frederick W. Baldwin, George W. Burleigh, Howard E. Crall, Nelson B. Burr, Walter J. Carlin, F. V. L. Hoppin, J. Weston Myers, John J. Pretan, Clarence W. Smith, and others.

General O'Ryan referred to the appreciation of the soldiers at the front for what was accomplished on their behalf by the people who remained at home. The feeling of the fighters was one of pure sentiment, said the General, and sentiment is everything. "To show you," said the commander of the 27th Division, "that this is one of the greatest assets in the training of a soldier, I call your attention to the adoption of the European method of decorating on the field. I recall one incident where eighty-six men of the 27th Division were decorated by General Pershing. They were drawn up before the division, which had been scrubbed clean and was spic and span. The sentiment created permeated the entire division and boosted the morale. Every soldier who did not receive a decoration that day became sentimental and determined that in the next engagement he would win one. And many did."

Brig. Gen. George R. Dyer presented General Sherrill with a New York State flag. General Sherrill expressed his approval of the proposal to Federalize the New York Guard. "The subject was broached," said the General, "while I was head of the guard, but it was not taken because objections were raised and because I did not like to think of the guard being taken out of the State. The record that has been made by the guard stands. When I organized it, 90 per cent. of the officers were former National Guard officers. This insured the success of the enterprise at the outset."

LAST UNITS OF 27TH SAIL.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The last element of the 27th (New York National Guard) Division has sailed from France. An official cablegram from the American Headquarters in France today said: "Last element of 27th Division left Brest March 6 on Seattle." The Seattle is due at New York March 19.

There are two detachments of the 27th Division on the Seattle, according to information received at the headquarters of the port of embarkation here. They are the 104th Machine Gun Battalion of New York, complete, with twelve officers and 396 men, and a detachment of the 107th Infantry, with three officers and 244 men.

Other units on the Seattle, which is carrying 1,597 troops, include Mobile Hospital No. 112, with seven officers and 660 men; casual companies from California, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, and casual officers from various branches of the service.

The battleship Missouri, which sailed from Brest March 5, a day before the Seattle, is carrying twenty-four officers and 724 men of the 106th Machine Gun Battalion, 27th Division, and fifty-one casuals, due March 18.

SOLDIERS OF 77TH ASSURED OF JOBS

ABOUT 75 CASUALS IDLE

"New York Jobs for New York Soldiers," Slogan Proposed by Employment Officer.

Major S. Fullerton Weaver, who was designated to come to this country to find jobs for the men of the 77th Division, said yesterday that the responses of employers in this city to his appeals made it certain that none of the men of the National Army division would be without work when the organizations were mustered out here. About 21,400 men in the division had received assurances of reinstatement in their old jobs before Major Weaver began his campaign.

Gordon L. Sawyer, who was assigned by the United States Employment Service to aid Major Weaver, sent out letters to the former employers of the 3,600 men who had received no assurances of reinstatement. Of 100 replies received no employer has refused to reinstate the men who went to war. Ninety letters said that the employers might be able to give jobs to more than their former employes. Ten letters pointed out that the soldiers mentioned were not working when they were called to war, but added that preference would be given to them upon return. By this circular letter jobs have been found for 141 soldiers.

The efforts of the 77th Division Association Employment Bureau at 280 Madison Avenue are being devoted largely now to finding jobs for casuals, or men who were sent home in advance of the division to recuperate from wounds or illness. Jobs have been found for many of these men, but about seventy-five still are without work. Among those who want work are teachers, firemen, iron workers, accountants, jewelers, chemists, stock clerks, typewriter salesmen, salesmen with experience in handling all sorts of apparel, electricians, waiters, telegraphers, bookbinders, creamery workers, freight traffic clerks, a commercial news reporter, a compositor, and advertising clerks.

It has been suggested by Major Weaver in a circular letter to employers that the slogan, "New York jobs for New York soldiers," be adopted.

"It is an unfortunate fact that many soldiers from various localities on being mustered out of service in this vicinity have preferred to remain in this city rather than return to their own homes," said Major Weaver. "In finding work here these men have pre-empted jobs which would have been available to New York soldiers returning home at a later date, while the jobs waiting in communities of these out-of-town soldiers are not available to the returning soldiers of this city."

Dr. Campbell Morgan to Come Here.

LONDON, March 10.—The Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, former pastor of the Westminster Congregational Church, has accepted a professorship in the Teachers' Training School, New York. Dr. Campbell will begin his work next October.

JEWS WILL HONOR DR. WISE'S MEMORY

Meeting at the Harmonie Club Lays Plans to Raise Fund for Famous School He Founded.

NEW YORK TO GIVE $125,000

Speakers Pay Tribute to Ideals and Principles That Guided Life Begun 100 Years Ago.

Responding to the appeals of Henry Morgenthau, ex-Ambassador to Turkey, and of Jacob H. Schiff, for a united effort to spread the ideals of Judaism, the Executive Committee of the Isaac M. Wise Centenary launched a campaign last night at the Harmonie Club, 4 East Sixtieth Street, to raise $300,000 for the support of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati.

It was announced that $100,000 of this fund would be raised by the Reformed Congregations in the New York metropolitan district, and $25,000 more among unaffiliated Jews. The Chairman of the Executive Committee, Daniel P. Hays, was introduced by Ben Altheimer, Vice Chairman. Mr. Hays outlined the needs of the union and the college, and emphasized the ideals which had dominated them ever since they were founded by Dr. Wise.

Rabbi Nathan Krass of the Central Synagogue laid stress upon the unity of nationality and religion, saying that the motto of Jews must not be "Judaism versus Americanism," or "Judaism or Americanism," but "Judaism and Americanism." At the close of the meeting Rabbi Isaac Landman outlined the practical details of the plan and announced that Philip J. Goodheart had been appointed Honorary Chairman of the Executive Committee and Mrs. Alexander J. Kohut Chairman of the Advisory Committee of Women.

The campaign will be officially opened at a mass meeting to be held in the Temple Emanu-El, Forty-third Street and Fifth Avenue, on the evening of March 16, when the speakers will be Abram I. Elkus and Dr. Samuel Schulman. Dr. Joseph Silverman will preside. During the week following the workers in the campaign will meet at the Hotel Biltmore on Wednesday, March 19; Saturday the 22d, and Monday the 24th, at 5 o'clock, for conference. On the evening of March 30 the Eastern Council of Reformer Rabbis will hold a memorial service for Dr. Isaac M. Wise in the Temple Emanu-El.

After paying a touching tribute to Dr. Wise and delcaring that the gathering in his memory proved that he was immortal, since his spirit lived among them, Mr. Morgenthau said he differed from some of the previous speakers in that he held that Judaism should become militant. "The greatest fight of history," he continued, "has just been fought between democracy and autocracy. It was so important that we should centre our attention upon it. We should give all the consideration we can to awaken ideals.

"You have that chance now. Zionism is going to do you some good; it is going to arouse you from your complacency. You must realize that it will turn you back a thousand years. Why surrender all you have gained during this time? Reformed Judaism must assert itself. If American democracy can annihilate autocracy and anarchy, we Jews cannot accept the foolish argument that you must have Zionism to keep the Jews as Jews. We must have something, but it is not Zionism. The Rabbis and people must spread Judaism in America and they must be militant.

"I believe that today there is a religious revival in the world. Why should our patriotism be doubted if at the same time we are to have a moral awakening? I have been delighted as I have traveled over this country in order to promote various causes, such as the Jewish Welfare campaign. I found the rabbis honored in their communities, and everywhere they held important positions. We can have a Jewish revival in this country, which is our Zion, and not Palestine.

"I have no objection to the founding of a Jewish university in Palestine. I think it is a fine thing. But when we realize the opportunities that the men who sit at this table have had in this country, it seems a stupid and ridiculous notion not to admit that this is the Promised Land. Let us wake up, and, as the Christians have done, be a militant religion.

"Everywhere I have been people have told me that they were not for Zionism, but that they were afraid to assert themselves. All that the Zionists want they have got. President Wilson has assured us that full civil and religious rights would be granted to Jews everywhere. It did not require Zionists to get that. They will get it as the result of the conduct of Jews throughout the world. The League of Nations would be imperfect if it did not include it.

"You cannot make a good American out of anybody unless he is religious, and as we want a fine morality, we are looking to you ministers of the Jewish faith to give it to us.

"To the moral strength of our nation, American Judaism must contribute in the greater measure. In times of adversity and prosperity the moral and spiritual courage of the Jew has become proverbial. Now, in this new era for America and for the world, this strength and courage, the roots of which are imbedded in our religion, must be fostered and made a living force more than ever before. The Isaac M. Wise Centenary gives us the opportunity to establish the institution of American Judaism on a firm foundation. This we must do, lest we fall to contribute in the fullest measure our share to the spiritual rebuilding of the world."

After referring with a smile to his difference of opinion with Mr. Morgenthau upon the question of Zionism, and urging upon all Jews the necessity of standing firmly for Judaism, regardless of any differences on that matter, Mr. Schiff expounded his conception of liberal Judaism.

"American Judaism," he said, "is something of a misnomer. To me there is only one kind of Judaism, and that is—Judaism, including both Orthodox and Reformed Judaism. The two belong together. You cannot have one without the other. Orthodox Judaism would soon cease, for those who were brought up in Judaism in America and elsewhere would cease to be Jews if there were no reformed Judaism.

At the time of Moses Mendelssohn, at the end of the eighteenth and the beginning of the nineteenth centuries, Judaism lost many of its best members because they found nothing in inflexible, orthodox Judaism to enable them to step out into the light of civilization and take part in it. That condition would repeat itself in America if the immigrants which Russia and the East are fortunately sending us had not American Judaism to stand at their door, into which their descendants to whom American life and American civilization is something new, could enter. Orthodox Russian Judaism, which at some time would become unsympathetic with the younger generation, would at some time come to nought if it did not have immigrant Jews to fill its ranks. We must keep Judaism alive for that reason.

"American Judaism would have no future if it were not adapted to the liberal conditions which underlie American institutions." Here Mr. Schiff paid a tribute to Dr. Wise for the part he had had in building up this kind of liberal Judaism, and then commended the Jewry of New York for the splendid work it had done in the two campaigns for the Jewish War Relief and for the Jewish Federation. He predicted that the new campaign would show even greater and more commendable results. He warned against the danger of division in the ranks of the Jews and reminded those present that there were already seven or eight delegations at the Paris Peace Conference. Moreover, he contended that Zionism and anti-Zionism could not be allowed to divide the Jews, but that they must show a united front.

Mr. Schiff then pointed out that the Holy Land was not to be restored necessarily for American Jews or the English Jews, or the handful of French Jews, but for the "hounded Jews of Poland, Galicia, Rumania, where notwithstanding the granting of civic and religious rights by the Peace Conference, they would be cheated out of it by the lack of sympathy of the other peoples in those lands. It is that these Jews may have a homeland that I preach Zionism. I do not want a Jewish nation or a Jewish State, but a land where the Jews may go and be masters of their own destinies. We need not create a Jewish nation in a land where, comparatively speaking, there are no Jews, but we need to create a homeland for the Jews, where they may be happy."

Mr. Hays outlined the purposes and the ideals of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and the Hebrew Union College, giving an idea of their financial needs.

"The Union of American Hebrew Congregations and the Hebrew Union College are national in their character and truly represent the spirit of American Judaism," he said. "The extent of their financial support measures our sincerity and faith in the religious ideals which we as Jews profess and determine the respect in which we shall be held by the Christian world.

"Today the million and a quarter Jews in the city contribute to these activities the beggarly sum of $16,000, representing only forty-eight contributers, of whom one alone gives $6,000—while our coreligionists in other cities of the United States add to this amount $104,000.

"The requirements of the union are at least the sum of $300,000 a year. Is it necessary for me to remind you that New York's contribution is a disgrace to its generosity and a reproach to its religious convictions?

"By reason thereof the future existence of the Union is seriously threatened, and should its work falter or be discontinued we would subject ourselves to the contempt of mankind.

"We have been called in the Torah 'a peculiar people,' but that designation was made because at that time we were the only people who recognized the spirituality and oneness of God and had been selected to preach His righteousness.

"Shall we forfeit our title in this respect and furnish to our traducers a new meaning for the word, in that with freedom of conscience secured to us by the laws of our beloved country we have forsaken the main purpose of our existence, while other religions which have taken their inspiration from our 'Book' are straining every nerve to awaken the spiritual conscience of their followers?

"Zionist and anti-Zionist, Nationalist and anti-Nationalist, can all unite upon the platform we present to you as a common ground upon which we can stand in this campaign for American Judaism."

Rabbi Krass, appealing for a united Americanism and Judaism, said:

"The war has roused dormant religion. It has resurrected ideals deemed dead. It has stirred the hidden springs of the worthiest in man, awakened his noblest instincts and evoked his better self.

"The call of suffering humanity has melted the human heart and loosened the tightened purse. We have clothed the naked, fed the hungry and given habitation to the homeless.

"In all this altruistic activity the American Jew has taken a notable and distinguished part. Carried away on the wave of idealism, it is for the Jew not to let himself slip into the ocean of memory and thrill at the things he gloriously did.

"On to the shores of religion! Let not the better self lapse into complacent materialism. What feeds philanthropy? What urges nobility? What inspires to unselfish conduct? Is it not the powerful command of religion?

"Isaac M. Wise came to America in the middle of the nineteenth century. He saw this wonderful land. He studied its free institutions. His genius discerned that liberal or prophetic Judaism and Americanism were confluent streams, flowing into the sea of righteousness. So he brought this message to Israel and saved Israel from apostacy. He vocalized it for the non-Jews and saved them from unworthy reaction toward the Jew. Occidentalizing the ancient faith of Israel, Isaac M. Wise sought to preserve it in dynamic potency in the midst of an environment most favorable to its growth and receptive to its contribution.

"Liberal Judaism in America needed concrete institutions to maintain it. So this master builder, like Moses of old, built the tabernacle wherein were enshrined Israel's ideals. All over the land he wandered and built.

"Liberal Judaism in the last quarter century presents the paradox of growing in extenso and falling in intensity. Countless temples have been dedicated in its name, but somehow the religious ardor from the inner spiritual as distinguished from the outward material side has lessened. Not here to spell the causes. Suffice to say that in the wake of the spiritual revival the world over, liberal Judaism needs revitalization.

"We have not made enough use of our sacred heritage. We have not flung out our ideals, that now are being kneaded into the covenant of peace at Paris, with sufficient spiritedness and vehemence.

"Here then is our opportunity to honor the great leader whose centenary we soon shall commemorate and to corral under the banner of our faith the hosts of young Israel in the land. Not 'Judaism versus Americanism.' Not 'Judaism or Americanism.' But Judaism and Americanism is our motto. Loyalty to our faith and our country whose ideals throb with divine pulsation.

"Out of its lethargic sleep let us waken prosperity. Out of its self-content let us stir material success. Out of its self-sufficiency let us summon philanthropy. Listen, ye powers in Israel. You need the glow of Judaism to give you warmth and the light of faith to shine on your path. Help give concrete expression to this glorious desideratum and join hands with all those who want to relaunch American Judaism in the fullest confidence that it will sail the seas with safety and reach the goal of divinity unharmed and unafraid. The lighthouse is the college. Fortify its foundation. The lookouts are the Union. Give it courage, hope, and power. Give it sustenance, strength, and good speed."

DRY SETBACK IN JERSEY.

Prohibition Amendment, Facing Defeat, Is Laid Over in Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., March 10.—To save the Prohibition Amendment resolution from defeat in the Senate today Senator Harold B. Wells of Burlington County, its introducer, had the measure laid over after enough votes had been cast to insure its defeat, but before the completion of the rollcall.

Ten Senators had voted against the measure and eight for it, when Senator Wells interrupted to have the resolution laid over. There are only twenty members in the New Jersey Senate and eleven votes would be necessary to pass the measure.

When the measure came up for final passage it was supported by Senator Wells, Senator James Hammond of Mercer, and President William N. Runyon of Union, who relinquished the chair to speak in favor of the measure. The "wets" sat silent throughout the speeches.

The opponents of the measure were sure, however, that they would be able to prevent its passage. After Senator Wells had caused the measure to be laid over, the opponents of Prohibition in the Senate were convinced that it was dead and that New Jersey was practically lined up with Connecticut, the only other State which has rejected the amendment. Rhode Island has not yet acted upon the measure. These three are the only States which have not adopted the amendment.

The opponents of prohibition in the Senate asserted tonight that the "drys" had polled their full strength and could not hope to gain any converts to their cause. The "dry" campaign to gain more votes in the Senate, however, would continue, it was said, by the advocates of the measure.

Even if the amendment had passed the Senate, its fate in the Assembly would have been doubtful. The "wets" say that they will poll against the amendment thirty-eight out of the sixty votes in the Assembly. The strength of the "wet" forces showed the effects of the eleventh-hour campaign against prohibition.

The eight who stood for the passage of the resolution were Republicans. Of the ten who opposed, six were Democrats and four Republicans. Majority Leader Case and Senator Haines of Camden did not vote.

LANE TO SERVE AS SOCIAL UNIT HEAD

TO DEVELOP COMMUNITIES

Many Prominent New Yorkers Interested in Plan Successfully Tried at Cincinnati.

Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, has accepted the invitation of the National Social Unit Organization to become its head, according to a statement made yesterday by Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, one of the three executives of the organization. The object of the movement is to solve, through scientific laboratory experimentation, the problem of how to organize communities so that every citizen can take part in the community programs and so that the people as a whole may be drawn into close and continuous relationship with the experts.

Mr. Lane, who, as Chairman of the Field Division of the Council of National Defense, headed the first nation-wide movement to organize the people of the United States by small population units, accepted the invitation of the National Social Unit Organization, it was said, because he had become convinced that the plan of organization used in the Social Unit in Cincinnati has a far-reaching significance in solving the problems of the community organization which the country faces today.

For the past two years the organization has conducted an experiment in a district of 15,000 people, comprising thirty-one blocks in Cincinnati. The object has been to determine the most effective method of democratic organization on a district basis.

The controlling democratic body organized as a whole in the Social Unit area in Cincinnati is composed of two houses—a popular chamber called the Citizens' Council, consisting of one representative democratically elected from each of the thirty-one blocks, and a skilled chamber, called the Occupational Council, consisting of one representative democratically elected by each of the nine technically skilled groups. These groups include at present the physicians of the district, the nurses, the social workers, the teachers, the recreational workers, the ministers, the business men, the trade unionists, and those interested in publicity.

Representation Grows Steadily.

"The extension of this group representation is proceeding steadily as new types of skill are needed in the practical services undertaken by the community," said Mrs. Tiffany in a statement yesterday. "Each member of the popular chamber is the executive of a block council, and each member of the skilled chamber the executive of a group council. The executive of the skilled chamber and the general executive elected by both houses together constitute a committee of executives, which is similar to a commission form of municipal government.

"During the past year the organization has concentrated its attention on the problem of public health, broadly conceived as embracing the needs of people for medical and nursing care, recreation, good housing, &c. Within this brief period it has demonstrated its ability.

"1. To convey within a few hours to each man, woman, and child in the district, by word of mouth, information of value and importance to them.

"2. To assemble in behalf and at the behest of the people in the district, complete and continuously corrected data concerning social and community needs in which they are vitally interested and which they desire to meet.

"3. To render continuously available for the whole community the service of the entire membership of the skilled groups, (such as doctors and nurses engaged in preventing sickness and distress.)"

In his acceptance of the invitation extended to him by the Social Unit Organization, Mr. Lane said: "I believe the National Social Unit Organization has great potentialities for bringing Government close to the lives of the people and for securing the co-operation of all classes in the most democratic way imaginable; for developing the community as a unit of the nation, to provide its people with the municipal and civic life fulfilling their desires."

Organized in New York.

The National Social Unit Organization was created in New York City in 1916. Its purpose, as stated at that time, was "to hasten the coming of a democracy, both genuine and efficient, by building up on a basis of population units an organization through which the people can study their own needs and can utilize the services of technically skilled groups in formulating and carrying out programs to meet those needs."

Among the people who are assisting in the experiment are Raymond Fosdick, Chairman of the Commission on Training Camp Activities; Felix Frankfurter, Chairman of the War Labor Policies Board; Dr. Franklin H. Martin, Chairman, General Medical Board of the Council of National Defense; Mrs. Willard D. Straight of New York; Dr. William H. Welch, President of the Johns Hopkins Medical College; Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, New York City; Thomas L. Chadbourne, Counselor for the War Trade Board; Edwin F. Gay, Director of the Federal Bureau of Statistics and Planning; Miss Ella Phillips Crandall, Secretary of the National Organization of Public Health Nursing Organization; Porter Lee, head of the New York School of Philanthropy; John P. Frey, editor of the International Iron Moulders' Journal; Rowland Haynes, Director of the New York War Camp Community Service; Mrs. V. Everit Macy, President of the Girl Scouts of America; Professor R. E. Chaddock of Columbia University, Secretary of the American Statistical Association; Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim, President of the Emanu-El Sisterhood, and many others.

CALLS UNIT SOCIALISTIC.

Lane Experiment in Cincinnati Near Bolshevism, Mayor Asserts.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 10.—Mayor John Galvin created a sensation today by asserting that the Social Unit, experimented with in a certain district here for the first time, and which is being advocated for extension to every large city in the country, is a most dangerous type of socialism.

"I consider it a dangerous institution in our city," the Mayor said, "and but one step away from Bolshevism."

Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, is Chairman of the National Social Unit Organization, and it was an announcement from the East that plans were being perfected to extend the experiment to all other large cities that prompted Mayor Galvin to issue his statement.

The Mayor also gave out a letter written by the late Dr. J. H. Landis, former Health Officer of Cincinnati, who was responsible for bringing the first experiment of the Social Unit to this city. In this letter, addressed to W. C. Phillips, Executive, National Social Unit Organization, Dr. Landis pointed out that both Mr. and Mrs. Phillips had told him that they were radical Socialists, and further down in the letter stated that "Mr. Hart, your assistant, met with a group of Socialists in Pittsburgh and made the statement that 'in Cincinnati we have socialism with its feet on the ground.'"

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are reported to be in the East, but Courtney Dinwiddie, acting head of the Social Unit Organization, answered the Mayor's announcement with a statement that the Social Unit is "the most sane and constructive effort in community service now going on in America."

"Just such constructive measures to achieve the highest ideals of our great Republic are the best answer to Bolshevism and class measures of all kinds," he said.

SAYS ARMY COURTS BREED BOLSHEVISM

Senator Also Warns of Impending Danger if Discharged Soldiers Are Not Employed.

ANSWERS JINGOISM CHARGE

Asks Business Men Here to Quell Spirit of Unrest or Face Nation-Wide Anarchy.

Criticising severely the authorities for the long sentences imposed upon soldiers who had been found guilty of slight infractions of the military rules, Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon, Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs in the Senate, declared yesterday at a luncheon of the United States League of America that if he had had his way all these men would have been released before any of these who, "because of their religious beliefs, were too proud to fight." Injustices resulting from the present system of courts-martial he considered a potential cause of Bolshevism. George L. Baker, Mayor of Portland, Ore., also spoke.

In opening his address, Senator Chamberlain referred to charges of a "jingoism," which he said New York newspapers had made against him when, at the beginning of the world war, he had urged that America be put on a war basis.

"It seemed to me," he said, "that America, with her commercial relations what they were, had absolutely no chance of avoiding the war and making common cause with the Allies. Notwithstanding the splendid energy that the country showed, it is a fact that we did not have on the fighting front the guns necessary to determine the issue of the war as promptly as it should have been determined. I say this not in the spirit of criticism, but it is true that with all that we were able to accomplish America was behind in all that was necessary. If I had had my way I would have gone into the war when the Lusitania was sunk.

"The after-war problems are more serious than those that confronted us during the war itself, the problems of reconstruction, labor troubles, and Bolshevism. I believe that the American head and heart will be able to adjust and settle these, but do not close your eyes to the situation. There are those who would destroy our form of Government, and there many of them right here in New York City. There is no room in America for Bolsheviki, anarchists, or hyphenated individuals, and it is up to you to see that Bolshevism is nipped in the bud.

"In the penitentiaries of the United States are young boys who have received sentences of from 5 to 50 years for slight infractions of the military rules. From my own investigations I have found in jail boys of 17 and 18 years old, not yet matured, who had been sentenced to these long terms. Many of them had been absent without leave because they had become homesick and had gone to their nearby mothers or sweethearts to bid them farewell. For being away five days without leave, some men received forty years in the penitentiary. Moreover, the sentences were absolutely imposed at the dictation of the commanding officer, because if the sentence did not meet with his approval he would order the court to reconvene, and often he would send instructions as to the verdict he desired.

Say One Man Can Infect Many.

"I call attention to these occurrences because they are the things that make Bolsheviki of our young men. Allow a young fellow to feel that injustices have been done by the courts of his country, and they have been, and to go out among his friends and talk about them, and he soon infects the whole neighborhood. Let me cite you an instance. A young fellow from my home town in Mississippi was commissioned as a Lieutenant. He rendered faithful service to his country and had been intrusted with the funds of his company. He was in France at the time the armistice was signed, and on the night of the celebration he had a few dollars of the company's fund in his pocket, and spent them. He was court-martialed and acquitted. Despite the fact that he went to his commanding officer the next morning, told him of the incident and refunded the money, the officer said that no man who had been trusted should escape punishment, and ordered the court reconvened.

"The knowledge of that sort of thing infects a whole community. We make anarchists of that class of men. We must cope with the situation. We want to show our soldiers who have fought so magnificently that they are being treated right. They should be given preferential employment. You have it in your power to alleviate the situation as to unemployment.

"As for the Bolsheviki, we have a way of dealing with them out West. We string them up, and some of them we put aboard a train and send them on their way to Europe. You should see that any one who denounces the Government finds a more congenial clime. If the business man do their duty, they will see that the spirit of unrest is quelled—by legal methods, of course. If you go from here with a determination to see that that spirit is placated, we shall not have the problem wth us very long."

Mayor Baker maintained that the Governors who recently assembled at Washington had little conception of the labor unrest in the country, and that Governor Cox of Ohio was the only one who seemed to realize what the situation really was, and to sense its dangers. He also paid a tribute to Mayor Ole Hansen of Seattle for the manner in which he had dealth with the strike there. "We always thought we had a democracy, but out there is an organization of 70,000 workers, who were being paid more than any one else and did not know why they had walked out. The problem was a most serious one, for the trouble would certainly have spread if it had not been checked in the beginning. The Mayors are in a better position to appreciate the labor situation because they are closer to the people, and they appreciate the fact that if the attempts to get control of certain interests were successful, every dollar invested would be jeopardized. Throughout the country there are people working secretly in groups for the overthrow of the Government, and unless we realize the situation there will be troubleous times ahead."

... and at the Stock Exchange

A fact:

At this, the very heart of Wall Street itself, one would naturally expect only high-priced cigarettes to be popular. But Fatima has proved an exception.

Fatima's popularity at the Stock Exchange is, in fact, so great that only one cigarette—a high-priced one, of course—equals or leads Fatima in sales.

NOTE—Men who think and act at high tension appreciate a cigarette that leaves them feeling right. This quality, together with Fatimas' pleasing taste doubtless explains why Fatimas just seem to be the "right fit" for so many men.

In reply Major Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, who commanded the 26th in France, sent the following:

"Welcome home, stout-hearted lads. Trust you go to Devens for great welcome of division on arrival in April. Plentiful leaves in Boston. Advised Governor of Maine."

The battleship Nebraska from Brest with 1,100 returning soldiers, docked here today, the first warship transport to enter this port. Her passengers included Battery F of the 54th Artillery and many casual companies made up largely of New England men.

During the war, because of the great demands made upon us by the Government, and due to the shortage of material and labor, we were compelled to disappoint many firms who wanted to install the—

Dictograph

System of Interior Telephones

We are again prepared to accept orders, and are happy in announcing that the Dictograph is now ready to do its share in the reconstruction period facing American executives.

The Dictograph System will aid you in directing your labor and in collecting and handling your material. It will speed up your production and assembly, assist in delivery, and give you time to think and plan your finance.

Do not confuse the Dictograph with the correspondence dictating machines

The Dictograph is the last word in Interior Telephone Systems, and is in daily use by over 50,000 leading executives in every line of business, large and small, throughout the country.

It can be used where only 2 or 3 stations are necessary, and is sufficiently elastic to meet the requirements of the larger organizations, using 10-20 30-40-up to 100 or more stations, depending upon the inter-communication requirements.

Let us show you—on your own desk—in your own office, bank, plant or factory—how the Dictograph will simplify and expedite the work of every executive and employe in your organization—how it will enable each to do more work, better work, quicker work; and yet permit each man to remain at his own desk or within his own department. No wasted steps—no misspent energy—no needless errors.

The Dictograph provides a direct, immediate and confidential inter-communication service, bringing instant contact between departments—as expressed by the National Fire Insurance Company, who write:

"Our conversations now are as though we stood elbow to elbow, with all the satisfaction that such intimate contact implies."

May we give you an actual working, talking, 5-minute demonstration—today?

Let us show you how the famous loud-speaking Master Station gives the executive the "right of way," at the same time affording complete, direct and efficient inter-office and inter-department communication—how the voice is heard as perfectly as if the party talking were in the same room sitting at your desk—how you can hold conferences, dictate letters, receive reports, give orders, talk to callers—all without effort and without leaving your desk!

Mail the Coupon now—or Telephone Bryant 4633. The Booklet will be mailed, or Demonstration made, without obligation of any kind on your part.

WOMEN TENNIS STARS BEGIN TOURNAMENT FOR NATIONAL INDOOR CHAMPIONSHIP

YOUNG MISS BAKER PLAYS FAST TENNIS

Sixteen-Year-Old Girl Defeats Mrs. Stanwix in Title Tournament.

MISS SHELDON A WINNER

Takes Lively Three-Set Match from Miss Holden—Doubles Will Start Today.

The girl scouts of American tennis asserted themselves yesterday at the Seventh Regiment Armory, when play began in the twelfth annual women's indoor national championship. Sixteen-year-old Betty Baker made her tournament début with an impressive victory over Mrs. George B. Stanwix, 6—0, 5—7, 6—1, stroking the ball with freedom and power both fore and back hand, and sending over a severe twist service that scored many an ace. Mrs. Stanwix, who has built up her game in a surprisingly short time, did well to take a set from her whirlwind opponent.

Two youngsters of the Hooker family also performed in determined and effective fashion, while their older sister, Barbara, took a match by default. Adelaide, the second of the trio, went out of her class against that steady court-coverer, Mrs. H. S. Green, but, though losing at 6—2, 6—1, the sturdy little bobhaired girl carned many points with a forehand wallop of truly masculine viciousness.

Helen, the youngest of the Hookers, caught a Tartar in Florence Pond, a newcomer, also of the junior class, and won only after two long sets, 10—8, 8—6, her ability to volley close to the net giving her the slight margin of victory. This and the preceding match had to be played upstairs on the ballroom floor, after the main hall of the armory was claimed for drill.

The best tennis of the day resulted from the first-round clash of Florence Sheldon and Bessie Holden, although both of these dependable players were far from their Summer form. Miss Sheldon was the slower to get under way and dropped the opening set 6—1, but her slicing cross-court drive acquired more and more sting as the match progressed, and she eventually came home a winner 1—6, 6—4, 6—3. It was chiefly a back-court affair.

Mrs. F. H. Cabot of Boston upset some calculations by eliminating Mrs. H. F. Morse, who, however, was distinctly below the Vanderhoef standard of the past. The winner drove steadily from the baseline and profited by her opponent's errors through two straight sets, 6—4, 6—2.

At 10:30 this morning Mrs. Cabot plays Clare Cassel, who yesterday turned in a clean score of two love sets against Mrs. N. Dain. The only player to advance to the third round was Mrs. E. C. Sohst, who defeated Margaret Taylor 6—1, 6—0, after each had received a default.

Mrs. M. B. Huff of Philadelphia put out Hazel Gardner in straight sets, 6—1, 6—4, and promises to make things interesting for Betty Baker today. The only other match played brought Caroma Winn a victory over Helen Simpson at 6—3, 8—6. Mrs. Percy Wilbourn, Mrs. W. H. Pritchard, and Marion Zinderstein moved into the second round by default, and two brackets were kept open for the delayed Bostonians, Mrs. Wightman and Mrs. Godfrey, who meet Anna Morse and Phyllis Walsh, respectively, today.

The doubles event begins this afternoon with sixteen teams entered. A new combination is Mrs. Van Winkle and her sister, Emily Scott of Westchester. Mrs. S. Fullerton Weaver has sent in her entry with an unnamed partner, who may turn out to be Eleanor Goss.

The summaries:

Women's Indoor National Singles.—First Round—Barbara Hooker defeated Mrs. E. H. Thompson, by default; Helen Hooker defeated Florence Pond, 10—8, 8—6; Margaret Taylor defeated Daisy Cohen, by default; Miss E. C. Sohst defeated Mrs. W. Schiff, by default; Clare Cassel defeated Mrs. N. Dain, 6—0, 6—0; Mrs. T. H. Cabot defeated Mrs. H. F. Morse, 6—4, 6—2; Mrs. H. S. Green defeated Adelaide Hooker, 6—2, 6—1; Mrs. W. H. Pritchard defeated Mrs. H. Sachs, by default; Mrs. Percy Wilbourn defeated Julie Brown, by default; Caroma Winn defeated Helen Simpson, 6—3, 8—6; Betty Baker defeated Mrs. George B. Stanwix, 6—0, 5—7, 6—1; Mrs. M. B. Huff defeated Hazel Gardner, 6—1, 6—4; Florence Sheldon defeated Bessie Holden, 1—6, 6—4, 6—3; Marion Zinderstein defeated Mrs. Allen Lehman, by default.

The New York A. C.'s fencing team, led by Sherman Hall, captured the senior foils team championship last night when the competition was revived after a lapse of one year, at the French Y. M. C. A. PRESIDENT OFFERS TROPHY

Wilson and Pershing Give Prizes for Inter-Allied Olympic Meet.

President Wilson and General John J. Pershing have both offered trophies for the Inter-Allied Olympic meet, which is to be held at Joinville-le-Pont, near Paris, in June. This announcement has proved a great incentive for competition, and the interest in the athletic games has increased.

The President's trophy will go to the nation scoring the greatest number of points in the track and field events, while General Pershing's trophy will be awarded to the winning team in the rifle shooting competition.

Colonel Walt C. Johnson, Chairman of the Games Committee, has announced that General Pershing has given his hearty consent to the naming of the great athletic stadium and field now being constructed on the French military ground at Joinville-le-Pont "Pershing Field." The field, after the games, will be turned over to the French to stand for years as a monument to the strong ties of friendship between the two nations.

Construction work has been started at Joinville, and in the coming weeks the project will be pushed to completion. At an appropriate time a dedicatory ceremony will be held, when General Pershing and the other officers of the A. E. F. will be invited to be present.

The event has aroused so much interest among the members of the American forces that numerous athletes who could now have been on their way home have asked to be allowed to remain until the big games are over. In nearly all cases these requests have been granted, as the American forces are more than anxious to win the allied games.

BAN ON FIGHTING PARSONS.

Army Authorities Forbid Bout Between Army Chaplains in Paris.

Boxing has become such a popular sport among the American Expeditionary Forces in France that the enthusiasm for the glove game has spread even to the army chaplains. The Rev. Earl A. Blackman, chaplain, 160th Field Artillery, recently challenged the Rev. Charles Rexrode, chaplain, 316th M. P., for a ten-round bout at the Palais de Glace in Paris. The "Fighting Parsons" were all ready for the bout, which had aroused no end of interest among the soldiers, when orders came from the army authorities placing a ban on the bout.

Both men are Westerners, used to rugged outdoor life and have often been in the ring. One weighed 164 pounds and the other 165 pounds. The reason given out for the calling off of the bout was that there was a misunderstanding about the weight conditions.

Chaplain Rexrode before going into the army was active in athletics at Morrisville College, Missouri, and was active in football, baseball, and boxing. When the 316th M. P.s went to Camp Lewis before their departure for France the chaplain took a course in boxing from Willie Ritchie and knocked out the camp heavyweight in four rounds. He was decorated with the Belgium War Cross for bravery under fire at Oudernarde in Belgium.

Chaplain Blackman started his ring career as a youngster at Kendallville, Ind., when he knocked out the town bully. Later, he was boxing instructor at the University of Kansas. Since his arrival in France the Rev. Mr. Blackman has boxed several budding scrappers of the 35th Division with success.

The Stars and Stripes, the newspaper of the A. E. F., says that when the army authorities put the ban on the bout "the two fighting parsons threw down their boxing gloves and went back to preaching."

YANKEES MAY GET LIEBOLD IN TRADE

Col. Huston in Chicago Hunting for the Little Left-Handed Right Fielder.

Colonel T. L. Huston, Vice President of the Yankees, is in Chicago trying to swing a deal whereby the New York Club will be enriched to the extent of another left-handed hitter. Before Colonel Huston returns it is believed that he will make a trade with Manager Kid Gleason for Nemo Liebold, the diminutive utility fielder of the White Sox. Huggins has a number of promising young pitchers he can give in exchange for another outfielder.

The outfield situation of the Yankees is somewhat unsettled, although Huggins has a number of candidates who may show up well enough to land berths as regulars. Halas, the player from the Great Lakes Naval Station, is a promising candidate, and if he shows any hitting talent he may get an outfield place. Duffy Lewis, who was obtained from the Red Sox, will probably be played in centre field, while Ping Bodie will remain in left. Lewis is not a sunfielder and will be a more valuable man in centre. If the Yanks can get Liebold, he will fit nicely into the right field position. This combination would give the Yanks the best outfield they have had in many seasons.

Manager Huggins had a letter from Lewis yesterday. He will leave his home in Fresno, Cal., today and will spend ten days training at Hot Springs, Ark. When Lewis gets to the training camp at Jacksonville, on March 22, he will be in excellent shape. Lewis did not play last season and has taken on some weight which he wants to get rid of before he starts the season.

Liebold hit at a .250 gait last season, but he is a better hitter than this average indicates. With Gilhooley gone, the right field position is an open place in the Yank lineup, and Huggins is anxious to land some one for the position before the team goes South.

While Colonel Huston is in the Middle West he will stop off at Cleveland to see Roger Peckinpaugh, the Yankee shortstop, who has not yet signed his contract. Besides Peck, the regulars of the Yanks who have not yet signed are Shore and Leonard, the two Boston pitchers who were obtained in the Boston trade; Mogridge and Fisher, and Derrill Pratt, the second baseman.

Allan Russell, one of the most promising pitchers of the Yanks, signed his contract yesterday. Russell's home is in Baltimore.

There was an informal meeting of the National League club owners at President John A. Heydler's offices yesterday and most of the time was taken in a discussion of the Baltimore Federal League suit, which is to be tried in Washington, probably on March 24. Those present were William Veech, Vice President of the Cubs; Magistrate Francis X. McQuade of the Giants, Charles H. Ebbets of Brooklyn, William F. Baker of the Phillies, and George W. Grant of the Boston Braves.

President Grant stated that eighteen of his players had already signed, and that all would be under contract when the club goes to Columbus, Ga., on March 19.

President Heydler announced that the umpire staff of the National League would be the same as last year. Bob Emslie will begin his twenty-eighth year as an umpire, and others who will be seen on the firing line are: Bill Byron, Bill Klem, Charley Rigler, Hank O'Day, Pete Harrison, Charley Moran, and Ernest Quigley. Quigley is an athletic director at St. Louis University, but it is expected that he will finish up his duties there by the time the season opens on April 23.

Laughing Larry Doyle signed his contract with the Giants yesterday. He has been employed at the shipyard in Kearny, N. J., and yesterday was the first day he has taken off in many weeks. Doyle says he is in excellent shape and expects a fine season. Early last season, when Doyle had to leave the game to go to the hospital, he was playing like a whirlwind and was batting somewhere over 400. If he shows this same kind of thumping talent this season, there will be no chance of any one taking his place at second base.

Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, will be here today, when it is expected that he and Manager McGraw will talk over a trade which has been in the air for some time. If such a thing is possible, McGraw may make a trade for Rogers Hornsby, and if he does land him the St. Louis star may be tried at third base, while Zimmerman may go to second. New York will not be shy of infielders this season, as Doyle, Sicking, and Baird are all ready to jump in and play second base. Baird can fill in at either short or third if necessary.

McGraw would also like to get Snyder, the Cardinal catcher, who is still in service overseas.

Herman Schaefer was engaged yesterday to do scout duty for the Giants, and as soon as the minor league and college seasons start Herman will invade the suburbs on a still hunt for promising talent. Schaefer has filled nearly every position in the baseball business except scouting and is anxious to try his hand at being a discoverer.

The Giants have signed another young pitcher, named Terhune.

Secretary Harry Sparrow of the Yankees discovered a new railroad regulation yesterday which will hit the pocketbooks of the baseball clubs this Summer. Hereafter, no sporting equipment can be carried as personal baggage. This will also affect passengers who carry golf bags, tennis racquets, and other sporting paraphernalia.

TIGERS TO ROW ANNAPOLIS.

Princeton Will Send Two Crews to Severn on April 19.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 10.—Princeton has agreed to send its 'Varsity and Freshmen crews to Annapolis to row the midshipmen on April 19. The arrangement was made by Lieutenant-Commander Joseph Morrison, Naval Academy rowing representative, who visited Princeton on Saturday.

A fine rowing schedule is assured for the Naval oarsmen. Pennsylvania will bring 'Varsity second and Freshmen crews to Annapolis on April 12, and Syracuse will bring 'Varsity and Freshmen eights here on May 3. There is still a prospect of a race with Yale and Naval Academy will have four entries at the regatta of the American Rowing Association, which will be rowed at Philadelphia during the last week of May.

Keystone Sailors Lose Basket Ball Game, 61 to 22.

The Crescent A. C. basket ball team scored a one-sided victory over the Keystone Navy five last night in the New Moon Club's gymnasium in Brooklyn. The score was 61 to 22. The New Moon wearers clearly outclassed the naval five and held a comfortable lead throughout the game.

In the second half, the regulars were taken out of the game. The first half ended in favor of the club players by 33 to 3.

Swim at Columbia Today.

Both 'Varsity and freshman swimming teams at Columbia will have a busy time today. The freshmen meet the Erasmus Hall High School team in the tank this afternoon, while in the evening the 'Varsity swimmers and water polo players tackle the College of the City of New York.

TILT'S CUE SKILL DEFEATS MALONEY

Former Champion Wins Opening Game in National Pocket Billiard Tourney.

William A. Tilt, former New York A. C. pocket billiards player, and at one time the holder of the amateur championship title, scored the first victory in the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players' annual title tournament at the New York A. C., last night when he vanquished J. J. Maloney of the Bronx by a score of 125 to 95. The contest went seventeen frames and both principals returned high runs of 14 and 12 each.

Tilt, who is representing the Calumet Club, was not up to his usual stroke, but played well nevertheless. He showed excellent ability at position play on the whole, but there were times when his attempts were overplayed. Maloney was erratic at times, and slipped up on several comparatively easy shots.

Particularly was this true of the Bronx player's efforts when he was attempting vigorous shots. Frequently Maloney, in his eagerness to break the balls apart, would misjudge the play on his object ball, so that he left a layout favorable to Tilt when he missed. With the exception of the fourth inning Maloney was always trailing Tilt in the score, for, as the game progressed, the Calumet Club cue wielder improved his play and advanced to a comfortable advantage.

The score by innings:

William A. Tilt—5 9 10 0 12 10 10 10 14 0 0 14 12 7 2 11 1. Total, 125; high runs, 14 and 12; scratches, 2.

J. J. Maloney—9 5 4 14 2 4 4 1 0 14 0 2 7 12 3 2. Total, 95; high runs, 14 and 12. Scratches, 2.

ELECTS BASEBALL CAPTAIN.

Columbia Also Selects Leader for Basket Ball Team.

Two Captains for Columbia athletic teams were elected yesterday when the 1917 and 1918 'varsity baseball squads, elected a leader for the forthcoming season, and the 'varsity basket ball five, which wound up its schedule ten days ago, named a Captain for 1920.

The baseball men elected John Hauck as captain of this year's team. Hauck played in 1916 and was on the 1917 team, which had played only a game or two when the declaration of war made the abandonment of all athletics at Columbia necessary. He saw service with the Marines and returned to college early in the Winter. It is Fred Dawson's intention to try him out as a pitcher, and if he does not succeed in the box to use him in the infield. He is a heavy hitter.

Thomas Farrell, who was elected captain of the 1920 basket ball team, was captain of this year's five. He has been playing the game at Columbia for the greater part of three seasons.

Many Squash Players Entered.

A representative entry for the national squash tennis championship tournament, which will open at the Squash Club Saturday afternoon, seems assured. It was announced yesterday that more than thirty players have already entered for the title. Of this number ten are from players who recently returned from the battlefields of Europe.

Defeats Rovers with Aid of Handicap in Opening Game for White Owls' Cup.

Squadron A's polo trio made an auspicious start last night in the opening game of the tournament for the White Owls' Cup, at Durland's Riding Academy. The soldier-poloists, aided by a handicap of six goals, trounced the Rovers. B. Maynard, playing at No. 1, The handicap proved too great for the Rovers. M Maynard, playing at Noo 1, showed the way to the Squadron A trio in an attack which completely surprised the Rovers. Defensively, too, the soldier played an improved game and discounted many of the Rovers' attempts at scoring.

In the opening period Maynard scored twice while Victor Grimwold also scored a goal. Robert Grannis, the Rovers' back, accounted for two goals in this period, and the call of time found the soldiers leading by 9 to 2. The Rovers improved their play in the second period, but could not overcome the soldiers' comfortable lead. Dr. H. B. Blackwell led the Rovers' attack in the closing stages of the contest and scored three goals.

The line-up:

Squadron A. (10.)	Rovers. (7.)
No. 1—B. Maynard.	No. 1—H. Levinsky.
No. 2—V. Grimwood.	No. 2—Dr Blackwell.
Back—R. Cooke.	Back—R. Grannis.

Handicap—Squadron A, 6 goals. Goals—First period—Maynard, (2,) Grimwood, Grannis, (2.) Second period—Maynard, Levinsky, Dr. Blackwell, (3,) Grannis. Referee—Archie Kinney. Timekeeper—Herbert Winn. Scorer—S. Franck. Time of periods—10 minutes.

A good motor truck and service that will keep it on the road must go hand in hand.

That is why W. H. Hauck, truckman, New York, selected the Autocar, backed by the service of the New York Autocar Branch. Is he satisfied? Just ask him. From New York to Patchogue, L. I., and back (120 miles), truck loaded both ways, is one of his regular trips.

Standardized

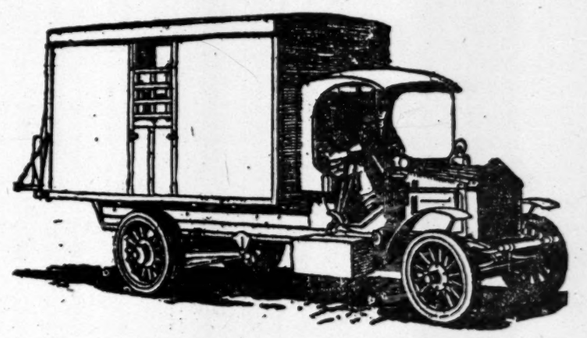
STANDARDIZATION means economy. But the same nameplate doesn't mean uniform design.

Only Pierce-Arrow began with a design so sound that it has not changed since the beginning. These first Pierce-Arrows repeat today their performances of seven years ago.

No Pierce-Arrow is obsolete---none is depreciated by the new Pierce-Arrow. Drivers and mechanics who know the old model know the new. This makes for efficient handling, economical operation and minimum repairs.

Pierce-Arrow

Delivers more work in a given time;
Loses less time on the job and off the job;
Costs less to operate and less to maintain;
Lasts longer, depreciates less and commands a higher resale price at all times.



for instance:

The advantages of standardization are obvious to the 627 owners of 2526 Pierce-Arrow Motor Trucks operating in 145 different lines of business within 40 miles of New York City.

Repair parts are always obtainable immediately and there is no necessity for owners to carry a large stock of diverse parts in order to assure their trucks against disability through accident. Then, too, parts for the newest Pierce-Arrow are suitable for the oldest.

DRAMA

By John Corbin

A Lancashire Molly Pearson.

Amelia Dobbin.....Louie Emery
Orlando Dobbin.....John P. MacSweeney
Alfred Dobbin.....Harold De Becker
Rosa Dobbin.....Molly Pearson
John Willie Dobbin.....William Lennox
Pattie Axham.....Nesta Kerin
Dr. Buxton.....Alf. Helton
Mrs. Axham.....Alice Belmore
Uncle Percival.....Kevitt Manton
Aunt Emily.....Sallie Bergman
Policeman.....Gilbert Girard

It may well prove the misfortune as well as the fortune of Molly Pearson's new play that it inevitably reminds one of "Bunty Pulls the Strings." "Penny Wise" is as redolent of Lancashire as its predecessor was of Scotland, and it similarly abounds in shrewdly observed and skillfully rendered characters. Merely as a transcript of local life and as a story of provincial humors, it is probably superior. Though in manner it verges always upon farce, few plays of local life have struck so deep into human nature. But its subject lacks the genial charm and the universally recognizable humor of "Bunty." Few mortals have escaped a knowledge of the astutely domineering female, and all delight in laughing with her and at her; but hard-headed avarice and fraudulent intrigue are different. Most people know either too little of them or too much to be wholly delighted with their stage exploitation.

"Penny Wise" centres in a plot to collect life insurance upon a young man who is very imperfectly dead. His own mother conceives the plot and struggles lusensately through three acts to pull it off. She blackmails the local doctor into providing a death certificate and calls in her brother, an undertaker, to collaborate in a mock funeral. Then, when an inquisitive and gossiping neighbor sees the reputed corpse undressing before an open window, she struggles with gin and a check for £15 to seal her lips. That makes a big hole in the sum of £100, and there are other unlooked-for expenses. The reputed widow insists upon a full outfit of regulation weeds and upon decently impressive funeral baked meats. Finally the uncle-undertaker makes his strike for a rakeoff. But still the devoted mother insists on her son's obsequies.

The climax comes with the recrudescence of the corpse. He is a very sympathetically sketched nit-wit—almost, though not quite, inanimate. But he is very fond of his young wife, who is Molly Pearson, and he proves quite unequal to his mortuary journey to Manchester. He strays instead into the home-town pub, and turns up at midnight with his amiable excuse for a brain hopelessly pickled. And so at last all bets are off, and the dramatis personae perceive what is meant by pound-folly.

Miss Pearson's part is really subordinate to that of her mother-in-law, the Machiavellian schemer. But her character as a loquacious and doting wife, almost as brainless as her husband the corpse, is very cleverly and sympathetically sketched, and she renders it with her well remembered amiability and charm.

It must be confessed, however, that her husband has larger opportunities and that William Lennox avails himself of them with rare subtelty and vigor of comic effect. His delineation of brainlessness is as masterly in its simplicity as it is unmistakably true; and if ever a scene of inebriation was wholly unobjectionable and utterly laughable it is his midnight return from the Hare and Hounds. Really, the drama also will suffer irreparably after the 30th of June.

As the intriguing mother Louie Emery was technically admirable—hard, intense, calculating, yet not without a touch of human sympathy—but she lacked something of the solidity and vigor of characterization which was needed to hold the play together and carry conviction to the audience. In some measure this may have been due to a general, though slight, raggedness in the performance as a whole. Repetion will doubtless correct this fault.

The minor characters were all admirably interpreted. It is many a long day since Broadway has had a play as minutely and vividly characterized which was so ably and amusingly acted throughout.

There can be no doubt of the originality and the essential humor of "Penny Wise," and there is very little doubt that its mordant satire will find an appreciative public.

PLAN SERVICE TO BERMUDA.

Marshall Alen Says Vessels Will Operate Next Winter.

According to Marshall Alen, formerly connected with the firm of W. R. Grace & Co., who returned yesterday from a business visit to Bermuda on the converted cruiser Charybdis, there will be a new passenger service operating next Winter between New York and the semi-tropical island, famous for its lilies, onions, and potatoes.

The Charybdis carries forty-two passengers and the fare one way is from $60 up, not including meals. Before the war thousands of American tourists went there and, back for $25 up, including all meals.

Hackett Sings In 'Barber of Seville.'

Charles Hackett sang his best to the influential Monday audience at the Metropolitan last evening, appearing in the opera of his January début, "The Barber of Seville." Mme. Barrientos, who was heard a second time as Rosina, introduced Mozart's rondo, "Ah, tu non sai," in the lesson scene. Mr. Rothier was a new Basilio, while De Luca, Malatesta, and others reappeared, and Papi conducted. The triple bill of American operas, including Mr. Gatti's last two novelties this season, had its dress rehearsal yesterday for the public première tomorrow night.

General Gerard Pau of France, who lost an arm in the war of 1870, was a guest in box 2, next to the stage, during the last act.

Crowded Out

Frequently it is necessary to omit advertisements from The New York Times in order that the space allotted to news may not be encroached upon.

Today 18 columns of advertisements were omitted and 113 columns printed.

Careful discrimination in the assignment of advertising space is forced upon The Times by this condition. Preference is given, therefore, to advertisements having news value and to those for which copy is delivered at an early day and hour before publication.

It is suggested that orders for the insertion of advertisements give The Times an option on the date of publication. There is reasonable assurance that all advertising offered will be published on Saturday, Sunday or Monday, but it is difficult to give promise of publication on other days of the week.

Orders for the insertion of advertisements of a general character, so far as possible, should include the words "or first available day," as well as the date when publication is preferred.

of their interests and the interests of the country, and that they need not worry any further. He then took the petition to the Mayor.

Half an hour later Commissioner Gilchrist and Mr. Whalen hurried up to the East Fifty-first Street Police Station, where they were joined by Captain Duggan, with whom they went to the theatre to interview Dr. Winter, Rudolf Christians, President of the opera company, and several others of the company. Mr. Whalen requested them, in the name of the Mayor, to abandon the project of holding the performance. Commissioner Gilchrist threatened that if the opera were given and there was the slightest disorder in consequence the license of the theatre would be subject to revocation. Then Dr. Winter issued a statement for the company announcing the postponement of the operas. The statement follows:

"The management of the Christians Producing Company, by request of the Mayor through Secretary Grover Whalen, announces that the opera season to have opened at the Lexington Opera House today has been indefinitely postponed. The purchasers of tickets will have their money refunded on and after March 13, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 4 P. M., at the office of the corporation, 147 Fourth Avenue, Room 204.

In an interview later Dr. Winter said that he could not tell now when the question of operas in the German language would be taken up again in New York by his company.

"I do not yet know," he said, "how much money this will cost us, having to abandon all our plans at the last moment in this fashion. I cannot tell without consulting my attorneys just how we stand in relation to the hundred and more contracts we have assumed in getting the production ready. It is a hard blow to us, of course, but we couldn't go against public opinion when it was definitely and aggressively aroused against us.

Plans Made After Armistice.

"Our plans were made after the armistice was signed. At that time we had begun to receive hundreds of requests for a resumption of German language operas, and we decided to put them on. I myself called on many prominent men in New York and asked their opinions in the matter, and they all assured me that they could see no reason why we should not go ahead now that the fighting was over. These men were many of them German-Americans who are loyal citizens of this country, and many of them were Americans.

"I am sorry about the way things have turned out, for I do not see anything wrong in what we were trying to do. There was not the slightest propaganda in any of the operas—that must be pretty well understood by all who know them. We did not distribute free tickets, nor did we circulate advertisements in the manner that has been ascribed to us. It was simply a business proposition designed to entertain people who wished the entertainment that light music and charming comedy bring."

An official of the company estimated that the abandonment of the plans would cost the Christians Corporation $10,000.

Mr. Christians, President of the company, authorized the following statement:

"We are bankrupt as a result of this. President Wilson has made many statements in which he said that the war was not against the German people. If the war was not against the German people why should the operas be interfered with by local authorities? We are being deprived of making a livelihood. One year ago, while the war was in progress, we gave a series of similar operas in German at the Irving Place Theatre. At that time there was no publicity and in no way did the authorities interfere with the performances. It is estimated that there are 800,000 Germans in New York City and these operas were given for their benefit."

Mr. Christians said further that his company had contracted for a cast of from 60 to 70 persons and for a chorus of about 50. All these contracts must be fulfilled, he said. The Lexington Theatre had been leased for a period of six weeks, he said, from the Chicago Opera Company, which had a year's lease on the building.

Mr. Christians, it was said by officials of the company, was not an American citizen and did not speak English. He came here from Germany about four years ago. Just before the war he declared his intention of taking out citizenship papers in this country, but was forced to postpone his plan because of the outbreak of hostilities.

The soldiers and sailors who started the opposition to holding any sort of German language operas in New York just now were jubilant yesterday when word was brought to the Navy Club and to the various canteens and community centres in the city that Mayor Hylan had forced the German opera company to abandon its program.

"I knew you couldn't beat public opinion in America," said William G. McRae, the wireless operator, formerly on duty with the American Red Sea patrol, who has been one of the leaders in the fight and went with the committee yesterday to see the Mayor. "I'm glad at the outcome because, while we didn't want disorder, I was honestly afraid there would be trouble at the theatre if they persisted in producing that opera."

All day long delegations of soldiers and sailors from every part of the city and from camps and naval stations visited the Navy Club to learn whether their presence would be needed at the Lexington Theatre. A short meeting was held late in the afternon, after which the men marched up to the theatre. Around it they found some 300 policemen, under command of Inspector Frank Morris and Captain Duggan. Scores of men in the olive drab of the Provost Guard were also on hand. Army and naval officers in uniform were scattered about, and there were hundreds of civilians, many of whom had tickets to the performance and had not heard of the postponement.

The huge crowd was kept moving and scattered without disorder.

Many of the sailors returned to the Navy Club, where they held a jubilation meeting. It was suggested that the Lexington Theatre should be opened for a patriotic celebration, but this was found impractical. Then an announcement was made that there was a German-language play at the Irving Place Theatre. A committee of bluejackets immediately went down there, returning with apologies when they found it was a Jewish company and not German.

Officials of the Federal Department of Justice said yesterday that they had received orders from Washington to look into the matter of the German operas. They said that they found the New York police had the matter well in hand, and unless there were further developments the Government would not take any action.

One of the factors which possibly helped the Mayor to a decision in the matter of German opera was the visit of a city official to him on Sunday morning with a new point of view, which Mayor Hylan quickly appreciated. This official pointed out to the Mayor that there were at present in the city 25,000 United States soldiers who had just returned from fighting Germany at serious cost to themselves, and that the city was expending large sums of money to entertain these soldiers and to show its appreciation of their patriotism. The production here of German opera, in German by German singers for throngs of applauding Germans, this official pointed out, was an affront to these newly returned soldiers at the very time that the city was striving to make them happy over their return home, and an incitement to disorder because it was a defiance of the very sentiments which the city professed in entertaining them. This point of view the Mayor is said to have strongly indorsed.

RULING FOR GAMBLERS.

May Deduct Losses That Do Not Exceed Winnings in Tax Return.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Business losses of gamblers, moonshiners, bootleggers, and other participants in illegal practices are deductable from gross incomes in determining net income subject to taxation. The internal revenue bureau decided the question today in passing upon inquiries from professional gamblers in New York, Chicago, Boston, and from other cities and from a lone inquiry of a Southern ex-moonshiner. The bureau's attitude is that income from an illegal business is taxable and that losses in connection with this business are deductable, but not to an extent exceeding earnings from the business. Tax collectors, according to this attitude, are concerned with collecting revenue and not prosecuting illegal businesses. Consequently they will regard as confidential any disclosures of illegal source of income.

This inquiry came from a Southern State.

"I was engaged last year in the business of making whisky, which the revenue says is illegal. I was raided by the revenues and my still was taken and I was fined. I have not quit the business, but want to know whether I have to make income return of the money I made off the whisky and whether I can deduct the loss of my still or my fine."

The reply was that both the loss of the still and the fine could be deducted.

Similarly, the proprietor of a gambling house, whose place was raided and whose furniture and gambling equipment was destroyed, was permitted to deduct the value of the furnishings in computing net taxable income. Poker players must include winnings in their income but may deduct loses only if they do not exceed winnings.

Taxpayers of these classes may report their earnings as "other income" or under some other classification not disclosing illegal source of the earnings.

Richard Knotts, Baritone, Heard.

Richard Knotts, a high baritone of powerful though peculiar tone quality, was a newcomer in Aeolian Hall last evening, when he was assisted by Walter Golde at the piano in familiar airs from "Herodiade," "Figaro," and "Traviata," Massenet's "Vision Fugitive" suffered by the use of Italian instead of the French text. There were songs in English by Sidney Homer, H. T. Burleigh, and others, a group in French, and another of Russian and Hungarian composers.

Meets Needs of One-Man Office or Corporation

Every business office, large or small, needs a Dalton. Business time is a precious commodity and a Dalton will not only conserve time but it enables operator or individual to assemble the figure facts of each day's operations in the fewest possible minutes.

The Dalton fits the needs of every line of business. It meets the needs of the one-man office or retailer who desires a figuring machine which he himself can operate and which will add, subtract, multiply and divide.

It meets the needs of the corporation with its large accounting department for a machine adaptable to any department, and which is simpler, faster, more versatile in operation.

The keyboard simplicity of the Dalton is illustrated below. Column selection is eliminated. No special operator required. To write $123.45, simply depress the keys in order mentioned. That's all there is to it.

Multiplication is just as simple. Easier to multiply, faster than any strictly calculating machine. Make a time test and see for yourself.

FEARS SLEEPING SICKNESS.

Dr. Copeland Tells of the Appearance of Rare Disease.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, issued a statement yesterday, in which he warns the public against a possible visitation of the disease known commonly as "sleeping sickness." He stated that he had taken this precaution after having been notified that two deaths from the disease had occurred in Chicago recently.

Dr. Copeland points out that the symptoms of the disease are marked by dizziness, aching and drooping eyelids and drowsiness, and sore throat. In addition to these symptoms, Dr. Copeland said that the patient seems to lose every particle of strength, and is sometimes unable to make any voluntary movement, and resembles a "wax figure" in expression. "Should these symptoms appear," said Dr. Copeland, "a doctor should be summoned immediately, or make a report to the Board of Health.

"The 'sleeping sickness' reported in Chicago is not the same as prevails in Africa. Lethargic encephalitis, as it is known scientifically, was first observed in Germany in the latter part of the seventeenth and first part of the eighteenth centuries. It then appeared in Italy and Hungary in 1890, and parts of Europe and the United States in 1895. The first case in England was in 1918, where eighteen cases were reported during the month of April."

FREDERICK PALMER

In May, 1917, Col. Palmer accompanied General Pershing to France and was given a commission in order that his long experience in the war might be utilized. When our army began active campaigning General Pershing gave Col. Palmer a unique assignment, which enabled him probably to see more of the operations than any other officer. With an automobile at his command he was free to go wherever he desired, reporting his observations.

HE PERSONALLY WITNESSED ALL THE IMPORTANT ACTOINS. After the armistice was signed Col. Palmer went over the battlefields and studied them in the light of his observations and reports. Full and intimate details may now be given of actions necessarily vague in the accounts of the time. He knows our leaders and how they led. HE WILL DESCRIBE THE CONDUCT OF THE NEW YORK TROOPS in his lecture,

FINANCING GERMANY'S FOOD SUPPLY.

It is easy to understand France's objection to Germany's depleting the resources to which France must look for the reparation which her wrongs and sufferings entitle her to demand. But France is to be commended for assenting to the modifications made by the Allies. Her objection was not well taken, because Germany must have both man power and capital if she is to earn the income from which alone she can make reparation. Even if it were possible to condemn the Germans to slavery and to confiscate German capital, the results would be less favorable to France than to permit Germany to retain working capital and to keep her man power efficient. The confiscation of capital would be possible but once, but the income of capital can be put under a mortgage which shall run over a term of years to an aggregate exceeding the capital.

While that is the argument on general principles, we have a specific interest in the subject. The food which is to be bought with Germany's resources must be supplied in greatest part from here, and there is an argument against our resources being enlarged from this source as well as against Germany's resources being depleted. If our food were to be sold to the totals mentioned, half a billion or more, and to be paid for by German credits, we would have an interest in Germany which we do not wish to acquire and which ought not to be allowed to any nation under an arrangement in which all are interested. It would be better that Germany's financial arrangements should be made through the Allies, soon to become the League. Germany's note indorsed by the League would be a more generally acceptable security, and questions about prices and payment would be managed with less friction and with less imputation of selfish interest if made by all the Allies than by one of them. If any particular nation made the arrangements for supplying Germany with anything, there is a troublesome question of exchange, a banker's profit which it is desirable to eliminate.

The method is shown by the provision that Germany shall make payment partly in barter. When food is exchanged for fertilizer or for rental of ships there is no question of marks and dollars. The calculations are made in values, not in money, and the equivalences have nothing to do with the disparity of the unit of account. The question of domestic exchange has been eliminated in our national business, over the objection of many bankers. In principle there is no more difficulty about eliminating the question of exchange in international commerce. It has been set forth in plans to the end that if accounts were kept in a central bureau the names of the moneys used could be subordinated to the weights of gold which they represent. The gold would control the business, not the names of the moneys. It is true that even in barter of goods for goods the exchanges must be equalized, but it is only by fiction and usage that they are equalized by the bankers' transmission of gold. While gold still passes for international balances, it is only in comparatively small totals, and those constantly diminishing. Bankers equalize the exchanges of goods more by controlling the movement of goods, by controlling credit through the interest rate, than by movements of gold.

In our domestic exchanges the crudity of shipping bales of money survives, but is recognized, and the practice is disappearing. Bankers know how to balance credits by strokes of the pen in a way both better and cheaper than sending chests of currency around the country. The use of similar methods in international finance has long been dreamed of, and approaches realization with the closer organization of all countries. This may be expected to become clearer when the League of Nations passes from the discussion of politics to the discussion of financial and economic subjects.

A CALL FOR THE KAISER.

Mr. JAMES's dispatch from Coblenz reports that the manufacturers of the Rhineland are longing for a strong man, a Caesar, not necessarily the one now languishing at Amerongen, but somebody who will stand up against the Bolsheviki. The article quoted from the Coblenzer Volkszeitung doubtless reflects a state of mind very general throughout Germany, in its lamentation over the exhaustion of the energies of the German people in class strife and internal warfare at a time when all its powers are needed to pay for the damage of the war, and its dissatisfaction with the ineffectiveness of the National Assembly.

Whether more would be accomplished by a coalition of the Centrists, the German Democrats, and the National Party is somewhat doubtful. Such a rallying of all the nominal democratic forces might attract much of the democratic support now given to the Majority Socialists, but the cohesiveness of this alliance may be questioned. The National Party is the organization including most of the old Conservatives, the Junkers, the group most enthusiastic for the war of conquest. Their chagrin when it turned out to be a disastrous speculation may very well leave the non-German world unmoved; and it is doubtful how much of the Democratic Party, to say nothing of the Liberals now voting with the Majority Socialists, would be able to cooperate with a group whose motives are apparently the same now as then, though their objectives are different.

At any rate, it is a long way from this political realignment to Kaiserism. But the longing for a strong man must be felt in many quarters where political views are little disposed toward absolutism. It is not a political sentiment in many cases, but a manifestation of the social instinct of self-preservation. How far the HOHENZOLLERNS retain their hold we do not know; but if HINDENBURG were as young as LUDENDORFF, or if LUDENDORFF had retained his popularity as successfully as HINDENBURG, we might have a new Man on Horseback rising in the place of EBERT and SCHEIDEMANN.

ENVER'S 100,000.

Et d'un! as Monte Cristo used to say. RESHID Bey, sometime Governor of Diarbekir, one of the guiltiest planners and executors of the Armenian butcheries, killed himself the other day when caught by the police. He seems to have been intending to take refuge in Anatolia, where he might have made trouble. The arrest of divers and sundry grandees of the Committee of Union and Progress spoiled his plans, and the police were too hot on his track. If he dies unwhipped of justice, yet "suicide is confession."

Perhaps the strangest story in all the motley multifarious history of the Committee attributes to it the dispatch of missionaries to the Russian Bolsheviki. Turkish nationalism has vanished; but the far-scattered survivors of the Committee may well have seen that their sole, if desperate, chance lay or lies in the spread of Bolshevism to the west. To the Turks themselves the economic, social, and political doctrines and practice of Bolshevism would be about as intelligible and interesting as the nebular hypothesis. In so far, however, as it is mere looting and murder, it has been practiced by the Turks in Asia and Europe for hundreds of years. The assassins of Armenians, Greeks, Arabs, Syrians, understand that part of the Bolshevist gospel. The Kurds are illustrious professors of it.

The Committee of Union and Progress, or its thriftiest members now in exile, are supposed to have plenty of money in Swiss, German, Austrian, Dutch banks. It will require a credulity almost unimaginable to believe that these chevaliers of political and financial industry will be inclined to waste any of the proceeds of their virtue on the dissemination of Bolshevism. In Constantinople an unexpected but lovely fruit of the Bolshevist missionary work carried on by the Committee or its coiporteurs is the belief, according to a London correspondent, that ENVER Pasha "will "shortly return from Russia with an "army of 100,000 desperate characters who will restore Committee "rule." Evidently ENVER is rapidly becoming a legendary character. It is only just to his merits to say that, compared with his genial character and achievements, the 100,000 desperadoes, if he could raise them, would be like an infant school headed by one of those eminent pirates, Flint or Blackbeard.

REPUBLICAN UNION IN NEW YORK.

Chairman GLYNN of the Republican State Committee has asked Chairman HAYS of the Republican National Committee to go to a council of the Executive Committee, where the brethren are "to take up party problems which are important" and which should have "consideration at "this time as a matter of preparedness." To all the County Chairmen, Mr. GLYNN sends a homiletic letter asking them to start early so as to get "ample opportunity for full con- "sideration of the problems which "will insure party unity and party "progress."

Though this is only 1919, despise not the day of small things and off-years. There are the local contests coming. "In the immediate foreground" juts 1920, a good many diameters more visible, apparently, to the hopeful Chairman than the lamentable Republican decline and fall-off in this State last November. He cries for "a militant Republicanism that "will forecast that which is to take "place in 1920." Here the militant Republicanism took the form of Republicans rapturously fighting one another. That was mainly on the matter of prohibition and on Mr. WHITMAN's devotion thereto. The election in the Twenty-second Pennsylvania Congress District last week showed Republicans rapturously fighting Republicans on the issue of a League of Nations. In the management of the next House of Representatives the old hands, the hunkers, have beaten the reformers, the representatives of the progressive spirit, the successors, in a way, of the old Insurgents. Mr. GLYNN, with all assistance from the accomplished and omnipresent Mr. HAYS, is like to find perplexing the means of insuring party unity and party progress.

"Our determination to win in 1920 "will be demonstrated beyond any "question of doubt in 1919." Their determination to win is a little different from winning. Like Mr. Micawber's son, they may have excellent intentions but never carry them out.

DELAYING THE PORT AGREEMENT

It is not pleasant to record the fact that New York has succeeded to the rôle New Jersey formerly played as obstructor of the organization of the Port of New York as a unit. Originally New Jersey was separatist in sentiment, and was overruled by the Interstate Commission. New York is not separatist now, but it is obstructionist. So far as the inaction of New York on the plan to unify the port by treaty between New York and New Jersey is due merely to the personal convenience of the officials of New York City it is not serious, and their absence from the conference on the subject need not be too severely remarked upon. It is different when the inaction of New York is supported by argument against the merits of the treaty. Whatever the argument, it is the same for both States, and New Jersey is not now afraid to venture, although it was tardy in coming to the support of the measure.

The danger is lest New Jersey should revert to its earlier sentiment and begin competitive development of its side of the harbor. Then all hope of symmetrical and co-operative development would disappear. In that case New York would lose trade to New Jersey, just as it is already losing it to Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Southern ports. There is even danger that it would lose trade faster to New Jersey than it is losing it to other competitors, for the Interstate Commission may reconsider its position as well as New Jersey, and has given signs of that disposition. There is pending a proposal to divide the line haul from the terminal charge, Commissioner WOOLLEY being committed to it and the other Commissioners not too firmly wedded to their decision in the lighterage case.

Reconsideration of that decision would give the New Jersey side of the harbor an advantage of 7 to 12 cents a hundred pounds, and would leave New York under the added cost of cartage through tunnels or over bridges. New Jersey leads New York now in preparation for those aids to the efficiency and cheapness of moving trade through the unified port, but the best to be hoped for without the treaty is only a small part of what could be done with the treaty. A quarter of a billion is wanted, and the sum cannot be supplied by either New York or New Jersey alone. New Jersey regards itself as sufficiently safeguarded by the requirement of action by the Legislatures of both States for the creation of the port authority, and by the reservation of veto power by either Governor over the action of the port authority after creation. If New York wants more than that, it puts itself in danger of wanting too much, just as New Jersey originally did.

WHY NOT USE THESE SHIPS?

In South American neutral ports are lying more than 100 German merchant ships which have been idle there for four years and a half. Since the armistice was signed and during the recent negotiations for the delivery of Germany's merchant marine these ships could easily have been made available, by agreements with two neutral Governments, for the service now so greatly needed. Mr. HURLEY, Chairman of our Shipping Board, said last week that there "would be nothing to "prevent the Allies from going in and "taking by force" the ships in Germany's home ports. But force has not been required in the South American neutral harbors. An agreement concerning claims for reparation would have been sufficient.

There are thirty-eight of these ships in the ports of Argentina. Last week's dispatches from Buenos Aires said that "German-owned vessels "here have not been affected by the "strike," which is now two months old. If Germany is to have 300,000 tons of imported food every month until August, why should not these ships be carrying a part of the supply from Argentina, where there is a large surplus of grain and meat, and where payment could be made by the use of German securities and other property, the presence of which in that country has recently been considered by the Supreme War Council? In Chile's ports eighty-four German ships were seized by the Government four months ago to prevent destruction of them by their crews. The reparation claims of the two countries could be satisfied by less than twenty of the 122 vessels, and, as we have said, more than 100 would be free to be set at work. As South American nations are strongly represented at Paris in the Peace Conference's Financial and Economic Commissions, the agreements could be made there. If the movement of food to Germany must begin at once, time can be saved by using ships now lying idle near sources of supply.

VIEWS OF CHAMP CLARK.

"Unless the Republicans stub their "toe, I reckon it is going to be a "right hard job for us to roll them "out." So ex-Speaker CHAMP CLARK is quoted as saying in The Washington Star; but Mr. CLARK speaks in no despondent tone, for "he is banking "strong on being assisted by the Re- "publicans stubbing their toe." We are further told that "CHAMP CLARK "is counting upon a howl of protest "to come from the Middle West Re- "publicans" over the stiffness of the tariff rates which the high protection character of the Ways and Means Committee leads us to expect.

It appears that hope is based, too, on the possibilities of a split in the Republican Party, as shown by the aggressive disposition of Mr. LONGWORTH and others. These gentlemen are not inclined to put up with their late defeat at the hands of Mr. MANN and intend to carry the fight against the seniority rule into the Republican caucus. Says The Star:

> If they succeed in overturning the recommendations of the Committee on Committees and installing Chairmen of their own selection regardless of the claims of seniority of service, it is declared by Republicans that the party will take hold of the next House with bitterness rampant and division inevitable.

All very well; but the possibilities of stubbing toes are not confined to the Republican Party. Mutinous voices are raised against Mr. CLARK's leadership, and there is already brewing a fight, which may or may not be serious. The Democrats who oppose him take the ground that President WILSON ought not to have to contend with both a Republican majority and a Democratic leadership which is hostile to him. One of them, Mr. MAYS of Utah, quotes Mr. CLARK as saying: "WIL- "SON's League of Nations has as "much chance of being ratified as "you have of being Pope of Rome."

The Democratic Party stubbed its toe painfully in the Sixty-fifth Congress, and did so because it was led by Mr. CLARK, Mr. KITCHIN, and Mr. DENT. The fight against Mr. CLARK may come to nothing; but nevertheless the people will be impressed by it. They think that the President has enemies enough in the opposition party.

What London Children Dream Of.

In an address before the Child Study Society on "The Significance of Children's Dreams" Dr. KIMMINS, Chief Inspector to the London Education Committee, reported the results of investigation among London school children. Some five thousand children were asked to write "a true and full account" of the last dream that they could remember. To those of us who hold to the ancient deity of the chimney, in spite of discouraging superior skeptics, it is encouraging to know that in the dreams of children between five and seven Christmas and Santa Claus seem still to be main figures.

About the age of seven expect dreams of enterprising burglars. Fearful dreams of animals are much more common among boys than among girls. The good old, harmless, unnecessary ghost seems to have been banished by science from children's bedsides; it has become too visionary even for a vision. There was but one ghost in five thousand dreams. A genial and ever delightful substitute is the fairy. Indeed, who but this gracious and immortal bringer of good gifts and friend in need should walk the ways of the fairyland of childhood? It must be dispiriting to those well-intentioned kill-joys who seek to ban fairy tales, one of the most charming forms of literature and nurses and cheerers of the imagination, from children's minds. What a race of dullards and Gradgrindlets youth so starved would be!

"Children in poor districts dream far more about toys than those in the well-to-do districts." This is as it should be; and dream, like sleep, compensates and restores.

Favoritism According to Occupation.

A well known novelist has studied the income tax blank with growing disapproval. A manufacturer of cloaks and suits, or something of the sort, can charge off the running expenses of his business, the cost of labor included, and make allowances for depreciation, and so on. But a manufacturer of novels, whose brain is his capital, is in a more difficult position.

He might perhaps deduct the cost of the paper on which he writes and the hire of the stenographer to whom he dictates, but these items are small. He finds himself less inventive than in the early days, when he was making his reputation; his brain is slowing up; but he can make no allowance for its depreciation. He lately built a studio on the lawn of his suburban property, for the children are overrunning his house so that it is impossible to write there. If it were a new factory building, he could make allowance for its cost in computing his net income; but though it is essential to his business, he doubts if the Collector would permit it. Last year he made a trip through South America in search of an untouched field of romance, and gathered material enough to last through half a dozen books; but though the cost of this voyage was a necessary expense to maintain the quality and quantity of his output, he cannot charge it off. Mr. KITCHIN has unjustly burdened brains.

Incorporate and Get Off Lightly.

The novelist is thinking of alleviating his position by incorporating himself, with himself as President, his wife as Secretary-Treasurer, and the four children as Directors. Directors' meetings will be held three times a day, around the dining room table, and each Director who appears on time will collect $10. Since the equipment of the corporation will doubtless deteriorate, he will charge off each year an amount calculated from an actuary's table of expectation of life. Salaries are to be paid to the officers, and a careful account of all household expenses kept in the hope that the Collector's office may agree with the view that, inasmuch as an author cannot produce novels without food and shelter, the cost of the table and taxes on the house may properly be regarded as running expenses of the business.

The blank which this writer will send to the Collector is a most ingenious document, which holds out many rays of hope to the professional man who regards himself as unjustly treated; but whether it will convince the official mind is a question.

A WASHINGTON LETTER

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Among my autograph letters I find one of George Washington's, of which I inclose you a copy. I thought it might be of interest at the present time.

ADOLPH LEWISOHN.

[Inclosure.]

My Dear Humphreys:

Your favor of the 28th ult. came duly to hand, as did the other of June. With great pleasure I received the intimation of your spending the Winter under this roof. The invitation was not less sincere than the reception will be cordial. The convention shall be, that in all things, you shall do as you please—I will do the same. No ceremony shall be observed—nor any restraint be imposed on any one.

The Constitution that is submitted, is not free from imperfections; but there are as few radical defects in it as could well be expected, considering the heterogenious mass of which the Convention was composed and the diversity of interests which were to be reconciled. A Constitutional door being opened, for future alterations and amendments, I think it would be wise in the People to adopt what is offered to them, and I wish it may be by as great a majority of them as in the body that decided on it; but this is hardly to be expected, because the importance, and sinister views of too many characters will be affected by the change. Much will depend however on literary abilities, and the recommendation of it by good pens, should it be openly, I mean publicly, attacked in the Gazettes. Go matters however as they may, I shall have the consolation to reflect, that no objects but the public good, and that peace and harmony which I wished to see prevail in the Convention, ever obtruded, even for a moment, in my mind, during the whole session, lengthy as it was. What reception this State will give to the proceedings (thro' the great territorial extent of it) I am unable to inform you. In these parts of it, it is advocated beyond my expectation. The great opposition, if great is given, will come from the Counties Southward and Westward; from whence I have not, as yet, heard much that can be depended on.

I condole with you at the loss of your parents; but as they lived to a good old age you could not be unprepared for the shock; tho' there is something painful in bidding an adieu to those we love, or revere, when we know it is a final one. Reason, Religion and Philosophy may soften the anguish, but time alone can irradicate it.

As I am beginning to look for you, I shall add no more at present, but the best wishes of the family, and the affectionate regards of your

Obed' & H'ble Servant,
G. WASHINGTON.

Col. Humphreys.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A thousand thanks for the letter of Philip Gibbs, which makes a distinct appeal to the soul of the American people. It should be printed in pamphlet form and millions of copies distributed broadcast through the United States.

OUR MODEST DOUGHBOYS.

Said the Captain: "There was wire
A mile deep in No Man's Land,
And the concentrated fire
Was all mortal nerve could stand;
But these huskies craved the chance
To go out and leave their bones!"
"The climate's quite some damp in France,"
Said Private Thomas Jones.

Said the Major: "What is more,
At the point where we attacked,
Tough old veterans loudly swore
Hindy's line could not be cracked.
But the 27th said,
'Hindenburg! That guy's a myth!'"
"I slept last night in a reg'lar bed,"
Said Private Johnny Smith.

Said the Colonel: "They had placed
Pillboxes on the crests.
I can safely say we faced
Maybe thousands of those nests.
But our doughboys took one height
Seven times in that hell's hail."
"And were the cooties thick? Good night!"
Sad Private William Dale.

Said the General: "We were told
Anything we'd start they'd stop—
That the Boche would knock us cold
When we slid across the top.
But the 7th with a yell
Made the Prussian Guards back down."
"You oughta lamped the smile on Nell!"
Said Private Henry Brown.

Said the Sergeant: "Every shell
Seemed to whine, 'Old Scout, you're dead!'
And I thought I'd gone to hell
But each bloomin' gunner stuck
At his post by his machine."
"Our orders said to hold it, Buck!"
Said Private Peter Green.

Said the Chaplain: "Talk of pep!
They were there! And, may I add,
When we clambered up the step
That last fight, we only had
Eighty men of Company D—
Every one, I'll say, a man!"
"And am I glad I'm home? Ah, oui!"
Said Private Mike McCann.

DANIELS HOLDS UP CRUISER PROGRAM

Orders Work Stopped on Big 35-Knot Ships Until New Type Is Fixed.

NAVAL DIFFERENCES WIDE

Big Sum Will Be Saved If Shift Is Made to the Hood Composite Pattern.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Possibility that the whole battle cruiser program of the navy, involving an ultimate expenditure of nearly half a billion dollars, will be abandoned in favor of a new type of cruiser battleship was indicated today by an announcement that Secretary Daniels had ordered a suspension of work on the six thirty-five-knot cruisers already authorized until a decision as to the future type of capital ship could be reached.

There is a wide difference of opinion among American naval officers as to whether the slow battleship and the fast cruiser should not give way in the future to a ship combining the power of the one and nearly the speed of the other. Because of this fact Congressional committees have deferred action on six additional cruisers until a full report on new types can be made by the department.

It is to gather information for this report that Secretary Daniels and his three chief technical advisers will sail on Saturday for Europe. They will be met overseas by Admiral Benson, Chief of Operations, and Vice Admiral Sims. Upon their return some weeks before Congress meets in extra session, probably in the early Summer, a general conference will be held at which a majority opinion of experienced officers will be worked out as to what types of capital ships should be built.

Daniels Tells of Differences.

This statement was authorized today by Secretary Daniels:

"The conclusion relating to the type of capital ships resulting from a close study of naval activities of the present war has created such a difference of opinion among naval experts that the Secretary of the Navy has directed the temporary suspension of the building of the large battle cruisers.

"Admiral Mayo, the Commander in Chief of the United States Atlantic Fleet, when before the Committee on Naval Affairs of the House, stated that in his opinion the most effective capital ship of today is a high speed battleship which carries the great gun power and armor protection of a battleship and as much of the high speed of a battle cruiser. Such naval experts as Admiral Benson and Admiral Sims, as a result of their observations and study abroad, concur in the opinion of Admiral Mayo.

"Many of the high ranking officers of the Navy Department likewise concur in this opinion, while many of the experts of the General Board are of the opinion that the battle cruisers as planned should be proceeded with and battleships of slower speed, greater gun power, and greater protection be likewise constructed.

"Because of the difference of opinion among naval experts, the large amount of money involved, (between $180,000,000 and $200,000,000,) and the great question of fighting efficiency being involved, the Secretary of the Navy has directed temporary suspension of the construction of the battle cruisers. Little of the work on the hulls has been done. Some of the electrical machinery has been started, but it is not contemplated that the delay of two months or so will be such as to interfere seriously with the proper decision in the matter.

"It is because of the difference of opinion among experts and to study naval lessons taught by the war that the Secretary of the Navy is taking the chiefs of the technical bureaus of the Navy Department with him to Europe to study the question with naval experts, and obtain such other technical information as is possible while abroad from studies of foreign plans and specifications."

Question Centres on the Hood.

The navy has not had a similar controversy over ship designs for ten years. In this case the Navy General Board, charged with deciding upon the military characteristics of new ships, disagrees with the opinion of the high officers who have had experience overseas in the present war. On the board are two former commanders of the Atlantic Fleet, Rear Admirals Badger and Fletcher. They believe that the construction of both dreadnoughts and battle cruisers should continue.

The difference of opinion began last year when the British Admiralty decided to alter the plans for the battleship Hood and make her a composite battleship and battle cruiser. In effect, the decision was to build a very high speed battleship, sacrificing gun power to some extent for speed, but retaining the defensive armor of a ship of the line. The Hood will carry eight 15-inch rifles and full battleship armor, and will have a speed of a little more than thirty knots an hour. Her displacement is in excess of 40,000 tons.

It is understood that the original purpose of the construction of the Hood was to produce a vessel to meet the raids of the German battle cruisers on the British coast. Officers who have not taken sides in the dispute here say that, so far as they know, Great Britain has not laid down any additional ships of this type.

The advantages of a very high-speed battleship, however, appealed strongly to American officers overseas, and they have urged that construction so strongly that the whole building program here threatened for a time to be blocked by failure of the naval establishment to agree on what was desirable. It was originally planned to bring Vice Admiral Sims home at the head of the general board in order that the differences might be worked out, but he preferred duty at the Naval War College, to which he was assigned in naval orders made public today.

Examining the Hood design, some officers said that the gun power of this huge vessel was of little more than half of the broadside weight of the new American dreadnoughts carrying twelve 16-inch guns. Some officers have estimated that to get such gun power in a ship that would approach a thirty-knot speed and at the same time carry full battleship protection would require a 55,000-ton ship of about 900 feet length, the cost of which would be not less than $40,000,000.

Would Outclass Other Ships.

One effect, it was said, of the adoption of the cruiser-battleship program would be to render obsolete all existing battleships. The speed of the new type vessels would be useless in individual ships, officers said, and to construct an entire fleet of them would present a stupendous cost. It was pointed out that when Great Britain launched the Dreadnoughts she gave Germany an opportunity to catch up to some extent in naval power, since all older vessels were at once out of date.

In conferences with the British, French, and Italian Admiralty officials Secretary Daniels and his aids willl seek full light upon every lesson taught by the naval engagements of the great war that had a bearing on ship design. It has been said that since there was only one occasion when the opposing battle fleets came into action against each other, no clear light had been thrown by the war on this subject, but in the views of the officers who were with the British fleet during that battle the American officials probably can find the basis for the full report on ship types which they will formulate.

Contracts for the battle cruisers were awarded in March, 1917, but in the case of most plants it was necessary to build new stocks for their construction. Before these were completed, available shipbuilding facilities were concentrated on destroyers and merchant ships, and work on capital warships was held up. Much materials for the ships has been assembled and some work has been done on the engines.

The Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company has the contract for two of the cruisers, while the Fore River Yard and the New York Shipbuilding Company each has the contract for one. The other two were to have been laid down in navy yards, one at the League Island plant at Philadelphia.

As designed, the ships were to have had a tonnage of 34,000, and a speed of 35 knots. They would have been 850 feet long, and 91 feet broad, and would have carried 10 fourteen-inch rifles, 8 torpedo tubes, 18 five-inch rifles, and many smaller guns.

SAYS ELLIOTT IS UNFAIR.

His Statements of Railroad Labor Conditions Misleading, Hines Asserts

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 10. — The charge that Howard Elliott, former head of the New Haven lines and now President of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, did not state fairly the facts concerning labor conditions under Government control of railroads in a recent address was made in a statement issued tonight by Director General Walker D. Hines.

"Mr. Howard Elliott, in a recent address," said Mr. Hines, "urges that Federal control of the railroads is injurious to the public interest because he claims that the Pennsylvania Railroad system had about 16 2-3 per cent. more employes on Dec. 31, 1918, under Federal control than on Dec. 31, 1917, under private control.

"For this comparison Mr. Elliott selects a month of private control characterized by extraordinarily bad weather, when maintenance of way and other outside work was at a standstill on the Pennsylvania system and when blockading of traffic largely diminished car repairs, and selects a month under Federal control in which unusually clear weather prevailed, when business was moving freely and when it was possible and advisable to go forward with maintenance of way and also with car repairing.

"In addition, there are two fundamental mistakes of treatment which vitiate Mr. Elliott's argument and emphasize its unfairness to the Railroad Administration. Mr. Elliott first makes the mistake of treating the Pennsylvania Railroad as typical of the entire country. This is not the case. Taking the railroads under Federal control as a whole, the number of employes in Jan., 1919, as compared with Dec., 1917, shows an increase of only 8 2-10 per cent., much less than the increase on the Pennsylvania system. The increase in the number of employes under Government control as compared with the number employes when the roads were under private management is almost negligible except in the regions of intense war activities, and the most striking of these was the Allegheny region (which includes the Pennsylvania Railroad), where the essential coal and steel were produced and where many shipbuilding yards and other war industries were located.

"Mr. Elliott makes the further mistake of charging up as a necessary characteristic of Federal control under peace conditions temporary features which were really due to war conditions. During 1918 the Railroad Administration organized the railroads on a war basis. There was an extraordinary 'turnover' of railroad employes due to the constant loss of employes to the military and naval service, to the service of operating the American railways in France and to other lines of work which were paying higher wages. This necessitated the employment of many untrained and inexperienced men, and involved the necessity for having more men to do the same amount of work.

"Again, the transportation service under war conditions was in many respects much more burdensome than is indicated by the mere number of ton miles hauled. A vast number of special trains, both passenger and freight, had to be run and an unusual empty car mileage had to be made. Again, the Railroad Administration had to keep organized up to its maximum capacity so as to be ready to put forth a constantly increasing effort.

"The end came so unexpectedly that it was impossible by the end of the year to readjust the organization so as to get rid of these war conditions and get down again to a peace basis. The problem was taken up promptly and has ever since been pursued with vigor in order to get back to a peace basis, but several months will still be required for that purpose."

FEDERAL UTILITIES BOARD

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Several Government departments have under consideration the organization of a board to hear cases involving disputes over rates between local authorities and street car, gas and electric companies, and other public utilities, and to make recommendations. No legal power would be sought to provide for the carrying out of these recommendations, dependence being placed upon moral influence.

The proposal was discussed with President Wilson before his departure for Europe and his approval was asked. Some announcement of the Government's course is expected soon.

The need for some sort of Federal action to stimulate the consideration by local authorities of utilities' applications for higher rates grows out of the fact that wages and costs of materials still are rising, and in many cases higher wages have been granted at the order of the War Labor Board.

City Councils, Utilities Commissions, and other local authorities have been slow to act on applications for higher rates to meet increased operating costs, according to reports to the War Finance Corporation, War Labor Board, and Labor Department. Consequently it is reported that many utilities face a serious financial situation. Since these utilities, particularly street car companies, are large employers of labor and purchasers of supplies, the Government is concerned in their industrial health.

Conferences between officials of the Treasury, Labor Department, and War Labor Board resulted in the suggestion to President Wilson that he approve the formation of a voluntary board, composed of representatives of utilities, employes, and Government departments, to hear appeals on utilities' rates either from the company or public interests. The board's decision would not be absolutely binding, but officials point out that its authority might be somewhat comparable to that of the War Labor Board as now constituted.

Arguments against the plan, presented by Government officials, are that it might savor of extended Government interference with local business affairs, and the Government is represented as anxious to promote the "hands-off" policy as rapidly as readjustment conditions justify. This situation has postponed adoption of the plan heretofore, and conferences between officials and representatives of utilities will be held here this week in an attempt to work out means by which this Government interference can be minimized.

About one hundred public utility corporations have applied to the War Finance Corporation for loans to tide them over the period of financial stress caused by soaring operating costs not matched by rate advances. In most cases the company's financial conditions were regarded as not healthy, however, since adequate security could not be furnished, and assistance was not given. Only nine public utilities have obtained loans, aggregating $39,000,000, from the corporation.

ANSELL PREPARING REPLY.

Says It Will Refute the Charges Made by Crowder.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Lieut. Col. Samuel T. Ansell, former Acting Judge Advocate General, announced tonight that he was preparing a statement "in reply to and refutation of" the letter of Major Gen. Enoch H. Crowder on the administration of military justice which was made public yesterday by the War Department.

Colonel Ansell said the statement would be completed tomorrow, and that the Secretary of War would be asked to give it "the same publicity that was given to the statement of the Judge Advocate General."

MILITANTS DEMAND A SPECIAL SESSION

CAMPAIGNERS END TOUR

Confident that public sentiment will compel the Sixty-sixth Congress to pass the Suffrage Amendment, the twenty-six campaigners of the "Democracy Limited, the Prison Special," ended their cross-country tour last night when 3,500 women gave them a hearty reception in Carnegie Hall. Following speeches and the donation of several thousand dollars to help pay the cost of the trip, the meeting unanimously adopted a resolution calling upon President Wilson to hold an extraordinary session of Congress to pass the amendment.

Before the speeches a pageant of nations where women are voters was enacted, the players walking down the aisles to the stage, where they were received by Miss Vida Milholland, who impersonated Liberty. Shackled America was portrayed by Miss Rhoda Hunt, and accompanying her were a score of girls in black, with long mourning veils, typifying the mourning of the American women over their failure to obtain the vote. After the ensemble, Miss Milholland, holding aloft her flaming torch, sang the Marseillaise.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont was to have acted as Chairman, but yielded her place to Mrs. John Rogers, Jr., who declared that the Democrats were responsible for the failure to enfranchise women. She accused the President of not being in earnest in his support of the measure, since he did not make a party measure of it.

"The militants are here," said Mrs. Henry O. Havemeyer, who was one of those who made the trip, "and we haven't broken anything, not even broken down." She outlined the trip and declared it had been a success in every way.

"In every city we went we had the greatest kindness and consideration from the police," she said, "and I don't want you to judge them because a few thugs wear their uniform. Can't we have our democracy here, now that it is being given to every little nation in Europe that will stand still long enough to take it. I have heard of there being a proposition of exchange of professors, why not an exchange of executives—who knows but that Clemenceau or Lloyd George might come over here, Lloyd George would be all right—they have the vote in Great Britain.

"The Federal amendment is not lost. It will be introduced the day the Sixty-sixth Congress convenes. The National Woman's Party has secured the pledges of two-thirds of the new Senate and House. The Woman's Party is demanding, and all other suffragists will demand, that the President call an extra session of Congress. It is intolerable that the will of two-thirds of the peoples' representatives should be thwarted by the refusal of the President to summon Congress."

Miss Mary Winsor of Pennsylvania, one of those to serve terms in Occoquan Jail, outside Washington, told of the experiences of the prisoners there and declared that nothing in "Prussian prisons could be worse than the things endured by American women in rotten, unsanitary prisons in the very shadow of the Capitol." She asserted that the guards had beaten other women prisoners in the jail.

"The United States fought for democracy," she added, "and who got it? Our enemies. Women fought for democracy and received mockery. The German women have been fully enfranchised and thirty-four of them are seated in the German Parliament. It was easier to get a suffrage bill through the House of Lords at Westminster than to get such a bill even started through the American 'House of Lords.'

Although a detail of twenty men under Sergeant Frank Hand of the West Forty-seventh Street Station was on hand, the only interruption to the meeting happened just before its close, when a sailor who had come in with a delegation from the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Protective Association, which meets in the Rand School, tried to get the floor. He agreed to wait until the speakers had finished, and then he got up and said:

"I am forcefully compelled to state that the actions on the part of certain soldiers and sailors last Tuesday night in front of the Metropolitan Opera House was absolutely unwarranted, and therefore the Soldiers, Sailors and Marines' Association is hereby voicing its protest against this outrage and the brutal treatment shown against such peaceful women. We have with us tonight twenty-five men who have pledged themselves as a guard of honor not only to protect the United States uniform, but also to protect the women in all of their undertakings."

GREEN FOR HIGHWAYS POST.

Gov. Smith Names Colonel to Succeed Duffy, Who May Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 10.—Governor Smith sent to the Senate tonight the nomination of Colonel Frederick Stuart Green of Sands Point, Nassau County, as State Commissioner of Highways to succeed Edwin Duffy of Cortland, a Republican appointee of the Whitman régime.

The question of whether Commissioner Duffy's term has actually expired or has another year to run is a matter of controversy between Governor Smith and the Republican leaders of the Legislature. The Governor said tonight that he expected his nominee to be confirmed, but many observers at the Capitol say that the Republican leaders in the Senate will resist the Governor's move to separate the Republican machine from the patronage in the State Highway Department.

"Is Colonel Green a Democrat?" Governor Smith was asked.

"I sincerely hope so," was the Governor's reply. He smiled as he said it.

When the nomination was received in the Senate it was referred to the Finance Committee without comment.

PHILIP S. DYER DIES.

President of American Horse Shoe Co. Expires After Operation.

Philip Sidney Dyer, manufacturer, organizer of and President and Treasurer of the American Horse Shoe Company of Phillipsburg, N. J., died yesterday at his home, 1 West Sixty-fourth Street, this city, following an operation a week ago. Mr. Dyer was born at Calais, Me., sixty-two years ago, his father, Colonel George W. Dyer, a veteran of the civil war, being a patent attorney of that place and Washington, D. C.

Mr. Dyer was first engaged in the lumber business, and in 1879 took a position with Thomas A. Edison in his laboratory at Menlo Park, N. J., later becoming European representative for the Edison Electric Company, spending ten years at Antwerp.

Returning to America in 1892, Mr. Dyer, with Charles Holton, organized the American Horse Shoe Company. Mr. Dyer was also Vice President of the Sweet Steel Company and of the West Branch Steel Company, and a Director of the Trust Company of New Jersey, the Colonial Life Insurance Company, the Canadian Shovel and Tool Company, the Chipman-Holton Knitting Company of Hamilton, Ontario, and the Duryea Manufacturing Company.

Mr. Dyer was a member of the Engineers' Club, the American Iron and Steel Institute, the New York Athletic Club, the Bankers' Club of America, and the Union League Club of New Jersey. DISCREDITS AIRPLANE TALE.

Baker Knows Nothing of Any Plan to Scrap War Machines.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 10.—Secretary of War Newton D. Baker was in Chicago for a couple of hours tonight on his way to Camp Dodge, Iowa, accompanied by General Peyton C. March. The Secretary's attention was called to a report published in New York that army airplanes were to be scrapped and sold as junk.

"I have seen that story," said Secretary Baker. "I know absolutely nothing about it. General Menoher, who is in charge of the air division, has made no recommendation concerning the disposition of aircraft, and the matter has not come to my attention officially. I cannot make any statement until such a report is made."

Secretary Baker went on to say that he was making a trip to all the demobilization camps and would go as far as San Francisco, returning along the Mexican border.

"I am greatly interested in the efforts that are being made to find work for soldiers as they are demobolized," he said. "I will do everything I can to help the men in this regard, and so will every one else connected with the department."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks were subjected to a great deal of selling at times yesterday, but in case of most issues offerings were absorbed without more than temporary recessions and at the close the undertone appeared to be as strong as at any time last week. The total of dealings was well up toward 1,225,000 shares, the largest day since Oct. 18 of last year. If the first hour's pace had been kept up throughout the session the turnover would have stood among the largest for any day in the history of the Stock Exchange. These figures and comment are supplied for the purpose of emphasizing the size of trading which was also denoted in a broad stock list. The fact that the opposing forces of buying and selling both made their presence felt in turn was not surprising in view of conditions in industry and transportation, to say nothing of the technical situation of the market itself. The marked progress forward last week, culminating in unusual strength on Saturday, invited considerable profit-taking and attracted short sellers. Steel common was one stock to be offered in quantity whenever it started to rise and this may have been accounted for by the decline in unfilled orders reported by the corporation for February. Bookings fell away nearly 675,000 tons and this total, taken together with the recession in January and December, showed a shrinkage of about 25 per cent. from the aggregate of orders on hand at the end of November. Cancellations have played an important part in cutting down contracts, but what the Street paid more attention to yesterday was the indication that new orders were coming in slowly. The corporation apparently has been engaged since war business fell away on working up old orders.

Railroad stocks were prominent and for the most part scored fairly good advances. Their rise in the morning reflected a really substantial increase in buying and when selling pressure increased later it looked as though professional operators on the short side had turned their hand to this department. The comment heard in banking quarters showed a feeling that considerable dickering will have to be completed at Washington over emergency railroad financing before bankers become committed to a comprehensive plan for raising funds. This is presupposing that the War Finance Corporation does not handle all of the advances to be made to the carriers. It appears that railroad bankers desire to have most of the Government contracts with the roads closed in full detail before they undertake a general program for financing them. The conference in Washington today between Government officials and railroad men should do much to clarify the situation and to outline the method which will be followed in tiding over the period before Congress meets again. The market for industrial stocks as well as the railroad share market received much support last week through the confidence held in the financial community that the difficulty which had unwittingly come on the roads would be overcome without much delay. This being the case it is conceivable that the course of securities prices in the near future may be goverened primarily by events at Washington.

Call money rates continued easy. In the foreign exchange market the Paris rate again moved off slightly while the other quotations were steady.

VAIL URGES RISE IN TELEPHONE RATES

COMPANY'S EARNINGS GROW

Net Income of American Telephone and Telegraph Shows Increase Over Preceding Year.

The annual report of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for the year ended Dec. 31 shows net income available for dividends of $43,901,321, an increase of $5,430,215 over the figures shown in the 1917 report. The income of last year was equivalent to $9.93 a share on the $441,947,338 stock, whereas the 1917 amount was equivalent to $8.83 a share on the $435,658,724 then outstanding stock. President Theodore N. Vail in the report gives a review of the operation of the company under Government ownership and says that a 12 per cent. increase in rates is needed to offset the increased commodity costs and higher wages. A diagram indicates that telephone rates have remained practically unchanged while costs have been mounting.

At the end of the year, according to the report, there were 10,992,325 telephones connected with the Bell system, which owned 7,200,000 and connected with about 3,800,000 owned by connecting companies and rural associations.

The wire mileage owned by the Bell companies was 23,281,150, 94 per cent. copper and 60 per cent. underground. The net amount added to plant and real estate was $77,922,631. The total provision for depreciation of plant during the year was $54,000,000.

The capital obligations of the Bell system outstanding in the hands of the public at the close of the year, according to the report, were $691,074,264, of which the outstanding obligations of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company represent $676,283,362 and those of the associated companies $314,790,902. The telephone plants stand on the books of the companies at $1,142,815,341, and appraisals by public authorities indicate a greater actual value. The surplus and reserve aggregate $340,000,000, an increase of over $30 000,000.

In six years the expenditures from employes' benefit funds amounted to $10,534,594.

Tells of Work in War.

The report tells of the war work of the engineers of the Bell system. A complete military telephone system was constructed in France. The Bell system, it is asserted, largely provided the technically skilled men to execute this work, and its engineers assisted and co-operated with the Signal Corps in designing the system. Hundreds of girls, it is said, were specially trained by the Bell companies to operate this system.

Wireless telephone sets for communication between airplanes and between the ground and airplanes, as well as for use on navy hydroplanes and submarine chasers, the report says, were perfected by Bell engineers. An unbreakable secret cipher was developed for the telegraph printer and adapted to other means of transmission. The engineers worked out apparatus for the detection and location of invisible airplanes and for locating accurately the position of enemy artillery.

Mr. Vail says in the report that governmental control under authority of the joint resolution of Congress is in no sense permanent, for the property is to be returned after a limited period. He describes the permanent character of the Bell system and explains the gradual growth of its trained organization, its methods, and its plant, and how it is unique in extent and comprehensiveness.

Discusses Changes for Service.

In regard to charges for service the report says:

"There is an absolute and immutable relation between the total cost of production of any commodity or service and the total costs of the factors or elements which contribute to production. This sounds so commonplace that it seems useless to state it. It would also seem unnecessary to state that the price at which any service can be continuously sold is governed by the cost at which it can be continuously produced, and yet the public have, without any consistency with their individual practice in their other activities, persistently disregarded these truisms and resisted the application of them to charges for the service of public utilities of necessity."

Mr. Vail presents a diagram which shows the rise in commodity costs and wages, and says that telephone rates have remained almost stationary, and relatively to prices of commodities in general they have decreased 30 per cent. "About 12 per cent. increase in rates is needed," the report says, "which appears almost negligible when compared with advances in the cost of other commodities."

TESTS BURLESON'S POWER.

Kansas Presents Telephone Rate Question to Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Steps to have the Supreme Court determine whether Postmaster General Burleson has authority to fix telephone rates within the States were taken today with the filing of a motion by the State of Kansas asking permission to institute original proceedings in the court against the Postmaster General.

If the Supreme Court decides to hear the telephone case on original jurisdiction, it is expected that various States will file similar actions testing the Government's jurisdiction in railroad rate matters. Pending a decision in the telephone case, the Railroad Administration and the National Association of Utility Commissioners will not arrange a test suit over the Government's jurisdiction on intrastate railroad rates.

The proceedings grew out of the order issued by the Postmaster General on Dec. 13 last establishing new classifications and schedules, as well as increasing telephone toll rates, which the State of Kansas declares are "arbitrary, unlawful, unreasonable, and discriminatory."

In their brief the Kansas authorities assert that the rates were put into effect by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company "without authority of law."

State officials held that the joint resolution under which the Government took over control of the telephone and telegraph lines did not confer upon the Postmaster General any such powers, and that if either the resolution or the President's proclamation did confer such powers it is unconstitutional.

The Court is asked to construe the powers conferred by the resolution and to declare the Postmaster General's order of Dec. 13 "violative of the laws and Constitution of the United States." It is also asked that Postmaster General Burleson be temporarily enjoined while the proceedings are pending from carrying out the provisions of the order and that a permanent restraining order be granted enjoining him from enforcing or attempting to enforce th eorder in Kansas.

As is customary in such proceedings, the Court took the motion under advisement.

Both the New and Old Contracts Show Gains for the Day.

The cotton market yesterday again ignored all outside and news development, paid no attention to trade reports from the South, and gave itself over completely to the influences arising from within the market, as ring traders and spot and foreign interests continued the operation of readjusting themselves to the new contract. The market went up, showing gains at the close ranging from 40 to 85 points in the old contracts and from 25 to 60 points in the new contracts. But the advance had nothing to do with anything other than technical market conditions.

It develops, as the present situation uncovers, that the hedge position here was much larger than most observers suspected. It appears now that the spot interests in the South, and probably some of the European, especially the Liverpool, interests, were heavily short of future contracts against their holdings of actual cotton. It is understandable that the Southern spot people should be short of future contracts higher up—they had plenty of warning of a break when the market was 10 cents higher than it is now, but the volume of their hedges is surprising, and apparently it has not been exhausted as yet.

The Liverpool account, too, is surprisingly large, judging from what has been done for Liverpool since the new rule was put into force. Wall Street houses and the commission houses have been selling old style contracts and buying the new style, and this selling of the old, while not so great in volume, is the chief source of supply.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

Receiver Named for Co-operative and Country Milk Companies.

INQUIRE INTO MANAGEMENT

Report Members of League in Both Companies and Producers Unpaid Since September.

Federal Judge Manton yesterday named Edward J. McCrossin, a lawyer, receiver of the Co-operative Milk Producers' Marketing Association and the Country Milk Company, in a proceeding instituted by the Addison County Co-operative Dairy Company, a Vermont corporation. Both of the defendant concerns have offices at 303 Fifth Avenue. Word of the receivership reached Assistant District Attorney John J. Dooling just before the John Doe milk inquiry was resumed before Chief Magistrate McAdoo.

Later in the day Mr. Dooling and Mr. McCrossin conferred, and it was agreed that they should co-operate to ascertain if the receivership proceedings were the result of bad management. The liabilities of the defendant companies were placed at approximately $400,000, which it was said would fall entirely upon the dairy farmers of the State. The amount of the assets was not learned.

Members of the Dairymen's League, it was said, were members of both the defendant and the plaintiff companies and that the interests of all were so intermingled that it might be difficult to disentangle them.

David W. Kahn of Rosenberg & Ball, counsel for the receiver, said that the co-operative and country milk concerns had about thirty creameries located in various sections of the State, that there seemed to be difficulty in marketing the milk and that which was not marketed appears to have been used for the production of cream and butter or was sent to the milk factories, which paid a very small price for the milk. He said that the farmers who supplied the creameries had not received full payment for their milk since September.

A statement by Mr. McCrossin was to the effect that the affairs of the companies were greatly involved, and that it would take him some time to straighten them out so as to procure a clear view of the situation.

"Our inquiries," he continued, "will be directed at once to discover all available assets and to find out the connection, if any, between these concerns and the Dairymen's League. My information is that the league is the farmers' organization, consisting of farmers in the milk-producing business. This organization did not sell the milk.

"The co-operative association comprised some of the members of the Dairymen's League, sold the milk for the producers for one branch of customers, and the Country Milk Company, which I am informed was likewise composed of some of the members of the league, sold to another class. Their officers were all together, and I am informed that all three concerns had the same officers."

Roswell D. Cooper, President of the Dairymen's League, is President of both companies. The Co-operative Marketing Association is set out as an unincorporated association doing business in New York, and the bill in the other case says that the Country Milk Company is a New York corporation. H. A. Mosher of the Dairymen's League is given as Treasurer of the latter company. F. H. Thompson, also of the Dairymen's League, is a Direcotr in both companies. The Addison Co-operative Dairy Company owns 150 shares of the capital stock of the Country Milk Company, it is stated, and has claims for milk delivered amounting to $13,000.

At the office of the Dairymen's League yesterday afternoon it was said that the league is in no way connected with the two concerns placed in the hands of a receiver, although the head of the league is the President of these concerns.

Mr. Dooling said that it had been brought out in the hearings that the State Department of Agriculture had not required either concern to give bond, although this was specifically provided for in the law and was required of other concerns. Letters in great numbers, he said, had been received from dairy farmers alleging that they have been "flim-flammed."

At the milk inquiry yesterday afternoon Loton Horton of the Sheffield Company was the witness. Hearings will continue to be held for some time. The Governor's Milk Commission will hold a second conference today in an effort to fix the price the distributer will pay the Dairymen's League members for milk for April. The prices may be fixed for a period of three months or six months, if the wishes of the Dairymen's League members of the commission are followed. Whatever the prices are there will be a reduction to the consumer, beginning April 1, it was said at the office of the Dairymen's League yesterday.

Representatives from the 1,000 branches of the Dairymen's League will meet at Utica, N. Y., on March 22, it was announced yesterday, for the purpose of taking action on the "League Co-operative Plan," which contemplates the establishment of country milk plants and necessary facilities for the handling of milk, so that the dairymen will be independent of the distributers.

What Amortization Is.

THIS term means simply the partial payment plan applied to real estate mortgage loans. It makes loans safer. It assures prompt payment of principal as well as interest, in cash, on the date due. It fills an urgent need that is now being generally recognized by savings banks, insurance companies, and prudent individual investors.

Under the Straus Plan, every loan is amortized in the form of a first mortgage serial bond issue, this being one of the chief reasons for the record of this House, 37 years without loss to any investor. Net yield, 6%. Denominations, $100, $500 and $1,000. Write for Protection for the Exporter—

A short time ago an executive of one of America's largest manufacturing establishments made inquiry as to what protection American banks abroad can afford manufacturers who, though unfamiliar with foreign laws, undertake extensive business abroad. We wrote him in part as follows:

". . . . While in most of the countries where our branches and affiliated institutions operate there is no legal prohibition against the practice of law by corporations such as exists in this country, nevertheless our branches and affiliated institutions would be very chary about giving pure legal advice. This would be beyond the scope of their business, and they would not undertake the responsibility, even though they may have legal departments of their own or at least lawyers among their officers or members of their management committee. They could, however, put you in touch with the best legal advice, and, as bankers, could advise you or your local representatives or salesmen most fully on general business conditions and policy in regard to drafting contracts. Our managers are necessarily well acquainted, by reason of their handling banking business, with the general requirements of the law where they operate, and know what pitfalls are to be avoided.

"We beg to assure you that the managers of our various banks abroad would be very glad to cooperate with you and your representatives and give you the fullest measure of their advice. This office also offers you its services freely for a like purpose . . . . and any business or banking advice that we might give you would necessarily be fortified by our acquaintance with the laws of those countries . . . ."

Shortly after we received the following reply:

"I wish to thank you for your favor of the 14th instant, which I have read with a great deal of interest. The work you are doing abroad and the services you are in a position to render, especially where legal advice is necessary for the guidance of American manufacturers in such unfamiliar surroundings, is exactly the kind of thing that will contribute most forcibly to the building up of our foreign trade."

We quote the above as a suggestion of the kind of service which we are able to render. Inquiries will receive the personal attention of our officials.

THIS city of 91,474 (1909), the capital of the Amur Government of Siberia and its first seaport and naval station on the Pacific, has a climate much more severe than similar latitudes in Europe and America. Exports consist chiefly of raw materials and include large quantities of timber from surrounding forests, which furnish a variety of excellent woods.

More than $100,000,000 of merchandise from the United States passed through this port to the Russian Armies during the Russo-Japanese War. In 1914 total commerce was $28,233,000, of which $26,481,000 were imports. Its protective tariff is by no means prohibitive, and there is a growing demand for agricultural machinery, including oil tractors. Before the war Germany supplied about 80% of these goods.

TELLS OF ANXIETY FOR BRITISH TRADE

GEDDES DEFENDS POLICY

Australians Here Doubt the Report of an Embargo on Non-British Goods.

LONDON, March 10.—Sir Donald MacLean, the Liberal leader in the House of Commons, asked today for a definite statement concerning the Government's trade policy.

He said that the entire business community was in a state of unrest and uncertainty and that he desired to know what trade could be done and under what conditions. The United States, he added, was doing a large business in markets formerly British in Asia and South America, and Japan also was capturing trade.

Sir Donald said he had been informed on credible authority that something approaching guarantees had been given to some industries for maintaining prices at a certain level for three or four years, including the great soap industry.

Sir Auckland C. Geddes, Minister of National Service and Reconstruction, answering Sir Donald, said that the policy of the Government was that no import restrictions should continue to be imposed on goods coming from any part of the empire without the consent of the War Cabinet or on raw materials required for the industries. Semi-manufactured articles, Sir Auckland added, which were necessary for manufacture would be admitted free, except so far as they were being produced by industries which it was essential to foster in the country, in which case they would be liable to restrictions.

Manufactured articles would be subject to restrictions until Sept. 1, Sir Auckland continued, when the case would come up for revision. There would be no restrictions on exports to nonblockade countries except on foods required for naval and military purposes or home consumption or manufacture. The Government, he declared, hoped that this policy would enable the country's trade to recover and become greater than ever in the past.

Australian Embargo Doubted.

Doubt as to the correctness of a press dispatch from Melbourne which reached here last Saturday, and which announced that the Australian Minister of Customs had issued a proclamation prohibiting the importation into the Commonwealth of all goods other than those of British origin, was expressed here yesterday by H. Y. Braddon, Australian High Commissioner to the United States.

Mr. Braddon's office was entirely without confirmation of the dispatch, and the British Consul General's office likewise lacked definite information. The High Commissioner, who has been for some months in this country in the interest of building up Australia's war-shattered trade, and of cementing her business relations with the United States, expressed the opinion that such action on the part of his Government would be "most unfortunate."

Australian business men in this city emphatically asserted that such a step would be a blunder, which at one stroke would undo all that they had accomplished. They were inclined to believe that definite information that an error had been made in the dispatch would be received.

On the same day the press cablegram arrived, Mr. Braddon received from his Government a dispatch announcing an embargo on the importation of aniline dye products into Australia. He hoped that it was a confused version of this action which had given rise to the report that all American imports into that country were to be stopped.

The High Commissioner's office was besieged all day by business men anxious to learn if all trade with Australia was to be cut off. It was pointed out that Australia had been buying particularly large quantities of American automobiles, especially of the lower-priced grades, while that country had also furnished a large market for the better grades of agricultural machinery and for manufactured products of all kinds. American motion-picture films are sold there in huge quantities.

At present Australia finds in Great Britain a ready market for most of her staple exports, particularly cotton, wool, and wheat. This country, of course, offers her no wheat market because of the embargo on the importation of wheat here. Australians in New York said that in view of these facts any possible reprisal embargo on the part of the United States would not prove immediately embarrassing to Australia.

At the British consulate no reason to question the correctness of the press dispatches had arisen and the disposition there was to accept the action, if it actually had been taken, as merely a part of the general policy of the British Government to secure for the Empire a "breathing space" in which to adjust commercial conditions to a peace-time basis. Every assurance was offered that if the measure were put into effect it would be merely temporary like similar restrictions already announced in England.

The company has been formed to develop approximately 27,000 acres of proved oil lands in Wyoming, California, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, which are either owned or leased. These properties already have seventy-three producing oil wells.

Whitcomb, President of the Union Natural Gas Corporation of Pittsburgh; Bernard Guggenheim, W. E. S. Griswold, Henry Lockhart, Jr., Eugene Mackay, and John Philipp, Jr. Mr. Mackay has been elected President of the new company, which has acquired the Western Union Oil Company and the United Western Consolidated Oil Company, and also the W. D. Head Drilling Company.

Unfilled orders on the books of the United States Steel Corporation at the end of February amounted to 6,010,787 tons, a decline of 673,481 tons from the figures reported by the company on Jan. 31. The February total is the lowest that the company has recorded since September of 1915, when the unfilled orders amounted to 5,317,618 tons. From that time until April of 1917 the volume of orders steadily mounted, attaining then slightly more than 12,000,000 tons. After that record a steady decline set in which carried the unfilled tonnage down to only about one-half of the record month.

In the figures for February it is believed that all of the Government cancellations have been swept away. The decline of more than 600,000 tons from the January figures is taken to indicate that the corporation has been holding to high capacity production very largely by working on old orders, and that the influx of new orders has not been sufficient to counterbalance the subtraction from the unfilled tonnage.

HERCULES POWDER REPORT.

The corrected report of the Hercules Powder Company for 1918 shows net earnings after the deduction of all charges and taxes, amounting to $2,315,603. This, after the deduction of preferred dividends, was equal to $27.15 a share earned on the $7,150,000 common stock. In the preceding year the net was $5,822,402, or $76.19 on the same stock. The gross receipts of the company for 1918 are set down in the report at $45,556,052, which compares with $44,105,533 in 1917.

The report states that when the European war started in 1914 the company was manufacturing 1,500 pounds of smokeless powder a day. At the end of December the company had made and delivered 90,000,000 pounds of smokeless cannon powder, including cordite, and 70,000,000 pounds of TNT, and in November was operating its own plants at a capacity of 5,000,000 pounds of the former and 7,000,000 pounds of the latter per month.

The company, at the request of the Government, operated the United States Explosives Plant C, at Nitro, W. Va., and reported that that plant did not yield any profit during the period of operation. Its capacity was 625,000 pounds of smokeless powder a day, including the manufacture of all ingredients. Some final settlement between the Government and the company is expected in the future.

In the course of the year the company paid Federal taxes amounting to $3,992,629, and subscribed for $5,350,000 in Liberty bonds. All of its war plants have been written off at nominal value, and excess working capital and other funds are being liquidated. The company has put aside a substantial amount for the investigation and development of new lines of work.

Stockholders will vote on both proposals at a special meeting on April 22.

The preferred stock, if approved by the shareholders, will bear 7 per cent. interest. A part of the proceeds from selling new stock will be used to buy additional property. The Griffin Wheel Company has been mentioned as one concern which the Steel Foundries' management has bid for.

From the letter of Mr. C. Bahnsen, President of the Company, describing the bond issue we summarize as follows:

The bonds are secured by first closed mortgage upon fixed assets, the reproduction value of which is stated in an independent appraisement as $2,857,896, after an allowance for depreciation of $599,194. In addition, the balance sheet of the Company shows an excess of current assets over current liabilities of $1,035,656.96.

Net earnings available for interest after all charges, including depreciation, reduction of inventory in conformity with market, and reservation for Federal Income and Excess Profit taxes of $570,664.40, are stated for the year ended December 31, 1918, in accordance with independent audit, as $387,525.29, equivalent to approximately six and one-half times maximum interest requirement upon the bond issue.

The business conducted by the Company was founded in 1900 with an original capital investment of $450,000. The growth of the plant to its present size has been entirely financed through surplus earnings, in addition to regular disbursements to its owners during the period. The growth of the business is evidenced by the increase in gross sales from $750,000 in 1900 to $9,788,914 in 1918.

The Company owns one of the best equipped mills (1,146 loom capacity) in the United States for the manufacture of woolen textiles, located upon a 14½-acre manufacturing site at Passaic, New Jersey, upon which are erected 53 modern factory buildings. The Company's products have a country-wide distribution.

We recommend above bonds for investment.

NEW FORD COMPANY FACING A FIGHT

Old Stockholders Will Oppose Formation of a Competing Organization.

$250 CAR IS FOR WORKERS

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., March 10.—Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, told tonight of the plans of his father, Henry Ford, and himself to withdraw from the Ford Motor Company and establish a new company with factories all over the United States, to make a motor car to sell at $250 to $350.

"The recent Supreme Court decision whereby we must distribute $19,000,000 accumulated profits is the thing that definitely convinced us a new company was essential," said Mr. Ford.

"The new company will be owned entirely within our family, and thus can be directed without outside interference. The plan of dividing our plant among many cities is one we have decided on after deep study. We have no intention of building all our factories at once, nor will we operate them at first as we intend to eventually.

"We expect to start work on our plants in the early part of next year. We are hunting water power, and so far have only two definite locations, and they were bought primarily for tractor factories. They are at Hamilton, Ohio, and Troy, N. Y. You see, it will probably be a year before we launch the new company into operation.

"Our first new factories will be complete and will be able to supply the first demand. Then new factories will be built, one making pistons, one axles, one wheels, and so on until we have a factory for each integral part, and as many complete factories as are necessary to head down transportation costs."

That the announcement of a new company and a lower priced car might be considered an attempt to force minor stockholders in the Ford Motor Company to sell their stock was brought to Mr. Ford's attention.

"I know that will be the conclusion," Mr. Ford said, "but it is not true in the least. We are going to hold our interests in the old company and will not buy a share of any one else's stock, so that charge cannot be borne out."

Mr. Ford said that the new car would be for the use of people who had no urgent need for a motor car except to go to and from work, or for infrequent pleasure trips. "We expect," he said, "to make it a competitor of the street car, rather than of the Ford."

No idea of the new design could be gained from him.

"Lightness, yet increased strength, is one of the features, and we have some new inventions which will reduce the cost," he said, and parried all further questions as to what form the hinted inventions would take.

Neither Henry Ford nor his son will be allowed to withdraw from the Ford Motor Company to manufacture a cheaper automobile or for any other commercial purposes which will antagonize the present Ford interests without a legal fight, according to Elliott G. Stevenson of Stevenson, Carpenter, Butzel & Backus, attorneys for Dodge Brothers. The Dodges own stock in the Ford Motor Company.

"There would be no attempt to keep either Mr. Ford or his son in the firm if they simply wished to retire, but Henry Ford is under contract to the Ford Motor Company, and he will not be allowed to leave the firm to start a competitive business," said Mr. Stevenson.

REOPENS BOND CONVERSION

Secretary Glass Extends Privilege of the 4¼ Per Cent. Class.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Secretary Glass, acting under authority conferred by the Victory Liberty Loan act, today issued an order reopening to holders of converted bonds of the first Liberty Loan and of bonds of the second Liberty Loan the privilege of having their bonds converted into 4¼ per cent. bonds. These two classes of bonds now bear interest at four per cent.

The conversion privilege, which expired last Nov. 9 under the Loan act then in effect, is reopened under the order of March 7 and the extension is indefinite.

Holders of the bonds may present them for conversion at any bank. Regulation forms of applications have been prepared and will be available within a few days. At the time the bonds are converted coupon bonds may be exchanged for registered bonds.

WILSON & CO. GAIN.

The report of Wilson & Co., packers, for the year ended with Dec. 31, 1918, which was made public yesterday, showed net profits amounting to $7,631,535, which, after the deduction of dividends, was equal to $34.19 a share earned on the outstanding 200,000 shares of common stock without par value. This compared with net profits in the preceding year amounting to $6,504,422, or $28.95 a share on the same stock. The following statement was made by Thomas E. Wilson, President of the company, in connection with the report:

"The net profit of $7,631,535.21 made by Wilson & Co. for the year 1918 was made possible only by the enormous volume of sales, amounting to $400,000,000. The profit netted the company was 1.9 cents per dollar of sales.

"The future for the packing industry seems promising, and for some years to come it will be necessary for close cooperation among the producers, packers, and the Government (always keeping in sight the interest and welfare of the consumers) to properly take care of our share of the burden in helping feed the rest of the world."

An extra dividend of four per cent. (4%) has been declared on the Common Stock of LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO COMPANY, payable April 1, 1919, to stockholders of record at the close of business, March 21, 1919.

CUBA CANE SUGAR CORPORATION
Preferred Stock Dividend.

A quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share has this day been declared upon the Preferred Stock of this Corporation for the quarter ending March 31st, 1919, payable April 1st, 1919, to stockholders of record at the close of business March 15th, 1919.

H. F. KROYER, Treasurer.

Tentative Tax Returns

On or before Saturday, March 15, every corporation, association and individual, whether or not having a fiscal year corresponding with the calendar year, must file a tentative or complete Federal Tax return, with payment of 25% of the estimated annual tax.

Nearly all corporations (even if forms for complete returns are finally issued this week) and many individuals will necessarily file tentative returns, and ask for the 45 days' extension.

Individuals who have taxable income from (a) Partnerships, (b) Personal Service Corporations, or (c) Fiduciaries, will in most cases have no practical choice but to make tentative returns, as the information for final returns will not be available.

Partnerships, Personal Service Corporations and Fiduciaries are allowed until May 15th to make the required "information returns," showing the portions of their taxable income accuring to various individuals (but the individual tax payers concerned must, nevertheless, make their tentative returns March 15th, and their complete return within 45 days thereafter).

A Parent Corporation returning jointly with its subsidiaries should identify all the subsidiaries for which the return is made, thus avoiding the possibility of the separate corporations being recorded delinquent.

Inventory Losses as provided in section 214, paragraph (12), may properly be allowed for in estimating the amount of the tax.

Corporations with fiscal years ending with some month in 1918 other than December, even if they have already made a return under the 1917 law, must make another return by March 15th, but they are now required to pay only 25% of the additional tax. This additional tax is estimated (A) by taking that proportion of the tax already returned corre ponding to the months of such fiscal year falling in 1917, (B) adding thereto that proportion of twelve months tax on the same income, at 1918 rates and provisions, corresponding to the months of such fiscal year falling in 1918, and (C) reporting now the amount by which A plus B exceeds the amount of tax previously returned (but paying only 25% thereof).

Certificates of Indebtedness due March 15 may be tendered in payment or, by securing the Revenue Collector's permission, be deposited with the Federal Reserve Bank to his account. Checks in payment do not have to be certified.

TO AIR VIEWS ON MEXICO.

Council on Foreign Relations Names Committee for Hearings.

With the view to devising a solution of relations with Mexico, the Council on Foreign Relations has appointed a committee which includes men of national reputation, to hold open hearings for a free discussion of the situation in the Republic to the South. In addition to hearing verbal reports the committee will also accept written information in the belief that the "freest and frankest" discussion of the subject will perhaps result in a solution.

In announcing the personnel of the committee the council says: "Almost daily, statements are appearing in the public press reciting outrages committed against citizens of the United States, violation of all their rights, destruction of their property, and the council feels that they are rendering a public service in providing a channel through which the stories and statements can be recorded."

If these stories are shown to be true, the council says, that it is prepared to bring these matters to the attention of the State Department and to Congress. Among those who have been asked to serve on the committee are Ole Hanson, Mayor of Seattle; Cyrus H. K. Curtis, President of the Curtis Publishing Company; Judge Richard E. Dowling, of the New York Supreme Court; Judge Ben B. Lindsay, of the Juvenile Court of Denver; Dr. Henry N. MacCracken, President of Vassar College; John Bassett Moore, former Counsellor to the State Department; Alton B. Parker, former Chief Judge of the New York Court of Appeals; Professor William R. Shepherd of Columbia University; Dr. Henry S. Prichett, E. T. Meredith, Swagar Sherley, ex-member of Congress from Kentucky, and Frank P. Walsh, former Joint Chairman of the National War Labor Board.

COLORADO FUEL REPORT.

The annual report of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, just issued, shows gross receipts in 1918 amounting to $48,233,575, compared with $43,518,616 in the preceding year. Operating expenses were $40,709,206, compared with $54,852,972 in 1917, leaving net earnings from operation of $7,464,368, which compares with $8,665,644 in the preceding year. After interest charges, taxes and other charges, the net was $3,132,047, from which was deducted $400,000, the estimated amount of income and excess profits taxes. Dividends of 8 per cent. were paid on the preferred stock and 3 per cent. on the common stock, which amounted to $1,186 875, leaving a net of $1,545,172 to be carried to the credit of profit and loss.

In speaking of the recent campaign to increase coal production President Welborn said: "The manner in which our coal mine employes responded to the United States Fuel Administrator's appeal for increased production made a record in output per man and in reduced idle time that, so far as we are able to learn, was not equaled elsewhere. The production per man per day in January, 1917, was 5.83 tons; in February, 5.92; in March, 6.09; in April, 6.00; in May, 6.33 tons. In June, 1918, a year later, the average was 6.69 tons; in July it was 6.78; in August, 6.93; in September a further gain was made. By October the average daily production had reached 7.26 tons; an increase over January, 1917, of 1.43 tons, or about 24.5 per cent. Equally gratifying was the decrease in the amount of time lost."

The Indian Refining Company in its report for last year shows a net income of $3,703,988, an increase of nearly $900,000 over the preceding year. After the deduction of dividends of $570,000 as compared with dividends of $1,402,500 in the preceding year, there was left a balance of $3,133,988. The reserve for taxes to be deducted from this amounted to $2,500,000, almost double the tax reservation for 1917. The surplus for 1918 is $633,988, and the total surplus of the company at the end of the year was $995,335.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

There was a heavy tone to the market at the close yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Selling pressure in volume developed in the final hour in the leading issues, eliminating previous gains, and final quotations showed slight net losses in many of the securities. Trading was active throughout the session. Prices, as a result of the good demand in the morning session, advanced sharply, the peak of the upturn being reached at midday.

Women's Wash Dresses Go Well.

The styles and the soft, dainty Summer colors in which the new lines of women's wash dresses are now being offered have added greatly to their sale. Buyers who have visited the market were well pleased with the garments and showed their approval by placing some good-sized orders. The sales of these goods in the retail stores in the South have been so good that many large duplicate orders are now being received. Wilson orange is one of the new shades that is being used very extensively in the Spring models.

Burlap Prices Weaken.

Burlap prices continue to weaken here as a result of prolonged neglect of the buyers. Business both here and in the West Coast markets is practically nil. Nominal prices quoted here yesterday were on the bases of 6¾ cents for 8-ounce 40-inch goods and 9¾ cents for 10½-ounce cloths of the same weight. These figures doubtless could be shaded by a good buyer. Due to the lack of demand, the mills at Calcutta will go on a four-days-a-week schedule on April 1. There is also talk there of having an official minimum price set on the goods.

Gray Goods Sales Improve.

Trading took an active turn in the local gray goods market yesterday, and the volume of business done during the day was the largest in some time. March-May deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s were sold at 8¾ cents, while for delivery during this month and next business was done on 39-inch 72-76s at 13 cents and on 38½-inch 64-56s and 60-48s at 8¾ and 7¾ cents, respectively. For the same shipment 39-inch 80 squares brought 14 cents. Thirty-six-inch 5.50-yard sheetings moved at 7¾ cents. All of the foregoing sold in a fairly large way. Good-sized sales were also made on satcens and twills at recent prices.

Maple Leaves Being Used.

Possibly because of the part played by Canadians in the great war, recent reports from Paris have told of the increasing use of maple leaves as trimmings by the leading milliners of that city. This garniture is also making its appearance here, along with other kinds of foliage, over which it seems to have the call. In the dark Autumn shades these leaves are said to be particularly effective. In many of them, tones of dark red, green, brown, and purple are beautifully blended.

Smocks More in Demand.

Although there is still a brisk demand for middy blouses, the sale of these lines is relatively small in comparison with the new lines of smocks. Middies are still being used largely in the gymnasiums of high schools, but outside of this smocks have gradually taken their place. In the South there is a big demand for these goods, especially those made of the lightweight materials. It was said yesterday that many of the buyers who visited the market early have again returned and are duplicating their orders.

Fall Dress Goods Prices.

Fall prices on leading lines of corporation dress goods were not given to the trade yesterday, as had been expected. At the office of Lawrence & Co., who sell the products of the Pacific Mills, it was said that prices were not made yesterday. They were not prepared to say just when the figures would be given out. From Wellington, Sears & Co. came the information that prices on Fall lines of Hamilton dress goods would probably be sent to the trade last night. These prices were not given out for publication, but it was said that, on the average, they were 15 per cent. lower than those quoted for the last Fall season.

New In Dress Trimmings.

Among the newest offerings in dress trimmings are the Persian vestings which are now shown with silk and metal thread effects. Judging from the orders, they are meeting with much success in the retail stores. Both the large and small beaded tassels are very popular. These are offered in plain and fancy colors. For evening wear, tricotine flowers in applique effects are being sold very extensively. The volume of orders received by firms in this trade is so large that in some instances much difficulty is had in filling them.

BOAT OWNERS BALK AT FEDERAL TERMS

LONGSHOREMEN QUIT WORK

Several Thousand Join Strike, as Protest Against Employment of Non-Union Men on Tugs.

The private boat owners belonging to the New York Towboat Exchange and the New York Boat Owners' Association, controlling a majority of the harbor boats, voted unanimously at a meeting last night at the Maritime Exchange to reject the terms of settlement of the harbor strike which were submitted to them by James L. Hughes, the conciliator for the Department of Labor.

These terms were identical with those which were agreed upon between the Railroad Administration and the strikers, granting demands, which were refused to the harbor workers by V. Everit Macy, who acted as umpire in the arbitration by the War Labor Board. These terms, according to the boat owners, would increase wages paid to the men in some cases by as much as 40 per cent. and would make the cost of operating tugs and towboats prohibitive.

After the meeting last night a committee of the private boat owners, consisting of H. M. Lee, Joseph H. Moran, and Joseph J. Glatzmayer, gave out the following statement:

Mr. T. L. Hughes, acting as Federal mediator, called this afternoon upon our attorney, Mr. Bonynge, and presented to him written proposals from the marine workers' affiliation. Upon examination these proposals turn out to be identical in all respects with the terms of settlement agreed upon by the Federal Railroad Administration and the strikers. In view of the fact that the private boat owners have repeatedly stated that they would not be at all interested in any such proposition, the drafting and submission of these proposals looks like a waste of perfectly good time.

At a meeting this evening attended by more than 150 private boat owners these proposals were read and thereupon rejected by rising vote that was 100 per cent. unanimous. No counter proposals of any kind were authorized to be made.

It cannot be stated too plainly or too often that the boat owners have no intention, now or hereafter, of receding on the eight-hour issue. Towboats operate on the tides, and these ebb and flow every twelve hours. Until some gifted statesman can devise a statute setting this law of nature at naught there is no likelihood of an agreement being reached on the eight-hour day.

Some of the boat owners yesterday contended that the Government had created a situation by the terms it had made with strikers, under which private operation of tugs was practically impossible, because of the cost. One of the proposals for ending a strike put forward by the boat owners was that the Government should guarantee the boat owners against losses incurred in operating on Government - approved terms. Some of the boat owners asserted that the strike could end only by the retreat of the strikers from their advanced demands or by Government action in commandeering harbor craft.

The possibility of Government operation of harbor craft is looked forward to without much dread by the boat owners, who feel that they would be certain to receive a fair return and would run none of the risks alleged to be involved in the labor costs which would prevail under the Railroad Administration proposal. The boat owners also feel that if the harbor craft are commandeered now they will be in a good position to deal with the harbor workers when the boats are returned from Government control, whereas by yielding to the demands of the strikers now they would lose their power to deal successfully with future demands of the same kind.

The strike against coastwise shipping lines was continued yesterday when James L. Hughes, the Federal conciliator, failed to induce the lines not under Government control to agree to the terms granted by the Railroad Administration to the strikers. The Southern Pacific, the Savannah Lines, and the Old Dominion Line, which are under Government control, have accepted the terms, but the men have so far refused to work for these lines until the Clyde, Mallory and Ward Lines, and the New England Steamship Company, accept the same terms. These four independent companies have so far declined to make peace on those terms.

Because of the fact that the private boat-owners have been successful in operating several of their boats with non-union crews, several thousand longshoremen quit work yesterday. Strikers in motor-boats and on the waterfront have kept a close watch on harbor traffic and reported at once to the headquarters of the longshoremen when they discovered lighters or barges landing with strike-breakers in charge. The longshoremen were promptly notified to quit work at those piers. Paul Bonynge, counsel for the boat-owners, denied yesterday that the action of the longshoremen had any effect on the strike, and insisted that the great majority of the longshoremen had not struck but had been forced out of employment because few cargoes were being delivered on account of the strike.

"A man out of a job can't strike," he said. "The only longshoremen not working are those who cannot work."

Mr. Bonynge said that Street Cleaning Commissioner MacStay had sent word to him that the unions had lifted the embargo on towboats carrying away the garbage. He said that Paul Vaccarelli, Vice President of the International Longshoremen, had confirmed this, and that the Cahill Towing Company had prepared to tow away the garbage which had been accumulating during the strike. After the Cahill Company had made up its crews, however, the men communicated with President Delahunty of the Marine Workers' Affiliation, who, it is said, ordered them not to man the boats and stated that the strike was on against garbage removal for the city as well as on any other kind of work in private hands. Commissioner MacStay will take up this question today again with President Delahunty.

At union headquarters, it was stated that a letter had been received from the Navy Department denying that any sailors had been allowed to work on private boats fighting the strike, or that the department was in sympathy with the use of uniformed men, whether discharged or not, to fight strikes. The private boat owners have denied using men recently discharged from service to operate boats, asserting that discharged soldiers, sailors, and marines have been used only for the purpose of guarding property. Paul Bonynge, counsel for the boat owners, said yesterday that seacocks had been opened on two of the towboats, and that they were on the verge of sinking when discovered and bailed out.

A raid was made at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by detectives under Inspector Conboy at the headquarters of the Masters, Mates and Pilots, one of the striking organizations, on the eleventh floor at 23 Beaver Street, and nineteen men arrested on the charge of disturbing the peace by playing poker and talking boisterously. The private boat owners, who met at the Maritime Exchange shortly afterward, issued the following statement:

We are informed that the police have today raided the meeting rooms of the Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots, and arrested twenty-four of their number for gambling. This looks very much like another Government bounty gone wrong and shows that for a seafaring man the perils of the land exceed those of the water. It might be suggested that Satan has provided this work for idle hands, but we prefer to believe that the men have not known what else to do with the money that Washington has presented to them.

The nineteen prisoners were released in the Men's Night Court when the complaint clerk informed the Magistrate that the detectives who made the arrest had not sufficient evidence on which to base a complaint.

Vice President William A. Maher said that the Erie, Lehigh Valley and Pennsylvania Railroads had been warned that harbor craft under their control had been caught doing work for private concerns, and that such violations would result in a renewal of the strike on the freight boats and ferries of these companies.

STRIKE HOLDS LINERS IN PORT.

Shortage of Coal Ties Up Mail and Passenger Service.

The harbor strike has had a serious effect on the transatlantic mail and passenger service, as it has prevented liners from getting coal and practically tied them up in port.

The agents of the Cunard Line decided yesterday that as they could not obtain coal for the Caronia, after postponing her sailing from last Friday, they would send the liner out at noon tomorrow for Liverpool and let her put into Halifax to fill her bunkers with fuel before proceeding on her voyage.

The Mauretania, which is scheduled to sail at noon tomorrow for Southampton, has no coal so far, and the prospect is not very promising. If the strike continues it is probable that the Cunard Company will also send her to Halifax for coal.

The White Star liner Lapland, which was to sail at noon today for Liverpool, is being held until noon tomorrow in the hope of getting fuel.

The French Line steamship Niagara has also been delayed in sailing, and the agents said yesterday that they hope to get her away for Bordeaux some time tomorrow.

The White Star liner Adriatic will arrive this afternoon from Liverpool via Halifax with nearly 800 passengers on board, a large number of whom are officers and men on their way home to Australia. As the officials of the company cannot get tugboats, the Adriatic will come up the river on slack water about 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and will be docked with the aid of her own engines and the powerful electric winches on shore.

SAYS LABOR WON'T YIELD.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Organized labor will refuse to "share in the results" of price readjustments if its "living standards are to be endangered," Frank W. Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, said in a statement tonight. Mr. Morrison criticised the declarations made by the Federal Reserve Board in a recently published review of its forthcoming monthly bulletin that all factors in production "should bear their share in the general process of readjustment."

"The board seems to accept the economic error," said Mr. Morrison, "that the price of a commodity and the price of labor are identical. Where wages are reduced, living standards of the workers are immediately affected and the home suffers."

Calling attention to the board's statement that if the "readjustment is equitably carried out, its effect will not tend to favor any particular class or group in the community," Mr. Morrison said:

"The working man will ask, if his living standards are to be endangered, if the same theory will apply to the employer, or is it intended to have the latter merely dispense with some of his war-time profits? There is nothing equitable about such an arrangement. Its theory is unsound and in practice it is impossible."

Folders, Cards

SHAW-WALKER filing systems are built for one purpose—the quick finding of correspondence. They are standardized for every kind of business, saving you the cost of special installations.

Shaw-Walker indexes, folders, guides and cards are of a quality unsurpassed by any others made today. The stock is put through for us specially at the mill, and is made up in ways to give long service plus speed of operation.

Send today for a new kind of book about filing supplies; tells the story in pictures, not mere words. It is called, "How to File Letters and Cards."

THE RIGHT FILING CLERK

The best files, the best systems, the best quality of supplies will not give proper service if your file clerk does not thoroughly understand filing. We can supply you with a neat, accurately trained file clerk who knows filing from the ground up. Or for slight expense we will train one of your employes to perfect filing efficiency. Send for information.

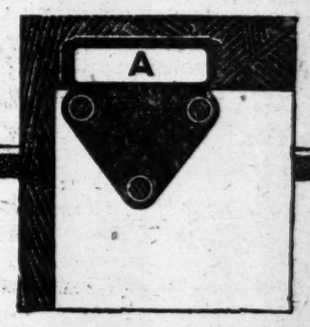
Shaw-Walker metal tip guides are long-lived, because the tip extends well down onto the card and is attached by three eyelets instead of two. This means extra stiffness and strength.



Real-Fruit Desserts

A wealth of fruit juice is condensed to flavor each dessert. So it brings you true-fruit dainties, healthful and delicious, at a trifling cost.
